U.S. NOTE TO JAPS RAISES MEXICAN SEIZURES ISSUE

Policy Nearer Home Less Severe.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The solicitude of the Roosevelt administration for American rights in China, as expressed in the blistering note to Japan made public yesterday, has raised the question: What about American rights in Mexico?

The note to Japan, one of the strongest this government has dispatched to a foreign country since the German submarine attacks in world war days, demanded strict observance of the open door policy in China and clearly threatened retaliatory measures unless Japan ceased discriminating against American trade and enterprise.

The tone of the note indicated that, at the very least, the United States might put Japan on the blacklist and refuse to give her the lower rates carried in reciprocal trade agreements. Only Germany now is on this blacklist, because of discriminations against American trade.

400 Million Involved.

No such vigorous demands have been made upon the communist régime of President Lazaro Cardenas in Mexico concerning the confiscation of American owned oil and agrarian properties valued as high as 400 million dollars. Since last March, when Mexico seized the oil properties, Secretary of State Cordell Hull has been exchanging notes and memoranda with the Mexican government and negotiating directly with the Mexican ambassador, but there has been no indication that Mexico intends to make a substantial settlement.

Mexico bluntly refused to submit the dispute to arbitration, thus flouting the treaty of arbitration signed at Washington in 1929, and subsequently refused mediation on Secretary Hull's terms, which called for a "token" down payment and a promise to cease the practice of confiscating American properties.

Inconsistency Noted.

Senate foreign relations authorities who noted the apparent inconsistency in the administration's attitude respecting American rights in China and Mexico declined to comment publicly because of the present status of negotiations. There is a possibility that some new proposal soon may be forthcoming and, anyway, the administration at least can say that it is negotiating.

Since these negotiations are being carried on secretly, there is no record on which their good faith, however much suspected, can be challenged, the senate observers declare.

The latest reports from Mexico concerning the negotiations said the Cardenas régime was willing to pay $500,000 a year on the $10,000,000 of claims for small farms which are the sole properties involved in the present negotiations.

Reports Silver Buying Involved.

Mexico's willingness to make even this trifling annual payment, according to the unconfirmed reports, was conditioned upon the resumption of large scale Mexican silver purchases by the United States treasury. With the silver market thus artificially sustained, it would be good business for Mexico to pay $500,000 a year.

The left wingers of the Roosevelt administration have been frankly sympathetic toward the Cardenas experiment in collectivism, which was acclaimed by John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. dictator, as another New Deal when he addressed the communist international labor congress in Mexico City last month.

It was ironic, therefore, when the Mexican government announced yesterday that it had contracted to sell several million dollars' worth of oil—from the confiscated American and British properties—to Fascist Italy.

Senate isolationists look upon the apparent inconsistency in the state department's attitude respecting American rights in China and Mexico as another indication that the administration's foreign policy, like its fiscal policy, is on a twenty-four hour basis.

Fireman Zips Down Pole and Buddies Put Him Out

Sapulpa, Okla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fireman John Brixie came whizzing down the brass pole at the firehouse and a moment later yelled loudly—for the fire department. His fellow firemen ran up to find the friction of the slide had ignited matches in Brixie's shirt pocket.

10,000 ROUNDED UP AND HURRIED ACROSS BORDER

Routed Out of Beds by Nazi Police.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—A mass deportation of Polish Jews from Germany was enforced today by Nazi authorities. Trains crowded with Jewish men moved toward the border all day. Many of the men were coatless and hatless and some were sketchily dressed because they were rounded up by police starting at 4 o'clock this morning, and there was no time to prepare for the compulsory trip.

German authorities were said to have rounded up nearly 10,000 Polish Jews and sent them to Poland. There are 150,000 Poles in Germany.

The Jews were not told what will happen to their wives and children whom they had to leave behind, nor did they know what the Poles would do to them when they arrived in their native land.

Caused by New Polish Law.

Non-Jewish Poles in Berlin believed Polish authorities would organize camps similar to German concentration camps for the Jews deported from Germany.

The deportation was the result of a new Polish citizenship law under which all Poles living abroad must have their passports renewed. The deadline is tomorrow.

[A dispatch from Warsaw said Poland had made "energetic intervention" in Berlin against the deportation of Polish Jews. Negotiations were under way, it was said, by which the Poles hoped to get Berlin to rescind its deportation orders. Warsaw hoped also, it was asserted, that those deported from Germany would be allowed to take their property with them. One Warsaw source blamed a "misunderstanding" of the citizenship law for the deportation.]

Early this month the Polish consulate called upon all Poles in Germany to present their passports at the consulate, where those enjoying official Polish approval would be given new visas. Without these passports Poles would not be able to return to their homeland as a result of the new citizenship law.

Feared Losing Nationality.

Many Jews feared the Polish authorities would use this new regulation to deprive them of their nationality. The Germans also suspected this, and said they did not want to risk having thousands of Polish Jews stranded in Germany as men without a country. Under international law, no country may deport persons without a nationality.

To avoid having Polish Jews stranded in Germany, German authorities said they negotiated with the Poles, but that the latter "rejected Germany's compromise offer."

Then, said German authorities, they had to act quickly, since no Pole can enter Poland without a new visa after tomorrow. The deportation followed.

Women Clamor at Consulate.

The Polish embassy and consulate turned deaf ears to pleas for help from the wives and children of their Jewish countrymen. American correspondents who telephoned to the Polish officials for information were told that the officials knew nothing of the matter, though hundreds of women and children were milling around madly before their windows trying to enter the consulate and clamoring for advice.

Polish diplomats and aristocrats, when reached by personal visits, fluttered their hands, shrugged their shoulders, and blamed the German police.

The Jewish men who were taken from their families in the early hours this morning were packed into police cars and auxiliary cars of all descriptions. Old and young, rich and poor were crowded into the vehicles. For some unexplained reason the regular police proved insufficient for the morning raids, and a number of officials were pressed into service.

Knocks Awaken Households.

In many Berlin houses all inhabitants were awakened by the loud knocks of the police and their amateur aids, and by the subsequent weeping of the families of Jews taken into custody. One Berliner commented: "If the GSP [secret police] had handled the matter it would have

THE TEAM THAT DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE

Runaway Trip Fails; Boy, 12, Shoots Himself

Nicholas Bouras Jr., 12 years old, was tired of working in the lunchroom of the Burnside elementary school where he is a pupil in the 7B grade. And yesterday it was a warm Indian summer day.

Robert Fender.

At the noon recess Nicholas met his chum, Robert Fender, 14, of 8913 Cottage Grove avenue. Robert is a pupil in 8A. Between them they had $2. They planned to start for California by way of Anderson, Ind., where Robert has some relatives.

South on foot the boys started from the school at 91st street and Langley avenue. Late in the day they paused at a filling station in Lansing.

Persuaded to Return.

Curious about the young travelers, the station attendant learned they were runaways and called a policeman. The policeman soon convinced them they should go home.

He put them on a bus which took them to 89th street and South Park avenue. This was shortly after Nicholas' mother had reported to Sergt. Fred Tapscott of the Burnside police the disappearance of the two.

Frantic with worry, Mrs. Bouras, wife of a WPA employé and mother of five other children, was waiting for news in the Fender home. At this moment the boys were trudging up the alley behind the Bouras bungalow at 831 East 89th place.

Back of No. 717, Nicholas stopped. Slowly he drew a pistol from his pocket, startling his chum, who did not suspect he had it.

Threatens Suicide; Chum Laughs.

"I think I'll kill myself," mumbled the boy, "instead of going home. If I go home they'll punish me."

"Ah, go on home," laughed Robert. "Don't be silly. Nothing will happen. So long. I'm going home."

Robert started walking up the alley alone. Half a block away, he heard the sound of a shot. Turning, he saw Nicholas lying on the pavement. Terrified, the Fender boy burst into his home and blurted the news of the tragedy to Mrs. Bouras.

Mrs. Bouras ran to the alley and found her son had shot himself through the head. A neighbor took him to the Burnside hospital. Physicians said he is not expected to live.

A JURY DECIDES: MAN OWNS THE BETROTHAL RING UNTIL WEDDING

A jury agreed with Henry P. Urbanis yesterday that the engagement ring belongs to the man until marriage.

Because his fiancée's relatives failed to give him back the ring after her death, Urbanis filed suit. Jurors in Judge Rudolph Desort's court awarded him $750, the appraised value of the ring.

Urbanis is a stock broker. He lives at 3401 North Monticello avenue with the wife he married after the death of his first fiancée, Miss Loretta Burns. He gave Miss Burns the ring in 1918. Deaths of relatives postponed the wedding five times. They planned eventually to be married in 1935. A few days before the date set for the ceremony she suddenly died.

The verdict was against three sisters and a brother of Miss Burns: Irene, Helen, and James Burns and Mrs. Mazie Small, who live in the Burns family home at 3734 Greenview avenue. Urbanis' attorney was Harry S. Greenstein. The relatives were represented by Joseph Haas.

FIREMEN GET IN ON CRISP EMBERS OF A FISH FRY

It was fish fry night last evening in the tavern of William Nitz at 11 Pulaski road, Calumet City. And a goodly crowd was there, mouths watering in anticipation of juicy fried perch.

Nitz was in the kitchen, personally turning the fish as they browned over the flames, when his customers began calling for drinks. Nitz served a beer. Then he served another. Business was rushing, and for the moment, Nitz forgot about his fish.

He forgot until a burst of smoke brought him rushing to the kitchen. It was burning merrily. The Calumet City fire department extinguished the blaze with slight damage.

The fish? They were fried—black. Nitz asked his customers to come back next week when the fish would not be so well done.

Nine Lives of Dignity Last Tabitha 29 Years

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Other cats in the neighborhood might spend their nights in song and carousal—but not Tabitha, the large gray Maltese belonging to Mrs. Gilbert T. Sutton of Staten Island. That's why Tabitha lived twenty-nine years and seven months, F. M. Kettner, veterinarian, said today as the cat was being buried in the garden of her home.

Identify Guest of N.Y. Judge as Smuggler

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The smuggling case involving Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer and his wife became more complicated today with the disclosure that a man they entertained as a dinner guest has a long international police record.

A year ago the judge paid duty and penalties of $10,400 on purchases he and his wife "forgot" to declare after a trip to Europe. They went abroad again this year and returned a month ago. Yesterday their Park avenue home was raided by customs' agents who seized a large quantity of jewels and finery allegedly smuggled into this country.

Dines at Judge's Home.

The Lauers' dinner guest, Albert N. Chaperau, is held by authorities under $20,000 bail. He is accused of posing as a personal representative of the Nicaraguan consul to avoid a customs inspection of nine pieces of luggage he brought here from France on Oct. 7.

Since 1916, police said, Chaperau has been arrested in Brussels, Belgium; Montreal, Canada; Paris, France, and New York. He usually obtained the dismissal of the grand larceny charges on which he was most often arrested, but in 1916 he served a term in a New York reformatory under the name of Nathan Wise.

An affidavit by Rose Weber, a German maid discharged by the Lauers last Friday, alleged that Chaperau brought smuggled finery to the Lauer apartment the day after he arrived here on the Ile de France.

Maid Relates Conversation.

She said the dapper little man dined with the Lauers and that Mrs. Lauer thanked him after the removal of the contents of a hat box and valise he had brought to the apartment. Her affidavit also related a conversation between Chaperau and the Lauers which purported to indicate the judge and his wife had paid the man for his services.

Customs Agent Gordon Pike made an affidavit that Chaperau carried to the Lauer home a hat box and valise filled with numerous garments, hats bearing aigrettes made of jewels and birds of paradise plumage, and other merchandise.

The maid's statement indicated to customs agents that the Lauers themselves also had brought expensive apparel and jewels from France and had failed to declare the property upon their arrival last month. The maid said Mrs. Lauer secreted the contents of one of five trunks in a safe hidden in a clothes closet.

State Husking Crown Won by Young Mother

Belvidere, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The thud of ears of corn tossed against the bangboard of a husking wagon was loud and frequent today as Mrs. Mildred Bye, 25 years old, of near Garden Prairie, swung her way to victory between two tall rows of corn. The husking match was held in the Godfrey Karlson farm cornfield, near here.

Mrs. Mildred Bye.

She defeated Boone county's champion woman corn husker, Mrs. Elizabeth Wurtz, 34 years old, of near Capron, an even sturdier farm wife who wore a cotton housedress. Mrs. Bye wore overalls and shirt belonging to her husband, and they were a snug fit. He watched admiringly from the background.

Too Busy Last Year.

"They wanted Mildred [Mrs. Bye] to be in the contest last year," explained her mother, Mrs. Minnie Zimmerman of near Woodstock, who as a girl husked thirty-five bushels in half a day herself, "but Mildred was in the hospital and she just couldn't make it. Her baby is just a year old now."

Eleven women lined up in their appointed places, each beside a numbered wagon drawn by a tractor. Men relatives gave them last minute instructions. The women donned new white gloves, fitted husking hooks to thumbs, or pegs on fingers. Mildred used a peg. Then they rubbed the gloves in damp earth to keep them from slipping.

Frank Lauder lifted his ancient English fowling piece, brought to Spring township from England by his grandfather in 1849, and with the finger he had injured in loading the gun, fired it. With a fury the women started.

Each Has Her Following.

The sun poured down. Sweat streamed from weathered faces. A fine dust filled the air, and a smell of corn, as the women silently worked, wresting the ears from the stalks, husking them and pitching them into the moving wagons without a glance. If the ears went over the top, or under the wagon, they were counted against them.

Each woman had her following among the hundreds of spectators. Mrs. Margaret McMackin, a neighbor of Mildred Bye, followed along with a 3 year old in her arms and three others trailing. Men carried children on their shoulders.

Mrs. Bye husked 8.95 bushels in thirty minutes, as compared to Mrs. Wurtz's 7.86 bushels. Mrs. Charlotte Ellwanger, 25 years old, of near Capron, a slight woman who was tough enough to wear no gloves, won third place, with 7.25 bushels. Other contestants were: Dorothy Young, Elizabeth Larson, both of near Belvidere; Florence Brown, Cecel Knepprath, and Vernie Henninger.

COUNCIL TAKES SUBWAY GRANT; ASSAILS ICKES

Mayor Signs at Once for Early Start.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

The city council yesterday unanimously but reluctantly accepted the conditions imposed by Harold L. Ickes, Public Works administrator, as the price of an 18 million dollar subway grant for Chicago. Several aldermen accused Ickes of acting like a dictator in the subway matter, but then voted for his conditions when they were told there was no other way to get the subway money.

The council passed an ordinance approving a contract for the grant and authorizing Mayor Kelly to accept it. The mayor immediately signed the ordinance and contract. The step assured a beginning of subway construction by the middle of December.

Ickes Stops in Chicago.

Ickes was in Chicago for several hours yesterday on his way from the Pacific coast to Washington. He expressed satisfaction over the action of the council. When informed of the charges made by aldermen, he said:

"Who cares about that? They accepted the contract, didn't they? They didn't have to accept it."

Under the contract Ickes has the power to cancel the whole grant agreement if the city does not comply with a long list of special conditions. Relatively few of these are concerned directly with building the subways.

He can call off federal aid if the city does not approve a traction unification ordinance by next July 1 or if that ordinance is not approved at a referendum by Sept. 1. He must approve the new ordinance and the capital structure of the traction companies when they are reorganized.

Orders Congress Street Work.

Ickes can cancel the grant if the city consents to federal court decrees in the reorganization proceedings for the traction companies without first getting his approval in writing. And he can cancel it if the city does not proceed with the widening of Congress street when the state makes money available for the purpose.

Ickes said he would consider no changes in the contract unless the city asks for them. Regarding the conditions imposed, he said:

"The stipulations are necessary to protect the government's investment. The subway will not be useful until other transportation improvements are effected."

The council action followed a stormy session of the local transportation committee. Many aldermen asserted at this session that Ickes was usurping the council's authority over Chicago traction and transportation problems unrelated to the subway.

Dubs Ickes a Hitler.

"This is a Czechoslovakia agreement and Ickes is the Hitler," Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th] shouted during the committee meeting.

"Ickes is a dictator in this matter," Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] declared before the council. "He procrastinated until there is now a short time limit we must meet. We are placed against the gun and told to take the contract or lose the subway.

"I want the world to know that I vote for this only because I am compelled to by the autocratic and dictatorial attitude of the secretary of the interior [Ickes]. It is unfair to send the city council a contract with clauses that do not permit time to debate or discuss with him its provisions. This dictator says we must do it now.

"If we use all the gas tax money on Congress street how can other improvements like the Avondale highway be built? I hesitate to go back to my people and say we can't have the Avondale improvement because we are spending all the money for Congress street."

Problem for All, Council Told.

"You are speaking for yourself now, Ald. Ross," Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] interrupted.

"I am speaking for you, too," Ross replied. "You are going to have to answer the same question in your own district."

Other remarks during the discussion of the contract follow:

ALD. GEORGE D. KELLS [28th]: "It appears to me Washington is exceeding its authority. I want to register a vigorous protest against this contract and what it means to Chicago."

ALD. ROGER J. KILEY [37th]: "I want to get this straight. We get 18 million dollars. In return we surrender control over Congress street, the State street bridge, and the traction problem. We get 18 millions and the government gets authority over property worth ten times 18 millions.

ALD. QUINN: "We should have the right to question the provisions but we have to hurry."

ALD. WILLIAM A. ROWAN [10th]: "I vote enthusiastically for the contract and all of its provisions."

ALD. JAMES J. McDERMOTT [14th]: "The people of Chicago have had their prerogatives taken away."

Shop Closing, says Sexton.

WILLIAM H. SEXTON, city traction counsel: "The butcher shop closes Dec. 31 and there will be no meat after that. If anybody makes a false move you can't tell what will happen."

ALD. JOHN J. DUFFY [19th]: "You wouldn't get five votes for this if we were not compelled to pass it. We are sitting here wasting our time. We can't change this contract, so let's pass it and get it over with."

ALD. QUINN: "You're out of order."

OFFERS COUNCIL SUPERHIGHWAY PLAN FOR CITY

The city council yesterday received a long range program for super-highway construction in all parts of the city. Proposed routes are:

Northwest side, via Kingsbury street and Avondale avenue; southeast side, Indianapolis boulevard and Leif Eriksen drive via the west edge of Jackson park; Southwest side, via State street, Archer avenue and the Illinois-Michigan canal, and west side, via Fulton street or Congress street when widened.

Provision is made for supplanting any of these with an acceptable alternative route. The program was prepared by Ald. John A. Massen [48th]. He said that he had drafted the proposal providing for all parts of the city because of the clause in the subway contract adopted yesterday by the council which gives a favored position to the Congress street widening for the west side.

Massen called his program an answer to most of the city's trafic problems. The resolution embodying it was referred to the council's committee on trafic.

'38 PERSONALTY TAX HEARINGS TO START TUESDAY

Whealan and Drymalski Review Records.

Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski, the two members of the county board of tax appeals, announced yesterday they will begin hearing complaints against 1938 personal property assessments Nov. 1. About 25,000 objections are expected to be filed. This would equal the number reviewed for 1937.

In connection with their announcement they reported that either jointly or singly they have participated in 158,252 tax hearings and have cut $88,040,756 from assessment rolls—real and personal—from 1933 through 1937. They expect to catch up with current tax assessments in 1939.

Refer to Lag in Payments.

The report referred to the lag in assessment and collection of taxes that has existed in Cook county since 1928. In that year the courts threw out the entire quadrennial assessment. A new 1928 assessment, capable of standing up against a renewed court attack, was not completed until two years later. Since then the county's assessing and collecting machinery has been grinding in high gear to regain lost ground.

"We've been working hard to complete our part of the assessing work," Whealan said yesterday. "We expect to be caught up next year, which will permit 1939 tax bills to go out to property owners in the year 1939."

"When I came into office in 1934 we began hearing complaints against 1933 real estate valuations. In those hearings 13,290 cases were considered and $13,496,010 cut from the rolls.

Complaints Drop in 1934.

"Against the 1934 rolls the real estate complaints dropped materially, because the power of the board of appeals was questioned. It became necessary for the two members to carry the matter to the Supreme court for determination of their powers.

"The Supreme court ruled the board of appeals has the right at any time to review an assessment and change it—provided the board is endeavoring to make that assessment fair and equitable. For 1934 there were 9,802 complaints and the board allowed reductions of $4,198,516.

"The 1935 assessment was a quadrennial revaluation. A total of 52,025 complaints were received and reductions amounted to $50,384,423. The 1936 assessment brought 26,712 complaints against realty and $10,974,178 in reductions.

"The 1937 realty complaints totaled 19,375 and reductions amounted to $8,987,629. This brought our total reductions to the $88,040,756."

Whealan was elected in 1934 with the late Fred W. Brummel. On March 4, 1935, Brummel died and Drymalski was appointed by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to serve with Whealan. Two years ago Drymalski was elected to serve out Brummel's unexpired term.

"In all the time I have been here," said Drymalski yesterday, "I have seen only six taxpayers who became incensed and caused a commotion over the board's treatment of their complaints. And twelve property owners have come before us demanding to have assessments on their property increased."

Call Tax Hearings

Emmett Whealan (left) and Paul Drymalski, members of board of tax appeals, announce hearings on assessment appeals will be started Nov. 1.

DEMOCRATS TOLD TO ELECT SLATE OR LOSE JOBS

Approximately 1,000 Democratic employés from Cook county country towns yesterday were warned at a pep session in the Morrison hotel that their jobs depend upon the outcome of the election next month.

"This election means more to you job holders than to any one of the candidates," warned Emmett Whealan, candidate for reëlection to the board of tax appeals. "Defeat of one candidate will imperil every one's job."

"Don't be overconfident," pleaded Clayton F. Smith, candidate for reelection as president of the county board. "The Republicans are out now but they'll work to get your jobs. Get out and ring some door bells. Spend every spare hour at it between now and election day."

"Give us five Democrats for the country town commissioners and there won't be a Republican working for the county," declared Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the county coördinating [harmony] committee.

Other city and state officials stressed the importance of electing Democrats to the county board. The country towns are now represented entirely by Republicans.

THOUSANDS HEAR BID FOR VOTES AS ELECTION NEARS

Large Gatherings Hear Harding, Courtney.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

For the Republicans, Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, and for the Democrats, Congressman Scott W. Lucas, his Democratic opponent, were the headliners again in scores of political meetings held last night by the rival parties.

Democrats held two of the largest gatherings of the campaign. Boxing and wrestling matches helped draw 15,000 persons to the International amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets, where candidates were introduced from the prize ring by Jacob M. Arvey, acting chairman of the Cook county central committee. State's Attorney Courtney, speaking before 8,000 persons in the 132d Infantry armory at 2653 West Madison street, urged a straight ticket vote.

Predicts G. O. P. Homecoming.

Republicans, without the benefit of pay rollers, held their largest meeting at 3458 South State street, where 3,600 Negroes packed the hall. George F. Harding, Republican national committeeman, predicted that Nov. 8 would see the greatest homecoming of Republicans in the history of the G. O. P. A Republican street corner meeting at 63d street and Kedzie avenue had 2,000 listeners.

At both of these meetings Lyons hammered away on the point that there are 13 million unemployed. He said the New Dealers had broken their promises to provide work and security.

"Where Are Promised Jobs?"

"Six years ago a voice came out of the east," said Lyons. "It said, 'If you will but elect my party to power, all shall have work and all shall have security.' It said the same thing in 1934, and again in 1936.

"Now I say—where is the work and where is the security? Are there not 13 million men begging for jobs this very moment?

"The work is not here. You know that. Every reasonable citizen, Republican or Democrat, must admit the New Deal is the most colossal hoax, the biggest fake, and the worst humbug ever perpetrated upon the American people."

As to relief and WPA, Lyons said no sane person could doubt that Republicans are at least as kindly toward their fellow men as the Democrats. But he said that corruption taints the entire relief structure.

"I specifically promise to support a bill at the next session of congress which will make it a crime to distribute relief money or social security funds for any political purpose," he said.

Asks Free Enterprise.

He repeated the Republican program to bring back jobs: a tarif wall to keep out foreign commodities imported into the United States which had a value last year of 3 billion dollars; releasing business and industry from New Deal "meddlers," and lifting the burden of taxation.

Applause for Lyons was the wildest, however, when he described one group of voters whose support he does not want—the communists. At his appearances he waved communist pamphlets urging his defeat and said it made him certain that he was on the right side in the campaign.

Lucas told audiences at four meetings that the Republican plan for $30 a month pensions for unemployed persons over 65 is Utopian. He credited the Democrats with enacting the law by which needy aged in Illinois receive an average of $17 a month.

Assails Aims of G. O. P.

"In these troubled times," Lucas said, "with grave crises facing us at every turn, our people are crying out for leadership. One party, the Democratic, responded with men and with a program. The other extends candidates who lack stability, who substitute invective for statesmanship, and whose objectives are as varied and as contradictory as the points of a compass."

Lucas asserted that the Republicans don't care where they are going so long as they can seize control of the government.

He hailed what has been done by the New Deal as a great advance on economic and sociological frontiers.

"Despite mutterings of the reactionary prophets of gloom," he said, "this nation, rich beyond the dreams of its pioneers, always will offer ample rewards to those who have faith in the foundation laid down by our forefathers, faith in our national destiny, and faith in themselves.

"Their candidates cannot do their own reasoning, else how could they blindly propose the return of a prohibitive tarif wall which was largely responsible for the collapse of American agriculture in 1932?"

Lucas dealt with the communism issue only indirectly, asserting that "we don't like dictators and they don't like us."

But a Democratic congressman seeking reëlection implied that he would deal sternly with newspaper publishers who print cartoons castigating the New Deal. He mentioned THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and an afternoon newspaper. The speaker was Leonard W. Schuetz of the 7th congressional district, who appeared in a meeting in a church hall at Barry and Francisco avenues.

"If attempts were made to print such cartoons in other countries the publishers would have been shot," said Schuetz. There was no applause for his violent remarks.

Speaks to Negro Voters.

Wiliam R. McCauley, Republican nominee for state treasurer, told colored voters last night that he has received information that the New Dealers were sending into Illinois Senator Bilbo of Mississippi. Bilbo, he reminded them, introduced a proposal in the senate that 8 million colored citizens of this country be deported to Liberia.

Louie E. Lewis, Democratic candidate for the same job, speaking at Wheaton, declared that his party was the laboring man's true friend. He charged that opponents had records which showed they are unfriendly to labor. Lewis also blamed the press for unfairness to the Democrats, quoting from financial pages of THE TRIBUNE in an attempt to show that the nation's economic condition is good.

Lyons' supporters yesterday circulated pamphlets showing photographs of painters at work on his opponent's home in Havana. The pamphlets, containing an affidavit from a Havana union leader, asserted that the painting was done by nonunion labor. It praised Lyons' record on labor bills in his ten years in the state legislature.

Little Fellows Indorse Lyons.

Directors of the Small Business Men's League of Illinois yesterday announced an unqualified indorsement of Lyons. The Democrats said a Republican Service Men's club has opened headquarters in behalf of Lucas.

Climaxing their week of intensive campaigning, Lyons and Lucas will address special meetings today. Lyons will be the central figure in a pageant in Aurora where he will speak from the steps of the city hall at 1 p. m. At the same time Lucas will address a meeting of the Illinois Democratic Women's club in the Palmer house.

Gov. Horner will join the closing downstate vote drive by speaking in Rock Island and Moline tonight. He is scheduled to take the stump in four other downstate cities later.

Charley Feels Better Now— (Cartridge Was a Blank)

Just talking to doctors at Mother Cabrini hospital made Charles Feraro, shooting victim, feel better yesterday. Feraro is 23 years old. He lives at 1536 Taylor street. His stalled car annoyed a man and woman at Monroe and Laflin streets and the man fired. Here's what the doctors told Feraro: The cartridge was a blank.

RADIO HAMS KEEP VIGIL TO GET SON FOR SICK WOMAN

Chicago amateur short wave operators still were at their sets last night awaiting word from Henry L. Walther, believed to be in the vicinity of King Cove, Alaska. For four days the "ham" operators have sought to reach Walther to tell him that his mother, Mrs. Alice Walther, 68 years old, 846 North Harding avenue, is critically ill.

Rowland Long, 8425 Rhodes avenue, contacted Skagway early yesterday morning, and asked that the message be relayed to Walther. The army was to broadcast the appeal from Juneau. A ship operator at Vancouver also relayed the message.

NEW DEAL POURS THREE BILLIONS INTO NEW YORK

More Millions Are Spent as Election Nears.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Three-quarters of a billion dollars in federal easy money for public works has been poured into this city since the beginning of President Roosevelt's régime. Yet this staggering sum is only a part of the 3 billion dollars which has been pumped into the President's home state since he took office.

Fresh millions are being injected into the state from Washington during the current election campaign. The funds are expected to have their effect in the outcome of the contest for governor between District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee, and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is running for reëlection. Political bosses translate every public improvement into votes.

City Gets Lion's Share.

Bridges, subways, vehicular tunnels, elevated highways, sewers, public buildings, and airports have been built here on a colossal scale by Uncle Sam. New York city is receiving the lion's share of easy money as compared with other communities on a per capita or per relief basis. This is one metropolis which never had to go to Washington hat in hand and on bended knee.

The Works Progress administration is currently engaged in filling in Bowery bay for the enlargement of North Beach airport, which will furnish facilities near the heart of the city. To date $13,431,650 has been authorized by the WPA for this project, and more is to come. This municipal flying field—which already is competing with Newark, Chicago, and other air terminals—will open next spring.

Most gargantuan of the projects carried on by the Public Works administration, of which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is the head, are the tunnels for vehicular trafic.

92 Million Spent on Tunnels.

A total of $92,245,000 of PWA cash was advanced for tunnel work under the East river and the new Lincoln tunnel boring under the Hudson river to New Jersey. Of this amount $73,130,000 represents loans and $19,115,000 outright grants. The East river tube is the largest PWA project in the country.

Topping the list of numerous bridge projects in New York City is the Triborough. This span cost $44,200,000 and all the cash was put up by the PWA. This amounted to 35 millions in a loan and $9,200,000 in a direct grant. The bridge, extending 17½ miles, links the three boroughs—Manhattan, Bronx, and Queens.

The PWA was especially generous when New York City wanted to construct the Wards island sewage plant. An outright grant of $11,360,250 was awarded. No loan figured in the deal. The PWA also handed out $5,709,000 in grants and $13,683,000 in loans for completion of the city owned subway system.

12 Millions for Parkway.

The most recent handout was 12 million dollars in a grant for the thirty-nine mile parkway around Brooklyn and Queens, with connections to other nearby parkways. A few weeks ago the PWA made the city a direct grant of $8,325,000 for a new seventeen story Criminal courts building and a connecting fourteen story prison to replace the Tombs, the present city prison.

Another recent contribution was a $4,794,750 grant by the PWA for a six lane arterial highway along the East river for two miles, from 54th street to 99th street.

Official government figures on New York's allotment of easy money since President Roosevelt's inauguration on March 4, 1933, are available up to June 30, 1938. The authority is H. Ferris White, regional director of the National Emergency council, who made his compilation from government reports.

The federal money shower in New York state during the period amounted to $3,075,231,570. About two-thirds of the spending was carried on in New York City, it was explained. The figures were not divided according to state and city.

Calls Mate Drinker

MRS. PAULINE PALMER.

Sarasota, Fla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Pauline Warren Palmer, testifying in support of her divorce suit against Potter D'Orsay Palmer, member of a wealthy Chicago family, today said that her husband drank excessively and had stayed away from home all night on many occasions.

She declared he became so intoxicated on their honeymoon in Bermuda during June of 1936 that he struck her and knocked her to the floor. Palmer opposed the divorce with a counter suit in which he accused his wife, the third he has had, of habitual intemperance.

Attorneys said they expected the trial to run through tomorrow. Eighteen witnesses were called for Mrs. Palmer. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren of New York, were in the courtroom.

DEMOCRATS LEVY 2 PCT. CAMPAIGN TAX AT HOSPITAL

Employés of the Chicago State hospital at Dunning and other state institutions are being solicited for Democratic campaign funds, it was learned yesterday. The state employés are asked to donate a sum equal to 2 per cent of their annual salary to the Illinoisans club.

Joseph B. Coleman, secretary of the Civil Service Protective association, has protested to the state civil service commission and to A. L. Bowen, director of the state welfare department. Coleman said he wants to find out who is behind the club and the purpose of the collections.

Dr. Edward F. Dombrowski, director of the hospital at Dunning, said employés were not threatened or coerced, and that any donations are voluntary. Employés said supervisors were making the collection. Several said they were threatened with the loss of their jobs if they refused.

RACE FOR SENATE IN NEW YORK TO TEST NEW DEAL

Wagner's Defeat Would Blast Pet Measures.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—No less momentous to the New Deal than the struggle for the governorship is the election of two United States senators in New York on Nov. 8.

J. L. O'Brian.

For the Democratic candidate for one of the places is the man who probably ranks next to Mr. Roosevelt as protagonist of the New Deal—Senator Robert F. Wagner, who is seeking a third term. Senator Wagner has sponsored more New Deal measures than any other legislator, among them being the labor relations act, the social security act, and housing legislation.

Opposed by Buffalo Lawyer.

The candidacy of the senator for reelection has concentrated political controversy on the merits and demerits of the measures with which Senator Wagner has been identified. To a peculiar degree, therefore, New York in reëlecting or defeating Senator Wagner will return a verdict for or against the New Deal.

The Republican candidate pitted against Senator Wagner is John Lord O'Brian of Buffalo, a brilliant lawyer who was in the department of justice in the Republican régime and who during the present administration was retained to defend TVA in current court proceedings.

For the short term vacancy caused by the death of Democratic Senator Royal S. Copeland the Democrats nominated Congressman James M. Mead of Buffalo, a 100 per cent New Dealer, while the Republicans named Edward F. Corsi of New York City.

O'Brian Replies to Queries.

Mr. O'Brian challenged Senator Wagner to debate two questions: The solution of the unemployment problem and the revision of the Wagner labor relations act. The senator declined. There is in progress, however, a long range debate between the two men brought about by questions put to the senatorial candidates by the Democratic New York Times.

Within 24 hours Mr. O'Brian sent to the Times his answers to all the questions. As to whether he believed the Wagner labor relations act should be made a less partisan law Mr. O'Brian said:

"I approve the basic principles and objectives of the act and particularly desire to see collective bargaining firmly established and uniformly recognized.

"I would not change or weaken any of the guarantees or protection given to the wage-earner under this act. But in its three years of actual operation experience has shown that this statute, instead of decreasing industrial strife, has increased it.

Assails Sitdown Strikes.

"In fact, the indefensible sitdown strike was unknown prior to the enactment of this statute and is the outgrowth of the troubles which have resulted from the way in which the act has been enforced.

"I recommend that a change be made so that if the labor board continues to make investigations and file complaints, then a separate, different, and impartial board should hear the case and make the decision.

"I also favor many of the amendments suggested by the American Federation of Labor which would result in giving all parties a fair chance to be heard."

A week later Senator Wagner in his reply said:

"The sitdown strike, which Mr. O'Brian with calculated sophistry attributes to the labor act, has practically gone out of existence since the law was held constitutional and thus given a chance to exert its pacific influence.

"Mr. O'Brian states that the system of procedure for hearing and disposing of cases written into the labor act is, "on its face, one sided, unfair and un-American."

"The Supreme court of the United States disagrees with him, flatly and completely."

HIRE SANDWICH MEN TO CARRY PROHIBITED REPUBLICAN POSTERS

Twenty sandwichmen will carry billboards about the loop on Tuesday advertising "Smash Nash-Kelly Boss Rule—Vote Republican." Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Cook county Republican committee, yesterday announced this additional enterprise to break the censorship against the slogan imposed unofficially by Democratic officeholders.

A fleet of trucks on Monday will tour city streets with the Republican campaign cry adapted from the Gov. Horner war whoop during the April primary fight. Boats carrying the message on banners are to ply the Chicago river during noon hours.

All of these advertising improvisions are a result of a ruling by Otto Krueger, business agent of local No. 1 of the bill posters union. He said his men would not post this Republican slogan "for fear we might get in bad with the administration." After a meeting of the union last night Krueger said curtly there was no change in this policy. Only a dozen of the union's 250 members attended.

SENATOR CHAVEZ GETS 17 KIN ON PUBLIC PAY ROLL

Family Draws Salaries to Total $54,180.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Nepotism, or, in the more earthly words of the political stump, the Chavez family relief association, is a live issue in New Mexico's political campaign.

Even in a state where more than half the population is being supported by the government, state or federal, the ability of Sen. Dennis Chavez, Democrat, to put his relatives on the pay roll excites the envy of rivals. Until the Federal grand jury at Albuquerque indicted seventy-three of his relatives and political henchmen for WPA graft last week, the current total stood at seventeen, drawing $54,180 a year. Previous lists have run as high as thirty-two persons and $81,840 a year in public pay.

On the Pay Roll.

A non-office holding member of the Chavez family weeded through one of these earlier lists today, and winowed out the following as authentic members of the relief association, as opponents have dubbed the family jobholders.

Senator Chavez, $10,000 a year.

Raymond Espinosa, brother-in-law, bureau of investigation, Washington, $7,500.

Bob Jefferies, brother-in-law, legal advisor, interior department, $6,000.

Gilbert Espinosa, assistant United States attorney, Albuquerque, $3,000.

Dennis Chavez Jr., son, private secretary to his father, $4,400.

Stanley W. P. Miller, son-in-law, assistant U. S. attorney, Albuquerque, $1,800.

Mrs. Clementina Salazar, postmistress, Belen, N. M., $3,000.

Tinny Espinosa, bituminous coal commission, $3,000.

Marie Brazil, niece, WPA stenographer, Albuquerque, $1,080.

Carmen Espinosa, sister-in-law, state educational department, Santa Fe, $1,500.

Mrs. Barbara Sena, sister, El Rito Normal school, $1,500.

Mrs. Anita Tafoya, sister, WPA, Albuquerque, $900.

Salamon Tafoya, nephew, WPA foreman, Albuquerque, $1,500.

Georgia Tafoya, nephew, city fireman, Albuquerque, $1,200.

Ray Sena Jr., nephew, typist, interior department, Washington, $1,300.

Richard Durand, distant cousin, chief field deputy, collector of internal revenue, Albuquerque, $3,000.

Juna Nuanes, cousin, interior department typist, $1,800.

Ray Sena Sr., brother-in-law, foreman malaria control, El Rito, N. M., $1,400.

Four Indicted Suspended.

Miller, Mrs. Tafoya, Salamon Tafoya, and Durand were suspended from duty after their indictment in the WPA scandal.

An additional list of six names, including a brother-in-law, four nephews and a niece, who earned a total of $8,800, was rejected by the senator's relative on the grounds that they either have lost their jobs or are of doubtful relationship.

Other lists have sometimes carried the names of Toney Werner, Albuquerque postmaster, who was a godfather to the Chavez children, and the senator's brother, District Judge David Chavez Jr. of Santa Fe, who is an elected official.

Issue of Campaign.

The large number of New Mexicans dependent for their living on federal or state officials has been the cornerstone of the Democratic campaign to elect John E. Miles, Chavez follower, governor and to reëlect Congressman John J. Dempsey. Democratic speakers repeatedly have declared that a Republican state administration will be able to get little from Washington.

Actual figures on pay and relief rolls in the state are jealously guarded during the present campaign. But out of the 98,546 families in the state a Democratic politician estimated today that the following number of families get their principal livlihood from federal or state funds:

WPA [peak enrollment]	18,000
Cash relief and old age pensions	25,000
Indians	5,000
State employés	2,600
Federal employes	3,800
CCC enrollees	1,000
Total	55,400

This is 56 per cent of the families in the state, and 54 per cent of those whose members can vote. Indians have no franchise.

It does not include other thousands of families, principally in the southern part of the state, who have received various subventions under the New Deal farm and soil conservation program, nor beneficiaries of other federal spending agencies.

MRS. ETHELWYNNE HILL.

Although Mrs. Ethelwynne Hill is suing Christopher J. Hill for separate maintenance, they agreed on one thing yesterday— $450 a month temporary alimony. And so Judge Robert C. O'Connell issued a formal order for Hill to pay that amount. Hill, who lives at 244 East Pearson street, is president of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company.

Judge O'Connell dissolved an injunction Mrs. Hill had obtained to prevent her husband from disposing of any assets. His attorney, Samuel Rinella, said the order was hampering Hill in business. Mrs. Hill lives at 200 East Chestnut street. She charges cruelty and desertion.

PRESIDENT TAKES ANOTHER SLAP AT COMMUNIST QUIZ

Passes Over Scandals Found in WPA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today took another slap at the Dies committee, which is investigating un-American activities.

He was asked whether he had any reply to the statement by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], committee chairman, that the President had been misinformed about the committee's activities.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that correspondents at his press conference could get a really good story by interviewing their colleagues who had covered the Dies hearings.

Charges Unfair Tactics.

Monday the President issued a prepared statement charging that the committee had unfairly attacked Gov. Frank Murphy's handling of sitdown strikes in Michigan. Murphy, a Democrat, is running for reëlection. Witnesses before the committee had described Murphy's association with communists and his standoff attitude during strike riots.

The Dies committee did not conduct hearings today, as the principal witness in an investigation of Americans participating in the Spanish war could not appear.

Passes Over WPA Scandals.

The President casually passed over the findings of the senate campaign expenditures committee on WPA scandals in Pennsylvania and other states by saying he had not read the committee's report.

Donald R. Richberg, former NRA administrator, was a White House visitor. He said the Wagner labor relations act should be amended to bring in more mediation and coöperation and less conflict between industry and labor.

146 VOTERS READY TO TELL OF AID GIVEN AT POLLS

Only 25 voters signed affidavits that they were unable to vote without assistance in the April primary in the 35th precinct of the 24th ward. But 146 voters are ready to testify that they received aid, Special Prosecutor John F. Cashen Jr. said yesterday. He is prosecuting five members of the precinct election board as a result of accusations of fraudulent voting. The recount of the ballots continued yesterday while the trial progressed before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

JARECKI IS AIDED BY PRIMARY FOE, RIPPED BY EHLER

Prystalski Scoffs at Fee Charges Against Judge.

BY PERCY WOOD.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and his Republican opponent, former Judge Theodore F. Ehler, made ardent appeals for support to the voters last night.

While Judge Jarecki was announcing aid from his Democratic primary opponent, Judge John Prystalski of the Circuit court, in the appraisal fee charges made against him, Ehler was hammering away at Jarecki's conduct of the primary itself. Ehler also declared that Cook county had not had an honest election during Jarecki's sixteen years in the court.

Judge Prystalski referred to the accusations made by Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic Council, who charged Judge Jarecki with authorizing fees to estate appraisers who did not work.

Considered During Primary.

"The matter was called to my attention in the primary campaign," Judge Prystalski said. "I examined it and refused to use it."

Judge Jarecki said that his erstwhile opponent's statement confirmed his own feelings that the charges were "shopworn."

"Doesn't it seem strange," he added in a radio address, "that throughout my sixteen years continuous service as county judge no one ever before raised a breath of accusation against me?"

The judge repeated a previous assertion that he had handled inheritance tax cases [on which the charges are based] under three attorneys general without criticism.

Holds Charges Disproved.

"Does any one seriously accept such accusations as these which have been brought within two weeks of election, after all that time in office?" he asked. "I do not believe so.

"These charges were disproved within twenty-four hours of their utterance by the official record of disbursements in the office of the Cook county treasurer and also by Attorney General Otto Kerner, who examined the evidence offered in support of the accusations and pronounced it grossly inaccurate in every instance cited."

In a brief accounting of his stewardship, Judge Jarecki discussed taxation, honest elections, and other aspects of the county court work. He recalled the 15 per cent tax reduction he ordered on the 1931 and 1932 assessment, and told of his efforts to obtain enactment of a law to make the preadjudication of tax levies possible.

Ehler Blasts Opponent.

Former Judge Ehler's speeches, delivered in Calumet City, Chicago Heights, and Lansing, were full of Mrs. Robertson's charges and others the Republican candidate made on his own responsibility.

"There hasn't been a single honest election in Cook county since the present county judge has been in office," Ehler declared. "In the last primary in April, more than 100,000 voters were disfranchised by his action and there are at this time, 150,000 fictitious and fraudulent names on the poll books.

"I charge that my opponent is leaving those names on the books in the hope that they will be used for his benefit on Nov. 8.

"On primary morning the county judge removed the names of hundreds of election judges and clerks whom he had approved, and substituted a number of persons who were not qualified to act—all to enhance his own chances of success."

Raises Point About Challenges.

"How can we have honest elections in Cook county when the head of the election machinery disregards the law by telling his officials to ignore valid challenges? The county judge did just that on primary day.

"This resulted in his nomination by Republican votes. Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of the Circuit court has since held that the entry of Republicans into the Democratic primary, by permission of my opponent, was illegal. Therefore, my opponent was illegally nominated.

"The day after the primary," former Judge Ehler continued, "the county judge made a statement that he would continue a drive to eliminate fraudulent registrations. And that's the last we heard of it. The fraudulent registrations are still on the books."

Promises Appraisal Cleanup.

Turning to Mrs. Robertson's fee charges, the Republican candidate said that when he is elected he will make a thorough investigation of the inheritance tax appraisals "with a view of taking proper steps to recover the money wrongfully paid out."

"Whatever is necessary along those lines will be done," he promised.

DAMAGES OF $25,000 SOUGHT BY VICTIM IN FAKE ARSON CASE

A new phase of the now notorious fake arson case involving State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas appeared yesterday in federal court. Suit for $25,000 damages was filed there against Sherif John Toman, his bonding company, and State's Attorney Courtney and his surety.

Attorney Joseph T. Harrington filed the suit for Emil Guerrieri. Guerrieri and Frank Kolesiak charge they were kidnaped by amateur detectives and turned over to Coultas. Coultas in turn, the men allege, placed them in the custody of the sherif and the state's attorney in the county jail where they were held for twelve days.

Fake arson confessions were obtained from the men regarding the fire in a Madison street hotel in which eight persons perished. Later, Guerrieri and Kolesiak proved their innocence. Warants for Coultas and others in the case were sought in the Felony court but Judge John J. Rooney deferred action until after the Nov. 8 election. Gov. Horner meanwhile is investigating Coultas' conduct.

FREE 2 OFFICIALS OF PRESSMEN'S UNION IN BEATING

Joseph J. Seppi, president, and Jay Horgan, business agent of the Pressmen's local No. 3 of the International Printing Pressman's and Assistants' union, were discharged yesterday when they were arraigned in South State street court for disorderly conduct.

The charge was brought by George Jones, member of a rebel faction which is trying to break the control of Senator George Berry of Tennessee, international president. Jones accused Seppi and Horgan of beating him on Oct. 17 outside the union headquarters at 618 South Dearborn street. The defendants charged that Jones had thrown a brick through the office window.

In an earlier story in THE TRIBUNE Seppi and Horgan were named incorrectly as officials of the Franklin local No. 4 of the international body. The latter local has no connection with the present dispute.

BARKLEY URGES INDIANANS TO ELECT VAN NUYS

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, one of the New Deal orators hurriedly pressed into service to aid Democratic state campaigns, spoke last night at the Memorial auditorium in Gary. He told 3,000 persons assembled at a Democratic rally that it would be futile for Indiana to send a Republican to the senate.

Barkley, who is majority leader of the senate and is termed "Dear Alben" by President Roosevelt, urged reëlection of Senator Frederick Van Nuys and the support of the entire Democratic ticket in Indiana. The fact that Van Nuys voted against the court packing plan was passed off by Barkley with the remark: "No two people think alike in this world."

Cites Democratic Majority.

"It is futile," he said, "for Indiana to send a Republican to a senate which is overwhelmingly Democratic. Why send a Republican there to trafic insanely and to make faces at those who are trying to do something?

"I would be stupid if I did not admit that we have made mistakes in Washington. But when they are corrected, I want those laws to be amended by friends, not destroyed by foes."

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend will speak in Gary next Friday night. Lake county is regarded as one of the critical areas in the election.

Earlier yesterday Senator Barkley spoke at Champaign in support of the Illinois Democratic candidates. This drew the fire of A. K. Stiles, Republican state chairman.

"'Dear Alben' comes into Illinois just at the time when the United States District attorney [Michael L. Igoe] accuses the campaign manager for Scott Lucas, Democratic senatorial nominee, of padding political pay rolls with federal road funds," Stiles said. "Mr. Barkley should be an expert apologist for this disgraceful chapter in the state Democratic black book.

"Mr. Barkley is the gentleman who, speaking on the floor of the senate on June 2, 1938, said: 'We know that there is not a state in the Union in which the political organization in control of the state does not prostitute for its own political purposes the employment of men and women on the highways and within the offices constructing and conducting the highways.'"

COST OF COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE BECOMES ISSUE

Volz Assails and Flynn Defends Record.

Charges of pay roll padding and inefficiency were made yesterday against County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, Democratic nominee for reelection, by his Republican opponent, Leslie P. Volz. During the evening Flynn denied the truth of the charges and defended his administration, declaring it was economical and above reproach.

"The expenses of Flynn's office have increased from $595,000 in 1934 when he assumed his post, to a total of $907,000 in 1938," Volz declared in speeches at political gatherings in the southern end of the county.

$277,000 for Extra Employés.

"The increase in expenses amounts to 52 per cent since he came into office. If any business executive, in these days of consistent curtailment of business operating costs, so conducted the affairs of a private concern, he would be summarily discharged.

"Flynn's pay roll shows that regular employés increased from 158 to 178 during the years he has been in office. And the annual appropriation for extra employés has jumped from $125,000 in 1934 to $277,000 in 1938. That's a 121 per cent increase. The books show 138 extra employés worked in Flynn's office in the past year whereas four years ago only 65 were used."

To these allegations Flynn replied that the expenses of his office have increased in the last four years. Each dollar, however, has been justified, he said. All the additions have resulted from added clerical work caused by state legislation.

Work on Election Records.

"For instance the permanent registration law," said Flynn, "has caused us to keep a large force of persons at work maintaining the election records necessary to comply with legal requirements. I estimate that this law has caused me to spend at least $185,000.

"And then there was the new marriage law. In the old days we gave a couple a license and sent them on their way. Now we have to keep a file on these persons and employ clerks to see that they have the proper papers before licenses can be issued. It all adds to the cost of operating my office.

"Finally the budget of the county clerk has been charged with the expense of installing the first and finest mechanical auditing system in any municipal division. And the same budget has had to bear all the charges of making the detailed audit that was begun as soon as I took over the office."

Auditing Firm at Work.

No other county office has an auditing firm constantly at work on its books, said Flynn. This is now the case in his office, he said, although it increases operating expenses it provides perfect security for citizens of the county.

Flynn declared that the books of his office are open for inspection of his opponent at any time and he defied Volz to substantiate any of his pay roll padding charges.

Weeps on Stand

MRS. EDNA DUNHAM PLANT.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Edna Dunham Plant of Greenwich wept on the witness stand today during the testimony which won her an uncontested divorce from Phil Plant, millionaire big game hunter who has deserted the white lights for the seclusion of his Waterford farm where he raises fancy poultry.

Mrs. Plant recently got a settlement of $173,500. She testified that when she accompanied her husband to Africa on one of his hunting expeditions he threatened to throw her off the boat because it would be the "easiest way to get rid" of her. The Plants were married April 11, 1934, in Clearwater, Fla.

MAN ABOUT TOWN ADMITS ANOTHER TOWN WANTS HIM

Robert Wallace Winchell, 20 years old, debonair and driving a flashy car, came to town ten days ago. He met Ann Morton, 18 years old, a student at Northwestern university.

She invited him to her home at 1010 Harlem avenue, River Forest. Winchell told Ann and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morton, that he was a Notre Dame university student, temporarily selling magazine subscriptions. But the Mortons became suspicious when a new suit of clothes arrived at their home. They learned Winchell had charged it to their account.

Then, Thursday, Winchell was arrested in the Lawson Y. M. C. A., 30 West Chicago avenue. Yesterday he admitted he was not a Notre Dame student and that he had stolen the automobile in New Haven, Conn. He admitted serving eighteen months for transporting another stolen car across state lines. Furthermore, he is married and the father of a 2 year old boy.

Portuguese Angola, South Africa to Be Linked by Air

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Oscar Pirow, defense minister of the Union of South Africa, ended a good will visit to Lisbon tonight with announcement of an agreement to establish airplane service between the union and Angola, Portuguese colony in Southwest Africa. Preliminary explorations for an Angola-South African trade treaty also were conducted during Pirow's visit. Diplomatic quarters believed that African defense was the main subject discussed by Pirow in Lisbon, but nothing official was made known on this topic.

SENATE AGENTS ENTER PAY ROLL PADDING INQUIRY

Look for Misuse of Funds Before Primary.

Investigators for the senate campaign expenditures committee arrived in Chicago yesterday to dig into charges that the state highway department pay roll was padded in the Democratic primary election last spring, partly with federal road aid funds.

They were assured coöperation by Assistant United States Attorney Warren A. Canaday. On Thursday Canaday asserted he had uncovered evidence of the misuse of such funds in adding 450 employés to the department pay roll to do political work in the Chicago area for Gov. Horner's ticket.

Igoe to Decide on Action.

Canaday said his superior, District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, would determine what action to take on the evidence when he returns to Chicago on Monday. In New York yesterday, Igoe said he would not make any decision until he confers with Canaday and considers the evidence.

Previously Canaday declared the evidence probably would be presented to the grand jury, possibly before the Nov. 8 election. The criminal charges involved, he said, would be either misuse of federal funds for political purposes or using the mails to defraud.

The senate committee, of which Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas is chairman, was asked to investigate the charges last July, but deferred its inquiry pending possible grand jury action. The committee has jurisdiction because the election included nomination of candidates for United States senator.

State Officials Deny Charges.

F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, and Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, yesterday denied that the 450 extra employés had done any political work. They also declared that no federal money was in the highway fund on which the pay roll checks were drawn.

"If Canaday has anything he thinks a grand jury ought to know about," Smith said, "he should take it before the grand jury instead of holding press conferences."

At the start of the investigation last summer Smith said the extra men were taken on to help clear roads blocked by snowstorms in the Chicago area.

Lieberman said the increased highway employment at that time was the result of an early spring, which caused seasonal repair work to start earlier than usual.

"The workmen worked, collected their pay and their work was supervised just as in non-political years. Their pay had nothing whatever to do with federal funds."

Addition to Library at University Started

Bride, 10, Takes Time Out to Play with Her Dolls

Prestonsburg, Ky., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—It seems a little odd for a married woman to want to play with dolls and romp with children as Mrs. Rosie Columbus Tackett does. But Rose can't help it, because she is only 10 years old.

Where Kentucky child bride was married.

She was called in from her play Monday to be married to Fleming Tackett, 34 years old, widowed coal miner. A shy, unassuming girl, Rosie stood quietly in a childish cut gingham dress, cotton stockings, and scuffed shoes while the ceremony was conducted.

Two Families in Two Rooms.

The simple hill country wedding was held in front of a newly constructed log cabin near here where the couple will live. Coal blackened miners were silent witnesses of the event.

In the two room cabin will live the newlyweds, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Columbus, two of her younger brothers, an older sister, and several in-laws.

Although the place will be a trifle crowded, it will be luxury to Rosie. Miners said she and her family had lived under a rock cliff on a hillside near the cabin for two winters.

The Rev. W. G. Ratliff, employed as a coal mine blacksmith, performed the wedding ceremony. He said he had first believed Rosie's elder sister was to be the bride and was amazed when the younger girl stepped forward and stood beside the husky Tackett.

Mother Gets License.

The minister said he performed the ceremony without question because the license appeared to be legal. It was obtained at the Floyd county courthouse here by the girl's mother.

Mrs. Columbus gave Rosie's age as 15. But at Paintsville Dr. L. B. Shepard, Johnson county health officer, said records showed she was born in the county on Feb. 12, 1928. The girl weighs about 70 pounds and is four feet eight inches tall.

Today the little wife was still getting acquainted with her new housekeeping duties. But when they were finished she ran out on the hillside to play just as she had before she vowed to love, honor, and obey a man more than three times her age.

ANTI-AMERICANISM SWEEPS HOLY LAND ARABS; PLAN BOYCOTT

JERUSALEM, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A wave of anti-Americanism is spreading among Holy Land Arabs because of their feeling that the United States government and people are sympathetic toward the Jews in the Palestine conflict.

[Senator Robert F. Wagner last Saturday quoted President Roosevelt as being "for the maintenance of Palestine as a home for Jews without limitation."]

Arabs went so far as to assert that the United States would be in danger of losing its prestige and trade throughout Arab countries if it persisted in the alleged favoring of Jewish interests to the detriment of the Arabs.

The widely read Arab newspaper, Falastin, urged all Arabs to boycott American churches, missions, schools and other institutions.

Youth Put on Probation Under New Federal Law

Federal Judge William H. Holly placed Edward J. Surma, 16 years old, on three years' probation yesterday when he pleaded guilty to violating the newly enacted federal juvenile delinquency act. Surma lives at 1425 North Wood street. His arrest resulted from the theft of an automobile by an older companion.

1ST PLANE LANDS ON NORTH HALF OF CHICAGO AIRPORT

A group of city officials stepped aboard a Transcontinental & Western Air Skyclub plane on the south half of Chicago airport yesterday. The motors roared, the machine climbed away, made a wide circle and then landed on the hitherto unused north half of the airport area.

The short flight and the landing were part of a ceremony during which the north half of the field received its informal baptism. The north section ultimately will be consolidated with the south section to give Chicago one of the largest airports in the world. At present the two halves are separated by the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad tracks. These are to be shifted to another site.

John A. Collings, superintendent of TWA's eastern division, flew the plane. Ald. Bryan Hartnett, chairman of the city council aviation committee, Walter Wright, superintendent of aviation and recreation for the city; and John Casey, superintendent of Chicago airport, were passengers.

RULES EX-MAYOR MUST SURRENDER '27 FLOOD FUNDS

Gets 60 Days to Turn Over $72,794 to Red Cross.

Judge William V. Brothers yesterday ordered W. H. Thompson, a former Republican mayor, to turn over $72,794 collected in 1927 for the relief of Mississippi river flood victims. The ex-mayor was given 60 days in which to comply. The money is to go to the American Red Cross.

Attorney General Otto Kerner, who was responsible for obtaining the return of another share of the funds in 1934, said after the court hearing that he will ask contempt proceedings against Thompson in case he tries to delay further giving up the charity funds he has withheld for more than ten years.

Refers to Forgotten Man.

"You know what happened in the Prochnow case," the attorney general remarked. [Raymond E. Prochnow is known as the forgotten man of the County jail because of the years he spent there, seemingly forgotten by the courts, for failing to return funds intrusted to him.]

The former mayor was ordered by Judge Brothers to give up $31,131 of the relief money to the Red Cross in 1934. The money was paid. The attorney general reopened the case later, charging that a total of $139,772 had been raised for the flood sufferers, and that only $35,847 was ever given to them. Judge Brothers ruled then that Thompson need not pay the $72,794 which Kerner said was still due. The Appellate court reversed Judge Brothers on this point and ordered the money given to the Red Cross.

Thompson carried the case to the United States Supreme court in a vain effort to avoid paying.

Asks Quick Payment.

Attorney General Kerner came before Judge Brothers yesterday to enter the Appellate court mandate and ask that the date for payment be set. He said the fact that the Appellate court ordered payment eight months ago should be considered in setting the date.

James W. Breen, defense attorney, asked a delay because the ex-mayor was out of the city. Judge Brothers denied it.

RELATES SEEING OFFICER STEAL POLICE RECORDS

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—James Sweeney, a young patrolman, testified today that he was dozing while on duty in a quiet Brooklyn police station when he suddenly awoke and saw Lieut. Cuthbert J. Behan steal 7,200 arrest records. Sweeney testified against Behan in a felony court hearing which marked the first court appearance of John Harlan Amen as special prosecutor in charge of the Brooklyn racket investigation. Behan is accused of being involved in bail bond frauds.

'LURE' JAP ARMY FARTHER INLAND! CHIANG ORDERS

Chinese Dictator Urges Nation to Fight On.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 28.—(AP)—From somewhere in the vast interior of China, beyond the lines of Japanese encroachment, Dictator Chiang Kai-shek today proclaimed continued Chinese resistance and expressed hope of "luring" the enemy into Western China.

The generalissimo's message, emanating from unidentified headquarters, was addressed to the national people's political assembly in session in Chungking, provisional Chinese capital now that Hankow has fallen to the Japanese.

It reiterated Chiang's confidence in ultimate Chinese victory, said China was prepared for the reverses that have come in the nearly 16 months of war, and asserted Chinese resistance was "becoming increasingly difficult for the invaders to overcome."

Says Situation Favors China.

Chinese reports of the message said the generalissimo referred to the military situation thus:

"Superficially the Japanese appear to have occupied a large portion of China, but in reality the situation is favorable to Chinese plans for prolonged resistance.

"We inflicted heavy losses on the enemy in the Yangtze valley. In desperation they invaded South China, attempting to interrupt our munitions and hoping for a quick decision in the war.

"But we were prepared for this. For years we concentrated on development of West China, where bases for operations are established and where we will prolong resistance until victory is ours.

"We hope to lure the enemy further inland. The farther they come the sooner victory will be ours."

Japs Capture Anlu.

Japanese forces in the Hankow area were engaged in mopping up operations while advanced detachments speared deeper into Hupeh province.

The army spokesman said Anlu, about 100 miles northwest of Hankow, was captured. Troops 50 miles south of Hankow captured Sienning, gaining position for an advance along the Canton-Hankow railway to Yochow, 110 miles southwest of Hankow.

The Sienning victory was reported to have trapped many disorganized Chinese in a large swampy area between Sienning and Hankow.

The Japanese also announced that their planes had bombed Yingtak and other stations along the southern extreme of the Canton-Hankow railway to make way for infantry assaults. Yingtak is about 65 miles north and slightly west of Canton.

[In Hongkong Chinese reported that a general counteroffensive was developing against the Japanese northeast of Canton, with the Chinese attacking near Tsungfa and Lungmoon, respectively 40 and 80 miles from the metropolis.]

Refugees Suffer in Hankow.

HANKOW, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Steady rain today dampened down scattered fires throughout Hankow, but increased the misery of Chinese refugees. The fires had been burning since the Chinese retreat.

Thousands of the refugees could find no shelter except the eaves of foreign owned buildings in the foreign concessions. An estimated 100,000 persons still were huddled in these sections three days after the Japanese capture of Hankow.

International refugee committee workers toured the streets in trucks, distributing hot rice gruel to the victims.

Transfer of the safety zone to specially marked districts in the old native quarters, to be policed by the Japanese, was announced officially, but the rain and preliminary details delayed removal of the refugees.

Japs Take Over Concessions.

The Japanese completed assumption of police authority over the former German and Russian concessions and tomorrow morning, with an exchange of salutes between a British naval force and Japanese military police, the Japanese will assume the responsibility of policing the former British concession.

The last United States patrol in the former Russian concession returned today to the Yangtze patrol flagship Luzon. A handful of sailors had remained ashore last night after withdrawal of most of the original landing party of thirty.

DR. HU SHIH, NEW AMBASSADOR OF CHINA, ARRIVES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Dr. Hu Shih, the "Chaucer of China," presented his credentials as the new Chinese ambassador to President Roosevelt today and told him that China found much consolation and encouragement in the United States' "constructive international idealism."

The President responded: "The United States will continue its advocacy of the preservation and advancement of the principles of international law and of the orderly processes of international relations which have evolved with and have in turn prompted the development of civilization."

Dr. Hu, who was snatched from literary ranks so unexpectedly he did not have time to get a diplomatic uniform [this is his first diplomatic post], is known as probably the foremost man of culture in China. He has a degree from Cornell university, a Ph. D. from Columbia, and an honorary degree from Harvard.

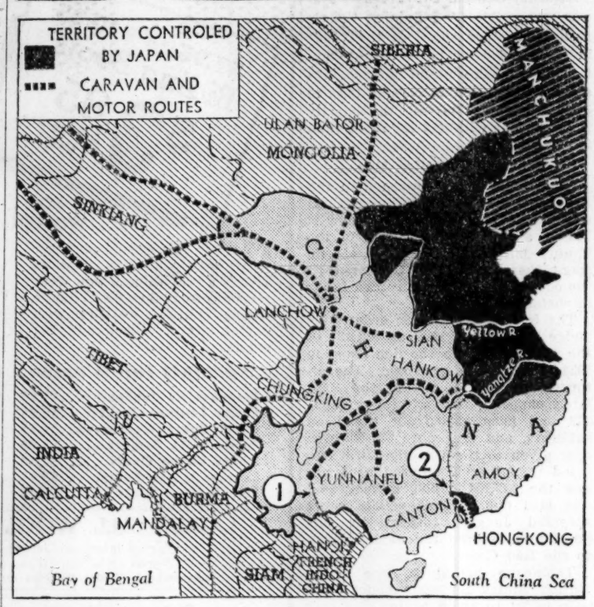
Japanese Push Deeper Into China



Dispatches last night said the Japanese armies, having completed their occupation of Hankow, were driving still farther to the south and southwest of the former provisional capital. Japan charges China is receiving arms and ammunition from France over the railway (1) from French Indo-China. The main Chinese source of supplies was severed with the cutting of the Canton-Hankow railway (2). China is believed to be receiving supplies from soviet Russia over the caravan routes running north and northwest from Hankow.

NINE POWER PACT ON CHINA MUST BE MODIFIED: JAPAN

Reply to U. S. Protest Expected "Soon."

TOKIO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A spokesman for the Japanese foreign office today declared the nine power pact "must be modified." He said there likely would be many changes in Japanese conquered areas of China affecting foreign settlements and concessions and previous foreign privileges.

Under the nine power pact of Feb. 6, 1922, the United States, Belgium, Great Britain, China, France, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, and Portugal agreed, among other things, to use their influence for establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations in China.

They also agreed to refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of foreigners.

Will Reply to U. S. Soon.

The spokesman also said the Japanese government would reply soon to the United States note of Oct. 6 insisting upon maintaining the open door in China.

The newspaper Asahi predicted that the government would attempt "to induce the United States government correctly to recognize the new far eastern situation" which, it said, had modified the nine power pact system.

Japan protested today to France against alleged shipment of arms to China and warned of possible consequences unless the trafic was prohibited immediately.

[In Paris the foreign office denied there was any such trafic and expressed surprise that Japan should protest again after representations early in the year in which she "was unable to substantiate her charges."]

Make Threat to France.

A foreign office statement issued after Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe conferred with Charles Arsene Henry, French ambassador, disclosed the warning to France.

It said Yotaro Sugimura, Japanese ambassador to Paris, had delivered a protest against the alleged arms trafic with a request that it be halted immediately, otherwise "Japan might be compelled in self defense to take such measures as she deems necessary."

The foreign office statement said Prince Konoe told the French ambassador that reliable information shows "the most important route left for transportation of arms to China is through French Indo-China."

Name New Foreign Chief.

Former Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita, who in the past has counseled moderation toward China, was named again to that post. Arita succeeded Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, who resigned on Sept. 29 after differing with army leaders over the empire's policy in China. Since then Premier Konoe had acted as his own foreign minister. Actually Arita will not have a deciding voice in policy in China, where Japan's militarists are in control.

The cabinet also announced the appointment of Yoshiaki Hatta, former vice president of the South Manchuria railway, as overseas minister.

A rare public appearance of the emperor and empress, each carrying lanterns, tonight stirred the cheers of hundreds of thousands of their subjects in a celebration of the capture of Hankow.

Nearly a million persons participated in the organized victory demonstrations.

Hankow Taken, Japanese Already Open for Business

SHANGHAI, Oct. 28.—(AP)—As evidence of the closeness with which Japanese trade follows military conquests, 2,000 cases of Japanese beer were unloaded today on the Hankow bund within three days of the fall of Hankow. A salesman for Japanese typewriters reached Hankow almost with the flag, and started taking orders.

20,000 ITALIANS SAIL TODAY FOR COLONY HOMES

Genoa Stages Farewell for Emigrants.

GENOA, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Twelve thousand three hundred and seventy men, women and children took their quarters tonight on nine vessels to sail at noon tomorrow for Libya in one of the largest mass migrations for colonization in modern times.

In all, about 20,000 will sail from Genoa, Naples, and Syracuse. The Genoa number had been increased since the colonists left their homes. Two of the more than sixty expectant mothers bore children while trains were bringing them from inland villages of northern Italy.

Genoa furnished a festive reception and farewell today for the emigrant peasant families. Tonight they were getting acquainted with their shipboard accommodations and with each other.

Homesteads Already Allotted.

They will be neighbors on homesteads along the coastal reaches of the North African colony which has been decreed an integral part of Italy. Each family already had its homestead allotted and each colonist wore a card and a bit of ribbon indicating his destination and the name of the village from which he had come.

The homesteads consist of 30 to 123 acres, depending on the conditions of the soil, a three room dwelling, and a well. Each colonist family was required to have not less than three male members between the ages of 16 and 60 and two females. Many of the families were much larger.

Must Have Fascism Faith.

Each man was chosen for his strong faith in Fascism and his able body. The majority were small land owners or sharecroppers. Italy's Libyan colonization program calls for migration of another 20,000 persons in 1940.

Aboard the nine ships at Genoa were 30,000 tons of provisions, including 25,000 gallons of wine.

The first 2,000 colonists to arrive here sat up all night in railway coaches. Genoa was flag draped in their honor. Bands played patriotic music. Radios and loudspeakers blared with speeches.

An enormous lunch was served to the emigrants. Private auto owners and taxi drivers volunteered to carry women and children to the waterfront but the men had to march.

Naples and Syracuse honored colonists leaving there in a fashion similar to the Genoa celebration.

AMERICAN CHILD, 3, SLAIN IN JAPANESE AIR RAID ON MISSION

HANKOW, Oct. 28.—(AP)—An American child was killed and her mother and sister were wounded in a Japanese air attack on Oct. 24 on a Lutheran Brethren mission, belated reports here disclosed today.

Phoebe Olive Nyhus, 3 years old, was killed and her mother and sister Ruth, 8 years old, were wounded, the report said, when Japanese planes destroyed the mission at Tungpei in southern Honan province. American flags marked the buildings.

The report came from the father, Arthur Nyhus of Fertile, Ia., the only member of the family unscathed in the attack. He moved the injured survivors of his family to Tangho, also in Honan, where he telegraphed United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson in Chungking, China's new provisional capital.

Snow and Subzero Cold Slow Down Spanish War

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Oct. 28.—(AP)—Both government and rebel forces reported that fighting throughout Spain tonight was limited to exchanges of rifle fire. Heavy snows, followed by subzero cold, led the government to withdraw most of its troops on the mountainous northern Segre front to reinforce other fighting lines.

FIVE DIE AS FIRE SWEEPS CENTER OF MARSEILLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 28.—A $5,000,000 fire which today swept the business district of Marseilles, drove Premier Edouard Daladier and other members of the government out of their hotels, and suspended the Radical-Socialist party convention. By midnight there were five known dead and more than 35 injured, including 13 seriously. Twenty-five persons were reported missing.

The fire started early in the afternoon in the Nouvelles Galleries de Paris department store on the Cannebiere, main downtown boulevard of Marseilles. A heavy wind spread the flames within a few minutes throughout the building and to adjoining structures, including two movie houses, a café, the Grand hotel and the Hotel Noailles, where Daladier and other cabinet members were staying.

The Radical-Socialist congress, which was meeting in a different part of the city, adjourned while the premier and his colleagues rushed back to supervise the removal of their luggage. New quarters immediately were found for the ministers, but some 300 delegates had to be lodged on ships in the harbor.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

IF THE SILVER CHORD—

By CALEB

THERE WAS excitement aplenty in the London guildhall, for on that day came Paul Storr, master craftsman and by appointment royal silversmith to King George III, to certify certain fine sterling pieces made by royal decree for wedding gifts.

There was routine business to be done, and sober Britons discharged it—weighing this silver piece, scraping that one for samples to assay and examine. But through the sombre business ran a bright thread of suppressed excitement, for Paul Storr came not often to the guildhall with fine royal pieces, and when he did, none whose ancient right permitted him to be present failed to find his seat.

That day, with the wedding of William and Adelaide of Saxe-Meiningen impending, all knew the premier smith of the realm would outdo himself. And so a hush fell over the august assemblage when Storr himself, followed by servants and apprentices bearing covered parcels, entered and, in tense silence, took his accustomed place of honor—silversmith to the king.

There were murmurs and exclamations as one by one the finely wrought pieces were exposed to view. No one questioned the quality of the ware, and there was only admiration and wonderment as the guildhead affixed the hallmark and certified the excellence of each piece.

Today no one lives who saw that ceremony or witnessed the subsequent presentation to King William and his bride—but here in our store, its surface unmarred by the years, its proud crests clearly engraved, its hallmarks plain as ever, stands one of that set made nearly a century and a quarter ago by royal decree.

It is a muffin dish, rounded and beautiful, with the arms of two royal houses: Titles change, houses flourish and wane—but history breathes in this fine silver, its delicately wrought acorn and oak leaf still unmoved from the peak, its base unmarred by the vicissitudes of time.

No wonder Ruskin said, "At every marriage, and at every birth, get a new piece of gold or silver if you will, but with noble workmanship on it, done for all time, and put it among your treasures."

NAZIS ASSAIL U. S. INTERFERENCE IN EUROPEAN ISSUES

Hit Alleged Stand on African Colonies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—The German press today attacked the United States for its alleged lack of understanding of Germany's claim for a return of her former colonies in Africa.

Alleging that "a semi-official report charged that Germany would use her African possessions as a springboard to South America," the Lokalanzeiger said, "such tactics are characteristic of American dollar imperialism."

Cites U. S. Air Bases.

"We only need to refer to the air bases in the Pacific, and to the recent annexation of the Phoenix Islands," it added.

The official German diplomatic and political correspondent said "American interference in European affairs is becoming irksome and seriously aggravates the European policy of reconciliation."

Germany's hope for the return of her former colonies were reflected in the stock exchange. Colonial shares rose sharply. Cameroon railroads advanced six points, while German East African company was five points higher. This seems to indicate that Germany has not relinquished her claim on this colony, although England has declared that the return of East Africa to Germany was impossible for strategical reasons.

Czechs Make Concession.

Germany today obtained a valuable concession from Czechoslovakia. After Oct. 31 German trains will be able to run from Silesia to Austria through Czechoslovak territory without having to submit to the Czech customs or Czech foreign currency control.

By crossing Czech territory instead of using the round-about way on German territory, the route from Silesia to Austria is reduced by about 400 miles.

ARMS SPEEDUP PROGRAM SPLITS BRITISH CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The British cabinet is split over organization of the program to speed up rearmament, and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is facing new ministerial troubles, it was reported tonight in London political circles.

Influential ministers, including Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, and Leslie Hore-Belisha, war minister, it was said, are urging the immediate creation of a ministry of supply. This ministry would insure priority for arms orders in British industry.

General rearmament and mass production of anti-aircraft guns and war planes, these ministers argue, can be achieved only by setting up a special ministry. Chamberlain is supported by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, and others in opposing the idea. They hold that creating of the new ministry would upset the prime minister's European appeasement policy and further damage Britain's export trade.

Some ministers favoring a ministry of supply were said to feel so strongly on the matter that they have considered resigning. If disunion continues, and these resignations threaten, it was reported that Chamberlain may challenge his critics by calling a general election.

MUSEUM OF JEWISH CULTURE IN VIENNA IS SEIZED BY NAZIS

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Nazi party officials seized Vienna's famous Jewish museum, the property of the Israelitic Cultural community, today.

The museum has exhibits of the history of Vienna Jews and contains many costly Jewish temple relics, a large library and portraits of leading Viennese Jews.

Jewish tenants in all houses and streets bordering upon Morzinplatz were ordered to leave their homes within two weeks. The Hotel Metropole, secret police headquarters where the last Austrian chancellor, Kurt Schuschnigg, is held, is on Morzinplatz, a square in downtown Vienna.

Nazis Ban Jewish Meetings, Except Theater, for 4 Wks.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—(AP)—All Jewish meetings, except the Jewish theater, were forbidden today for a period of four weeks. The order included all classes in schools where Jews are learning trades before emigrating to Palestine and elsewhere. Also included were foreign language courses for which Jews come from all parts of Germany. Those students must now pay living expenses while remaining idle until the courses are resumed.

been done more tactfully. They know how to make arrests without all the neighborhood being aware of them."

The men were taken to the local police stations and from there were transported to the Schlesische railway station and outlying smaller stations where special trains were ready.

The court of the police barracks near the Alexanderplatz police headquarters was crowded with Jewish women, bringing suitcases and food packages for their men.

Some Escape Drive.

A rumor of a new anti-Jewish action had circulated in the Jewish district near the Alexanderplatz yesterday. As a result, a number of Jews who could afford it left Berlin. Several Polish Jews also went to Poland to escape being deported.

In Vienna, the anti-Jewish drive was in full swing when Reichsfuehrer Hitler left the Austrian capital this morning for his Alpine residence at Berchtesgaden. More than 3,000 Jews of Polish, Hungarian, Czechoslovakian and Jugo-Slavian nationality were rounded up and taken to prison. Many of those who are not Polish were reported released.

The number of those held, however, was rising rapidly, since in Austria alone there are approximately 20,000 Jews who may lose their Polish citizenship.

Jews Pass Frontier Town.

SCHNEIDEMUEHL, Germany, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The German secret police said tonight that an undetermined number of Polish Jews had been returned to their homeland through this frontier town. At Neu-Bentschen, another important Polish border station, an unestimated number of Polish Jews were detained pending outcome of last minute negotiations between Warsaw and Berlin, the police said.

DR. BENES CABLES U. OF C. HE WILL TEACH 3 MONTHS

Eduard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, who recently accepted the University of Chicago's invitation of a visiting professorship, cabled the university yesterday from London that he would come here for three months. Dr. Benes said that the time of his arrival would depend on his physical condition, since he was in need of rest. Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, university president, expressed hope that Dr. Benes would extend his stay beyond three months. Dr. Benes is to teach on the subject of democratic institutions.

Many on Liner Unaware of Fire, Skipper Reveals

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Many of the 591 passengers on the German liner Deutschland were unaware of the fire which raged on the ship Tuesday night off the coast of Newfoundland until after it was extinguished. This was revealed by Capt. Karl Steincke, master of the vessel, when it docked here today. Steincke said he had no idea what caused the fire. He was unstinting in his praise of the heroism and skill of his crew in fighting the blaze.

CZECHOSLOVAKS SEEK TO SPEED END OF LAND ROW

Want Berlin, Rome to Rule on Hungary's Claims.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia sought quick decisions from Germany and Italy tonight on proposals that they serve as arbitrators in the Czechoslovak-Hungarian minority dispute.

The Czechoslovak government sent a new note to Hungary. It suggested that both Prague and Budapest sound out the two powers within twenty-four hours on their willingness to accept the rôle of peacemakers.

Would Restrict Arbitration.

This suggestion was made in response to Hungary's latest note, in which Hungary agreed to German-Italian arbitration provided Czechoslovakia approved of certain methods of procedure.

The Budapest government accepted the Czechoslovak offer to cede to Hungary 3,860 square miles of territory with predominantly Hungarian population. It insisted, however, that arbitration should be restricted to eight disputed areas.

Hungary had demanded immediate occupation of undisputed areas by Hungarian troops, and the latest Czech note said Prague was considering this demand. Hungary also asked a future plebiscite in regions with mixed populations.

Little Celebration of Birthday.

It was reported from the border that approximately a half million men still are under arms, chiefly along the Hungarian frontier. The army general staf reported additional minor skirmishes there. The flareups were charged to Hungarian terrorists.

There was little celebration in Czechoslovakia today on the occasion of the nation's twentieth birthday. The only anniversary event was a brief radio speech by Premier Gen. Jan Syrovy. He told the citizens to refrain from "wasting your time talking politics."

FRENCH-GERMAN PEACE PACT TALK STRIKES A HITCH

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—(AP)—An official government spokesman today announced there would be some delay in signing a French-German accord, including a declaration renouncing war with each other similar to that signed at Munich recently by Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain. The announcement was made after a report had been brought from Germany by Andre Francois-Poncet, retiring French ambassador to Berlin. The nature of the report was not disclosed.

The anti-war declaration was said to be only one of several projects which had been discussed, which Premier Edouard Daladier said yesterday he hoped would lead to a French-German understanding.

Dispatches from Berlin said a barrier had arisen over the demand of France that every contingency envisaged be set forth in clear language. Hitler, on the other hand, was said to have broad principles in mind which, if accepted, would regulate all details.

OPEN 103D STREET VIADUCT TODAY WITH CEREMONIES

Ceremonies sponsored by the south area council of the Chicago Motor club will mark the formal opening today of the 103d street viaduct over the Nickel Plate and Western Indiana railroad tracks. Clarence J. Bohling, general chairman of the committee for the ceremonies, announced that a parade of automobiles, floats, and marching units will be held at 2 p. m. The floats and marching divisions will form at Trumbull park and travel west. The automobile section will form at 103d street and Western avenue.

Gives Slaying Clew

MRS. CARRIE STEVENS.

Brunswick, Ga., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Preparations were made today for the early arraignment of four men charged with the slaying eight months ago of Dr. Charles H. Lee, rector of famous Christ church on historic St. Simons Island.

The killing had remained a mystery until recently, when George Cleyborn, colored, confessed he and another Negro, known only as Willie, were hired by two white resort owners to shoot the minister because of his objection to gambling in their places. Held with the two Negroes are the resort owners, Henry and W. H. Cofer, brothers.

Police credited Mrs. Carrie Stevens, a young woman convict of Macon, Ga., with providing the clew that solved the case. She told of seeing one of the Cofer brothers pay a Negro $150 the night Dr. Lee was killed.

Kryza, 3653 North Bosworth avenue, the driver, said he failed to see her.

A poorly dressed man, about 55 years old, was killed last night when he stepped in front of an automobile in Joliet road, one-half mile west of 55th street, Lyons township. The driver was Roland Tiedt, 18 years old, of Tiedtville, Worth township.

The body of a man fatally injured by an automobile at Chicago and Kedzie avenues Thursday night was identified last night as that of Louis Zoltani, 61 years old, 723 North Sawyer avenue. The driver was Saverio Occipinti, 730 North Christiana avenue. Zoltani died yesterday in County hospital.

Miss Ella Woods, colored, 52 years old, 3441 South Michigan avenue, died in County hospital. She was injured Oct. 17 by the car of a hit and run driver at 35th street and Michigan avenue.

TEACHERS' UNION CELEBRATES ITS 1ST ANNIVERSARY

Some 3,000 members of the Chicago Teachers' union met last night in the Auditorium theater in celebration of the organization's first anniversary. Miss Charlotte Carr, head resident of Hull house, was the guest speaker.

Miss Carr urged the union to act "as a legitimate bargaining agent and not as a pressure group." She pointed out that the union must join with the state and the nation in outlining future education and economic policies.

Another speaker was John M. Fewkes, president of the union, who urged "an aggressive and intelligent program in order to obtain what is best for Chicago's public school system."

It carried three machine guns, which may be fired in any direction, radio antennæ, a spotlight, and a siren. It was operated by a crew of four men. The fighting vehicle is said to be capable of a speed of 45 miles an hour and to be able to push over small trees, cross ditches, and move rapidly up and down steep slopes.

Political campaign violence was reported last night by Paul J. Wilkalis, 29 years old, Republican precinct captain in the 25th ward. He was walking toward his home at 1363 Bauwans street when two men dragged him into an alley, called him a "damn Republican," and slugged him with a revolver and a sandbag. He was given first aid at the North Avenue hospital.

FATHER, 87, AIDS MRS. PARKER IN SUIT FOR $85,000

Mrs. Lena Parker's father, who is 87 years old, testified in her behalf yesterday in her suit against her husband, Dr. A. Mercer Parker, Evanston chiropractor, from whom she seeks to recover $85,000 in cash and securities he allegedly obtained after sending her to a sanitarium. The witness was Andrew J. Ploss, 87 years old, of Buffalo, N. Y. Master in Chancery Thomas W. Flynn is hearing the case.

"Dr. Parker came to me in August, 1935," Ploss said, "and told me my daughter was violently insane and was confined in an asylum in Davenport, Ia. When we went there I saw she was in a ward with a lot of violent people, but I knew she wasn't insane." He said that Dr. Parker declared, "You'll never take your daughter out of here until I'm appointed conservator of her affairs."

In a counter complaint Dr. Parker denies his wife's charges and asserts that the money and property belong rightfully to him.

BANDITS POSE AS CUSTOMERS; GET $800 IN TAPROOM

Two bandits obtained $800 and an undetermined amount in checks late last night in a quiet robbery in the Graphic Arts taproom, 608 South Dearborn street.

The gunmen posed for a while as customers, then suddenly ordered Nicholas Santoro, 3428 Jackson boulevard, the owner, and two patrons to put up their hands. The latter were Miss Irene Scanlon, 7805 Aberdeen street, a school teacher, and William Wolberg, 5034½ Washington boulevard, an electrotyper, who was her escort.

From Santoro the bandits took about $800 and some checks, and from Miss Scanlon $8 and a check for $109. Wolberg was not molested. The robbers are believed to be the same men who earlier stole the car of John Fields, 1412 South Sangamon street, a colored WPA laborer.

AUTO EXECUTIVE BURNS TO DEATH IN FIERY CRASH

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—John G. Quadie, 57 years old, a production official of the Fisher Body corporation and former superintendent of the Lansing Fisher plant, was burned to death last night when his car crashed into a roadside store on the Grand Rapids highway west of here.

Fire started immediately, destroying the combined store and gasoline filling station and nearly trapping the woman proprietor, her daughter, and two customers. The car plunged into the store's basement. Quadie's body was found several feet away, indicating he had attempted vainly to find a way out of the flaming cellar.

URGES MENTAL TESTS FOR DRIVERS AS AID TO HIGHWAY SAFETY

Automobile drivers are a law unto themselves and need to have their heads and bodies examined if the nation is to reduce the toll of trafic accidents.

Dr. Agnes Sharp, chief psychologist of the Municipal court psychiatric institute, so declared last night in pointing out that the human equation is the greatest remaining obstacle to safe driving. She addressed a joint meeting of the Chicago Society for Personality Study and the Chicago Academy of Criminology in the Medical-Dental arts building.

Careful selection and training of drivers, said Dr. Sharp, have produced a marked decline in truck and bus accidents in the last ten years. Meanwhile the rate of fatal accidents involving passenger cars has gone up 47 per cent.

Scarcely anything has been done to analyze the weaknesses of private motorists, said Dr. Sharp. She recommended that the court's behavior clinic for drivers be given equipment and the staf needed for research among persons brought into trafic court.

AFTER 18 YEARS LUCK TURNS ON ALLEGED BANDIT

For eighteen years—nearly half his life—Clayton Curtis, 38 years old, alleged bandit and slot machine racketeer, seemed to live under a charm that protected him from the law. But last night, police believe, his luck ran out.

Clayton Curtis. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

It left him at 1 o'clock yesterday morning when state's attorney's police under Capt. Dan Gilbert and Lieut. Tom Kelly routed him from bed in his new home in Kolze avenue in Schiller Park. They confiscated one revolver in his house and four more in his garage, burglar tools, an acetylene torch and tank, and six slot machines.

Take Down First Confession.

Furthermore, Curtis talked. Police said he confessed a robbery and numerous slot machine hijackings.

According to Acting Chief of Detectives Walter Storms, Curtis admitted taking $1,100 in a robbery of the North Western railroad station in Barrington on last Jan. 3. His partner in that crime is now in prison. They said Curtis also admitted stealing dozens of slot machines in Lake county and renting them out in Will county. The slot machine profits, he admitted, enabled him to make a $1,000 payment on his Schiller Park home a few months ago.

Goes Free Repeatedly.

Curtis had an amazing record of escaping conviction, Acting Chief Storms said. Since 1920, Curtis had been freed on one charge of larceny or robbery after another. One robbery charge he escaped was that preferred by Wilmarth Ickes, stepson of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior. Young Ickes, who killed himself two years ago, had identified Curtis as one of the bandits who robbed him in 1933.

Storms said Curtis was a member of the robbery gang known as the Black Face Comedians from their practice of using face paint as a disguise. All except Curtis were eventually sent to prison. One of these, John Sullivan, a former convict, was assassinated Aug. 30, 1937, in the rear of 4808 Washington boulevard.

Curtis will appear today before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley on a writ of habeas corpus.

BOOKS COME, AND BOOKS GO; AXMEN GO ON FOREVER

Four squads from the state's attorney's office yesterday raided ten more handbooks, bringing the total number of 553 betting establishments demolished since the campaign started to 553. The raiders made their fifth descent on a handbook at 22 East Randolph street. In the place were 150 men and 25 women.

Other raids were at 190 North State street, 723 and 740 South Dearborn street, 707 Federal street, 1229 North Paulina street, 1116 Leland avenue, 6954 Greenview avenue, 3845 Madison street, and 5113 South Halsted street.

Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court discharged twenty-five persons seized in raids by the city police.

PROMISES PROBE OF CROWN POINT MARRIAGE MILL

A revival of the Crown Point marriage mill brought the promise of an investigation yesterday by State's Attorney Fred Egan of Lake county, Indiana. He said county officials found wilfully violating the state's marriage laws would be prosecuted for malfeasance of office.

The prosecutor said he was concerned particularly in the issuing of a marriage license Wednesday to Edmund F. Landry, a bass viola player in Abe Lyman's orchestra, and Elsie Bonwit, niece of the founder of the Bonwit-Teller department store in New York City.

Uses Hotel Receipt.

Miss Bonwit registered at a hotel across the street from the courthouse. Then using the hotel receipt she got a license from Mrs. Hugo Fagen, a deputy clerk in the county clerk's office. The couple were married by the Rev. Merrill McFall, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church.

At Valparaiso, County Clerk Lewis Keller took steps to halt the practice of out of state couples obtaining licenses by establishing residence through payment of a hotel fee. He said he would stop issuing licenses unless the local justices of peace stop their practice of advertising Valparaiso as a Gretna Green.

Egan pointed out that Crown Point's marriage mill has been stopped through a ruling of the Indiana Supreme court. The court upheld a statute of 1852 forbidding the issuance of marriage licenses to women who are not residents of the county in which the license is issued.

"The clerk should have made a more careful check on this woman's residence," Egan asserted, "and should not have issued the license on the bare evidence of a hotel receipt. It was obvious that Miss Bonwit was not a resident of the county and that she did not intend to reside in the county as she registered from New York.

May Face Perjury Charge.

"It is the duty of the clerk to determine the residence of the bride before the license is issued. In no case should the clerk countenance a subterfuge used for the purpose of evading the law."

The prosecutor said he believed that if a couple come into Crown Point and falsified their residence they are subject to a charge of perjury.

Such Gretna Greens as Valparaiso and Crown Point have in the past been criticized sharply by Cook county judges for quick and easy marriages which often end in the divorce courts. It was mainly through Egan's efforts that the marriage statute of 1852 was dug up and brought to the attention of the Indiana Supreme court.

LIFE TERM IS GIVEN WOMAN FOR POISON KILLING OF HUSBAND

Madison, Wis., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Upon her own admission of guilt in the fatal poisoning of her first husband eight years ago, Mrs. Florence Peters today was given a life sentence by Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor in the state women's prison at Taycheedah. She also was sentenced to one to ten years for attempting to poison her second husband.

Mrs. Florence Peters.

Mrs. Peters uttered a faint "Oh," when sentence was passed and then collapsed in the arms of Policewoman Pearl Guynes. She was supported by bailiffs who led her from the courtroom. Several hours later she appeared somewhat cheerful when she was taken from her cell in the Dane county jail for the trip to Taycheedah.

BELVIDERE MAN, 58, DIES.

Belvidere, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Frank J. McGill, 58 years old, for many years an office employé of the National Sewing Machine company, died last night.

MORAN JAILED, UNABLE TO POST BOND OF $30,000

CRIMINAL COURT.

Rudolph Solbask, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Harold Knox, contributing to delinquency of a child, sentenced to 1 year in the bridewell; Robert Kemp, forgery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

Ray Moran, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Ernest Hauff, contributing to delinquency of a child, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Emil Grudecki and Rocco Allegretti, rape, sentenced to 5 years each in the penitentiary by Judge William J. Lindsay.

George [Bugs] Moran, the gangster who tossed thousand dollar bills around during prohibition, was a bit short of cash in Criminal court yesterday. As a result, he was locked up in the county jail, unable to post a $30,000 bond.

Moran and thirteen other persons pleaded not guilty before Judge Robert J. Dunne to six new indictments charging forgery and conspiracy to pass American Express company travelers' checks, fake rail bonds, and fraudulent stamps. Their trial was set for Nov. 28.

The new charges resulted from the confession of Berger Hanson, expert engraver for the gang, who told of the issuance of $25,000 in fake Kentucky and Missouri cigaret stamps and $40,000 in fake liquor stamps. Moran has been at liberty in $10,000 bond on a previous charge.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms
By Bob Becker

Goose Honks in Vain.

October 28, 1938.

A LONESOME old Canada goose paddling around in one of the ponds on THE TRIBUNE'S Du Page county farm used its most persuasive honks the other evening when a flock of more than 300 wild geese flew over the farm. It wasn't able to induce the wild birds to drop down for a visit.

The geese passed through Du Page county on their southern migration, and they weren't wasting any time about getting down to warmer areas.

An Independent Goose.

This independent goose is all alone on the Half Moon pond, all of the other domestic geese being on the big pond in another corner of the farm. When the men drove the geese to the big pond this one bird refused to be driven with the rest of the flock. It chose to stay on the smaller pond where it had lived all summer. For three days after being separated from the rest of the flock it honked and honked complaints—or else the honks were meant to attract the others back to the pond.

In one corner of THE TRIBUNE'S Du Page county farm there is an unusual reminder of summer mixed with signs of late autumn. In the wooded areas the oaks, elms, and hickories have dropped many of their leaves. Leaves which remain on the trees are colored the dull brown of autumn. Across the field one of the farm workers is operating a tractor pulling a three-share plow—a job which is always associated with the fall season. Corn is shocked in some of the plots, adding one of the final signs of autumn.

But summer is not entirely gone, because it is represented by a shagbark hickory tree which refuses to recognize the calendar as the final authority of the seasons. This tree still has its leaves. They are so green that farm visitors who see the tree think it must be some unusual species. It is in the same condition as the other shagbarks were last June. The secret of this tree's long life this season is that during the summer it was attacked by caterpillars which destroyed all of its summer leaves. Late in the summer, after its original leaves were all gone, it developed new leaves.

A Second Crop of Leaves.

Now the tree's second crop of leaves are in the prime, despite the fact that autumn is here. The slight frosts of the last week haven't affected this shagbark, which stands prominently in the midst of fading hickories, elms, and oaks.

Some of the turkeys which wander around the barnyard all day are becoming more playful as cooler weather approaches. From the antics of those we saw the other day it seemed that they were having some sort of a game to see which could jump the highest.

The flockmaster had tied three ears of corn to the pump house in the barnyard, and the turkeys were jumping straight up in the air to peck at the kernels on the ears. The corn was about five feet above the ground level, and several of the turkeys were fairly successful in snatching a few extra kernels of grain. The lower half of each ear of corn had been nibbled away.

Three Girls Start Dancing Way Through U. of C.

Three dancers of the Merriel Abbott troupe are using their earnings to continue their educations. Beverly Allen, New York City; Marion Polson, 8103 Langley avenue, and Beverly Dreebin, 3142 West 15th street, are enrolled as freshmen at the University of Chicago. The girls said yesterday that their dancing does not interfere with their studies and vice versa.

THE TRIBUNE ARTICLES ON WPA.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. Edgar Dale of the bureau of educational research, college of education, Ohio State university, who has read a release of the remarks of Mr. Howard O. Hunter, regional director of the WPA, on the series of articles on WPA conditions in this district, prepared by Clifford Blackburn, Will O'Neil, and Charles Leavelle. Mr. Dale is apparently more impressed with the seriousness of Mr. Hunter's remarks on the articles than with the conditions revealed. We doubt that he read the articles and we therefore offer some suggestions for his consideration.

It is significant that Mr. Hunter's charges single out Clifford Blackburn—who once worked for the WPA—and make no mention of O'Neil nor Leavelle, who wrote more of the articles than did Mr. Blackburn. Neither Mr. O'Neil nor Mr. Leavelle has ever worked for the WPA. If Mr. Dale had read the series, as well as Mr. Hunter's denial, he would have known this.

THE TRIBUNE is confident that the information gathered by Mr. Blackburn was entirely reliable. It did not take this information on the word of Mr. Blackburn. Much of the data he turned in was reinvestigated by the other two men.

The point is that there were three men—not one—engaged in the investigation. When the matter of Blackburn's WPA employment came up, Charles E. Miner, Illinois administrator of the WPA, said he believed O'Neil, Leavelle and others of the staf to be thoroughly reliable newspaper men. He did not challenge Blackburn's reliability, merely stating that his articles were those of a "disgruntled ex-employé."

The statements offered by Mr. Hunter in refutation of Mr. Blackburn's stories are in almost every case supported by the testimony of WPA employés or members of the staf. THE TRIBUNE knows that pressure was brought upon the men to sign these affidavits. They would not have kept their jobs had they refused. It is only natural that they should sign them.

One man in particular was forced to resign his position because he had told about inefficiency and waste on a WPA project here. The man was reinstated when it became known that THE TRIBUNE was prepared to report the circumstance. At the same time another man who had offered information was transferred to a project sixteen miles or so from his home. The transfer was not made.

Besides the charges of misstatement and falsification contained in Mr. Hunter's attack, only one major accusation remains. He says the police aided in obtaining photographs at the airport. This is true.

Mr. Hunter neglects to state, however, that a TRIBUNE cameraman had been threatened and escorted off the project on one occasion and had been ejected on another. The airport is city property. THE TRIBUNE had permission from the proper city officials to take the pictures. The reporter, therefore, asked for a police escort to protect him from foremen armed with clubs and pick handles.

The conditions uncovered in and about Chicago are not unique. WPA scandals have been cropping up faster and faster throughout the nation. In recent weeks WPA frauds that pale our Cook county findings have been uncovered. One of the stories of our series [No. 12, published on Sept. 13] listed twenty-three separate instances of theft, fraud, and corruption. Most of these came from court records which showed there had been convictions.

Attention is called to the indictment of seventy-three persons by the federal grand jury at Albuquerque, N. M., on Oct. 21, charging diversions of funds, conspiracy, and illegal political activities. These charges involved United States Senator Dennis Chavez.

Arthur Evans reports from Indianapolis evidence supported by affidavits of political meetings for WPA workers organized by the Democratic machine and solicitations of campaign contributions. There is also much evidence of pressure on WPA workers and discrimination against Republicans out of work. Mr. Dale's attention also is called to the present plan to launch a congressional investigation of WPA activities.

Lastly, we have on file hundreds of letters that have come in since the series was printed. The theme of the great majority of these letters, as summed up in the words of one of the writers, is this:

"You have only begun to skim the scum off the cesspool of WPA."

In addition, many of these letters have given inside information of WPA corruption. If there is any fault to be found with the series it is a fault of omission rather than commission.

The press has been responsible for uncovering many of the WPA frauds that have resulted in convictions in the courts. And that brings us back to Mr. Blackburn. After rising from timekeeper to district safety inspector and finally to project superintendent on the WPA, he discovered that truck drivers were being shaken down by their bosses; that they had to pay to hold their jobs. He immediately turned his information over to the division of investigation of the WPA.

Almost immediately he became the victim of a campaign of threats and demotion. But he laid his information before the United States district attorney and it resulted in the conviction of eight men last May on charges of conspiracy. Mr. Blackburn meanwhile had been dismissed from the service.

These remarks are not offered to Mr. Dale with any expectation that they will satisfy him, for his letter is an ingenuous confession that he had already decided that the articles were unreliable and Mr. Hunter's charges reliable. His state of mind, however unfortunate in "educational research," is not uncommon, we find, among the critics of newspapers. Mr. Dale thinks "the kind of things THE TRIBUNE prints . . . are actually doing more to endanger the freedom of the press than any other activity in the country." As to which opinion we would say that there is no doubt that exposure of political evils always begets in passionate partisans a desire to be rid of the freedom of the press.

AN INSULT TO CHICAGO.

Chicago's city council yesterday accepted, reluctantly, the terms imposed by Public Works Administrator Ickes in a grant for the subway. Never, as the aldermen themselves admitted, has a city been so humiliated.

The second city of the country, which has been short-changed continuously on public works grants while other large cities were lavishly treated, has been obliged as a condition for a mere pittance to make a Washington burocrat the dictator of its local transportation system and of some other city functions.

The council was compelled to agree to make Public Works Administrator Ickes the supreme authority over our street car, bus, and elevated railroads service. It is for him to say how these services are to be unified. He can decide what the rate of fare is to be.

The council also had to consent to a project, the widening of Congress street, which has nothing to do with the subway. It had to authorize a contract with many escape clauses, which will virtually enable Mr. Ickes at any time in the future to call the whole thing off, even half finished, if that should be his whim.

In the subway transaction Mr. Ickes, on behalf of the administration, has hurled every insult at Chicago. The exceptional treatment given to this city ought to be a lesson to Mayor Kelly not to be so soft when he goes to Washington on behalf of the city.

OBSOLETE DIVORCE POLICY.

The reaction of the Appellate court to the proceedings in the latest adventure of the so-called patent medicine heiress with the institution of matrimony will be shared by a disgusted public. It will seem evident at least to laymen that neither respect for courts nor respect for marriage is fostered by the ability of a highly irresponsible and probably to be pitied young person to deal in her own way with both.

Passing over the question whether in such cases divorce may be preferable to the alternative, her present predicament raises again the question why it is considered good public policy to deny divorce upon one of the most unexceptionable grounds for its allowance—namely: that both parties want it. In our present crude divorce law agreement to seek divorce is somehow regarded as contrary to the public good. Collusion is an offense. The result is that all sorts of subterfuges are forced upon individuals who are unwilling to live with each other. Men especially suffer from this situation, being compelled to choose between accepting reflections upon their conduct and character which are fictions or going without relief. It is fortunate that these fictions are recognized as such, but they should not be necessary. They will be practiced until the divorce law no longer makes agreement to part an insuperable obstacle to divorce.

COMES DEAR ALBEN.

"Dear Alben" Barkley is coming into Illinois to tell the New Dealers how it can be done. Dear Alben knows why he was successful against Gov. Happy Chandler. His figures show that the trick was turned at $300 a vote. His federal subsidies and his vote tallied with a precision that put the per capita for the truly good in the Kentucky primaries at that figure. If Mr. Barkley will explain the Kentucky success in detail to the Illinois voters they will have a clearer idea of how nominations are made and elections carried.

Editorial of the Day

WINNER AT NAME-CALLING.

[The Philadelphia Inquirer.]

Out of Hyde Park the other day, from a mysterious "White House spokesman" [guess who!], came the plea, which the administration is accustomed to issue shortly before an important election, urging closer coöperation of business with government.

But this time, seeming to draw a somewhat confusing analogy with the Munich "peace" settlement, the unnamed federal Democratic representative [or whatever his initials were] asked that business and industry stop rattling sabers at the government and desist from the iniquitous practice of calling names.

Sabers are a little out of date, but what about the name-calling? It is not on record that business and industry have been calling the administration names, at least for publication. But the administration's stinging epithets for business men and industrial leaders would fill an encyclopedia glossary.

There are the "economic royalists," the "princes of privilege" and the "Lord Macaulays." To this regal assemblage should be added the "corporate czars" and the "ducal economic overlords."

Then there are the "chiselers," the "money changers," and the "modern Tories." Along with them go the "Copperheads," the "Bourbons," and the "selfish few." "Few" in this case doesn't necessarily mean "few."

Still more opprobrious, not to say mouth-filling, are the "well fed gentlemen in well stocked clubs," and the "forces of selfishness and of lust for power." Behind these march that crew of cut-throats labeled "Conservatives," a word that expresses the utmost degradation to which humanity can fall.

This list is not, of course, complete. Moreover, although most of the terms here called to mind emanated from the one authentic White House spokesman, several have been used with vigor by members of his entourage. Inserted in their proper places in administration diatribes any three of them pack enough punch to scare business out of a five year growth.

In simple honesty it would appear that before the administration gets further mixed up in its ideas as to which of the parties to the government-business conflict is Hitler and which is Czechoslovakia it ought to revise its own vocabulary, expunging all the words of hate that make industry wonder which part of it is going to be knocked down or taken over next.

NO REFILLS.

Percy—Did you fill your big date last night?

Alford—I hope so; she ate everything in sight at two night clubs and a restaurant.—Exchange.

EXPEDITION INTO FUNGOLAND.

Between editions and gazings into the crystal ball regarding football scores, the sports department went into a huddle over the origin of "fungo," meaning a fly ball batted to the outfield in practice. After getting nowhere in its researches, the athletic seminar called the Linemaster into consultation.

This is a tough one. The investigation was touched off by a university professor who had abandoned the problem as hopeless. Every man, woman, and child who goes to Wrigley field of a fine summer afternoon knows what a "fungo" is, but cannot tell where it came from.

The great Oxford contains an obsolete word, "fungo," meaning a mushroom or fungus, and gives quotations dated 1562, 1647, and 1682. If you want to transfer the soft, squashy roundness of a mushroom to the easily caught roundness of a high fly ball, maybe you have the answer.

Then there is the word "funk," in a dozen different meanings, including "to fight shy of, to evade a duty." This, with "funk" for "cowardice," had its origin in Oxford student slang. If you want to think that baseball players who evade their duties and loaf on their jobs are "funks," and are ordered to morning practice catching "funkos," later "fungos," maybe you've got something, and maybe you're just guessing.

A "Dictionary of American Slang," by Maurice H. Weseen [1934] does not mention the word.

Mischief in the Garden.

There was a thief abroad the other night, and he stole the gayest colors from my flowers. He nipped off the edges of the marigolds and asters, and filched all the blue from the tall delphiniums. He doused the flame of the burning bush, and took the crisp fresh green from the endive and celery cabbage. I think he must have been a young lad, because he left the carrots untouched. But he must have lost part of his loot as he fled, because this morning, across the tops of the maple trees are flung all the warm reds and yellows and oranges that disappeared from my garden.

HALLOWEEN WARNING.

When I was young and full of guile,
What fun we had on Hallows' eve!
Many the pranks we practiced then
To irk the village Gildersleeve.

The tick-tack on the windowpane,
The buggy on the courthouse roof,
The signs exchanged on shop and mart,
Without a trace of damning proof;

The gates unhinged and carried far,
The pin in many a screaming bell,
I may know rather more about
Than I consider wise to tell.

"Boys will be boys!" our neighbors smiled;
But, look! This sort of thing must stop!
If you kids soap my windshield now,
I'll turn you over to the cop.

Reading for the Bar.

You mention the bar with the sign "Caveat emptor" over the liquor display, but how about the tavern proprietor in an eastern city who was persuaded by Christopher Morley to put a quotation from Shakespeare over his bar. From "Antony and Cleopatra," Act IV., Scene 7: "I have yet room for six scotches more."

Shadow on Linemaster's Past.

It was 'way back in 1904, a little while after the Iroquois fire [by the way, I was a member of the "Mr. Bluebeard" company], and one day I was in the offices of the Witmark company up in the Schiller building. Frank Witmark was composing [God save the mark] the music for a musical comedy that was to be produced at the Tivoli theater in 'Frisco. Frank could play the piano, but he couldn't write his stuff and I was writing it for him, sitting alongside the piano and catching it as he played. Two 'r three of his "numbers" were minus the lyrics. To this day I don't know the source of his melodies, but he must have stolen them from some one.

Well, onnyhow [as Bobby Gaylor used to say], one day a couple of young chaps came in the office and one of them was introduced to me as Mr. Charles Collins. He was a newspaper man on one of the Chicago dailies and Frank wanted him to write the lyrics, or at least some extra verses, for some of the music, which Collins did. And this man is now become the Linemaster, but it took him all these years to live down the shame of writing the lyrics for Frank Witmark's music. J'accuse!

Norty.

[What a memory, Norty! I had forgotten. The other lad may have been Sam Gerson, unless you have antedated the incident by about six years, in which case he was the late Addison Burkhardt, librettist of "Louisiana Lou."]

NATURE AND MAN.

Indubitably autumn rules the land
With sunburnt scepter and a mellow grace,
Smiling beneath the sun's benignant face
And spending gold with lavish, kindly hand.
The scattered leaves, in carefree, pagan band
Run laughing by the wall where tangled lace
Of color-clotted vines their legends trace
Before the winds of winter take command.

So simple and so sure are Nature's hours,
Unfolding in their measured cycles, spent
Dependably with method and intent.
But how shall we describe this time of ours?
Is mankind on the brink of fatal strife,
Or do those stains but mean resurgent life?

SOME FOOT DIFFICULTIES.

INASMUCH as walking in the open air is the best all around exercise, it follows that the pedal extremities must be capable of performing without distress. The reason that some of us do not hike more is because minor ailments are quite prevalent, while some are disabling. No admonition to get out of doors and enjoy a stroll will be heeded if pain attends every step. Attention is called, therefore, to some of the simple causes of discomfort, many of which can be remedied without operation.

First of all it should be stated that a skilled chiropodist is a useful and valuable member of society. I have a number of friends, among elderly women particularly, whose chief recreation is walking. Were it not for the skilful ministrations of a pedicure, many of these individuals would be deprived not only of exercise but of much enjoyment.

While a corn can be removed by proper home treatment the job may be botched, as the temptation is to use some cutting instrument which may pave the way for infection. It is far safer to trust oneself to an operator who is well trained. Physicians and surgeons, as a rule, rarely interest themselves sufficiently in these seemingly trivial affairs. Of course, if the metatarsal arch across the ball is twisted out of shape and if there follows a spreading of the bones and the formation of calluses the doctor is intrigued. A real job confronts him. While this whole matter may be corrected by increasing the transverse curve and then using a straight shoe, immediate comfort is efforded by the simple plan of removing the horny pads.

A common deformity goes under the high sounding name of hallux valgus which, being interpreted, means that the great toe has pushed over against its fellows, forcing them out of their true position. The usual cause is said to be short, tight footgear. Pointed models add to this difficulty, but since broader lasts have become more fashionable our foot covering may be absolved from blame.

But what about the high-heeled modern creations worn by women? No one can gainsay the fact that this device forces the pedal apparatus to assume an abnormal position. There is considerable evidence that circulation is interfered with and tissues and ligaments are weakened in the metatarsal region, which permits the spreading of the bones. In addition, the pull on certain muscles results in a distorted twisting of the toes outward. Furthermore, these steeplelike heels shorten the tendons on the top of the foot and keep the toes raised. In a one inch heel this effect is not induced.

But what can be done? Even without any thought of operation, relief from pain may be accomplished by [1] taking out corns and calluses, [2] the use of the nightly foot bath followed by massage with cold cream or cocoa butter, [3] the adjustment of weight relieving pads, and [4] the correction of ill fitting footwear.

Many patients will be helped by the latter. A straight inner edge with one inch heels and plenty of room up front is the type desired. Occasionally the ordinary style may be worn [not the skyscraper heel above referred to], into which a sponge rubber dome [one-half inch thick] may be fitted. This is glued to the inner sole after it has been moved backward or forward until it is found to relieve the strain. If the great toe bends but slightly toward its next door neighbor it may be strapped back with adhesive into normal alignment.

Calluses develop, as a rule, under the heads of the second, third, and fourth metatarsal bones. They form because the extremities are bearing the weight of the body unevenly. Pressure concentrates at sites where there is no pad to protect the soft parts. These should be eased, because at times they may become exceedingly tender. After their complete extirpation then the rubber props may be tried.

Flatfoot usually refers to the longitudinal arch and sometimes shoes help to overcome this weakness. Some have arches built in, while with others an insert may prove satisfactory. A simple trick that can be employed with a regular shoe is to extend the heel forward about three-quarters of an inch, at the same time raising the inner side.

Finally, it should be said that all diabetics must give particular care to the feet, as loss of circulation from slight causes is characteristic of the malady.

SPOTS IN THE EYES.

M. S. writes: What is the cause of the appearance of yellow spots in the whites of the eyes? What would remove the spots without injury to vision?

REPLY.

Yellowish spots on the white portions of the eyes go under the name of pinguecula. They usually are triangular in shape and are due to some form of irritation. The spots contain fat. While they can be removed surgically, this is rarely advised because they are harmless and do not interfere with vision.

SIGNS OF APPENDICITIS.

O. T. writes: How can appendicitis be determined definitly?

REPLY.

Diagnosis may be difficult. Pain in the right lower quadrant of the abdomen, tenderness, muscular rigidity, and increase in the number of white cells are the chief signs and symptoms.

TITLE PAPERS.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father made a will and left a farm to my brother with a lien on it of $4,800, which he is to pay within ten years after my father's death. The lien is to myself and two other sisters. He is to pay each of us $1,600. Now my sister was administratrix, and when the estate was closed gave the abstract to the farm to my brother.

1. Should she have done this? All I have is my copy of the will.

2. Is this all I need? M. H.

1. It is customary for a mortgage holder to retain the abstract until his mortgage is paid. As we understand your facts, your position is similar to that of the mortgage holder, but we doubt if the point is worth quarreling over.

2. As the facts stand, we would advise you to incur no expense until there has been a default.

POSTOFFICE WAGES AND HOURS.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—I have a suggestion to make to all types of business and industries on the subject of the new wage and hour law:

The postoffice so far as the public knows employs its workers on a 40 hour per week basis, and an additional 10 per cent for night work. The postiffice also employs men known as substitute clerks, carriers, laborers—these men haven't any maximum or minimum working day; in fact these workers can be retained for one hour or less up to twelve hours or more, with or without a lunch period, and receive a 10 per cent reduction if they work beyond the 6 a. m. hour.

Private industry can also employ men and call them substitutes and tear hell out of them. Why not? The government does! Another comment: Local health regulations provide for adequate ventilation and reasonable cleanliness. The postoffice being a federal unit, doesn't have to abide by these regulations.

Thanks to a liberal paper. J. S.

A POSTOFFICE ECONOMY.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—The postoffice department has put up large mail boxes on a good many corners, marked "For letters and parcels," where formerly there were two boxes, one for letters and one for parcels.

I saw a mail man approach one of these large boxes and open it. There were parcels galore, and many letters wedged in between. He closed the box, remarking that the mail truck would have to attend to that load.

I believe the postoffice should give better service and insure a quicker pick-up for its first class mail than for parcels. Meanwhile I am putting my letters in the small boxes only.

ARE THE QUOTAS IGNORED?

Chicago, Oct. 25.—As an American citizen and a former navy man, I protest against the wholesale unloading of European refugees into this country. I was employed three years in a north side factory as an upholsterer, and with two others, was let out to make room for three refugees from Germany. All of us were married men with families and were nohow responsible for the conditions that exist in Europe.

JERRY NOVAK.

A PHILANDERER OUT EARLY.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Is there any way to stop these philandering motorists who annoy girls and women who happen to be waiting for street cars or buses, or just walking along the street? At 7 a. m. Sunday I went down for the paper and was accosted by a driver. When I told him to keep driving he brazenly stood still and tried to pick up a young girl waiting for a bus. This was on Clark street, about 1900 north. This girl turned to me for aid. M. E.

A JOB FOR MR. COURTNEY.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—To State's Attorney Courtney: You are the greatest state's attorney we have ever had in stopping the hand bookies. Now if you could find time to get after the real estate bondholders' committees. They are still skinning the people, thousands of them. Well, they can't skin me any more. I am broke and too old to make any more money. I will be eighty-one next month, so I am no good. I would like to see Mr. Courtney get after them before I cash in. A SUCKER.

PLEASING TO OLD TIMERS.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Please accept this as an official commendation of the excellent article in Sunday's "society" section, "When Chicago Was Young."

As president of the old timers' group in Lawndale-Crawford Historical association, I know the happy surprise that came to them in the intimate and newsy column that recounted persons and places of fifty years ago.

The old town of Crawford was made to live again and Peter and his descendants became quite real. Even the dependable old cow that nourished many of us was not overlooked.

Martha's letters to Julia each week afford a pleasing background of auld lang syne against which the speed and excitement of 1938 is not, to many of us, as wholesome as our cherished recollections of the "horse and buggy days."

There was a THEN and there is a NOW and of course THE TRIBUNE'S function is to serve us both. Thanks.

LARNED E. MEACHAM.
President, Lawndale-Crawford Historical association.

ELECTION BULLDOZING.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—I am a resident of the Jane Addams homes, and I, like others living here, stand for honesty and intelligence in electing public officials. For this reason my conscience wouldn't permit me to vote Democratic. I don't like the way the over-active Democratic precinct workers try to intimidate the residents here.

Many residents are of the belief that if they don't sign Democratic pledge cards and also vote Democratic they will be weeded out of their homes. These are deplorable tactics but they are being used. Let's put an end to this bulldozing. A READER.

CONJURING ON A BILLBOARD.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Last evening, walking on Sheridan road, I noticed a billboard on the east side of the street in the block between Greenleaf and Estes avenues, reading "For humanity in government—vote 'X' Democratic ticket," with a picture of the President in the corner but mentioning no name. Is the President a candidate for another office in addition to the one he already occupies? JUST A CURIOUS VOTER.

JUST A LITTLE BEAUTY, PLEASE.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—I see the Art institute has another display of that terrible modernistic art in its current Exhibition of American Painters. How about devoting one small room to pictures depicting the beautiful in nature? We all felt so depressed after viewing the exhibit.

ART LOVER.

BOOKS AND POSTAGE RATES.

Techny, Ill., Oct. 25.—Your editorial, "Postage on Books," in today's TRIBUNE is unfair. Will you please publish a truer statement of the facts?

The postal laws do not discriminate against books. The favorable rate quoted on magazines is a special concession to the publishers of regular periodicals and newspapers [yes, THE TRIBUNE included] to encourage the dissemination of current or specialized news. Books are mailed as parcel post and are rated exactly the same as any other parcel of merchandise.

It is unfortunate that the publication of books is largely concentrated in the east, but since that is a fact, why not admit that transportation is a necessary part of the cost of a book in the rest of the country? And three cents a book would not cover the cost of transportation from New York to Los Angeles in any man's company.

EDWARD J. FARRELL,
Postal clerk.

ISSUES A DIRE WARNING.

More than you would give me or my fellow men. BEWARE.

P. S.—You are next. Let up on Jarecki.

A PLEA FROM A LARGER GIRL.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Will some one in charge of style shows please explain why it is that the lovely new clothes that are designed for the slightly fuller figure are never shown on models excepting those who can wear a size 14 or less? A lot more dresses would be sold if they could show the larger girl that she can wear them. M. E. J.

WHIRL OF BERLIN NIGHT LIFE TOLD BY SPY WITNESS

Woman Denies Knowledge of Nazi Plots.

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Kate Moog Busch testified in federal court today that she did not know that a match packet sent to her from Germany contained the key to a secret spy code.

Mrs. Kate Moog Busch
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

She testified in the trial of three defendants accused of being members of a German espionage ring. The three are Johanna Hofmann, a former hairdresser on the German liner Europa; Otto Voss, an aviation mechanic, and Erich Glaser, a former army private. Guenther Gustav Rumrich, who also was indicted in the spy plot, pleaded guilty and turned government evidence.

Tells of Getting Packet.

Mrs. Busch testified that on her return from Germany last year she received a match packet from Karl Schleuter, a fugitive defendant, and gave it to Miss Eleanor Boehm, a Hunter college graduate. She said she did not know, until federal agents told her, that it contained a secret code.

The witness described a round of gay parties with espionage officials of the German war ministry in Berlin, but said she wasn't interested in spies.

"I was there to dance and have a good time," she said.

Admonished by Judge.

Her outbursts and her vagueness of memory drew repeated admonitions from Federal Judge John C. Knox, who characterized Mrs. Busch as a hostile witness.

She finally recalled that one of her escorts on a whirl through Berlin night life told her he obtained information in Washington on naval ships being constructed by the United States. She said the escort was Capt. Erich Pfeiffer, a German intelligence officer.

GRAEME STEWART CITED BY COURT IN SUPPORT CASE

Graeme Stewart, for one of whose ancestors a city fireboat was named, was ordered yesterday to reply by Nov. 16 to contempt proceedings. His former wife, Mrs. Mildred Wieland Stewart of the Wieland milk family, charged that he is $365 behind in his payments for her and their daughter, Barbara. Neither of the Stewarts was in court when Judge Philip J. Finnegan issued the order. Stewart, who is 32 years old, lives at 1244 Astor street. His great-grandfather was prominent in Republican politics early in the century.

PLAN TEACHERS' MEETINGS FOR WAR ON SYPHILIS

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, yesterday sent a bulletin to elementary and high school principals asking them to coöperate with the board of health in arranging for meetings of all teachers at which the anti-syphilis program in the schools will be discussed. The meetings will be addressed by a board of health physician. The program aims at continuing last winter's voluntary testing of school children and teachers. About 20,000 were tested.

Byrd Records Story of Lone Antarctic Vigil

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Alone," by Richard E. Byrd. [Putnam, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

This is the record of an experience unique in human annals. Of all human beings alive today, Richard E. Byrd is the only one who has lived by himself for five months just 20 degrees from the south pole. There he fought not only the blackness of night, loneliness, and ice seeping, crawling, rushing into his very bones, but death itself, "a stranger sitting in a darkened room secure in the knowledge that he would be there when I was gone," and an even subtler, more insidious enemy—despair and the fear of dying mounting almost to insanity.

The intimate record of those months, told in a beautiful and exciting prose, makes a book which no one who reads it can forget. Without the kind of false modesty that might have made its pages mawkish, with an honest evaluation of his own reactions, Admiral Byrd tells one of the most dramatic stories that man has ever written. Fiction could never rival its suspense; fact has rarely rivaled its tenseness.

He explains why he was alone at Advance base. The original plan, to put three observers there, had to be abandoned because the discouraging delays and exhausting work of getting to Little America had used up both time and strength, and it was impossible to transport enough supplies for three. Two would have been a psychological horror, he says, and if one man was to go "I could not bring myself to ask a subordinate to take the job." Admiral Byrd reveals his inner compulsions with frankness. He was interested in the experiment psychologically; "I wanted to sink roots into some replenishing philosophy," he says.

The pages rise in a crescendo of excitement from the first few weeks of peace "in a world I could span in four strides going one way and in three strides going the other." There is the strangely satisfying comfort in routine. He sees the physical world about him anew, a gradual accumulation of darkness, "like that of an infinitely prolonged tide." His conviction increases "that half the confusion in the world comes from not knowing how little we need."

Then comes the sudden, shattering moment when carbon monoxide gas from the radio engine and stove nearly kills him. The reader lives through pages of his increasing horror and decreasing strength when he records his desperate eagerness not to alarm Little America. He tells of a courage of heart, spirit, and body rarely chronicled, and ends with the story of the rescue just as life itself, like the last flares, was burning out.

"Alone" is a classic.

Tense, Tender Record of a Remarkable Life.

"All This and Heaven, Too," by Rachel Field. [Macmillan, $2.50.] Published Monday.

This absorbing record of a life, an actual one, which was not only exciting and vivid but which was instrumental in changing the pattern of French history is certain to be one of the year's phenomenal best sellers. It has all the allurements of both fact and fiction. It is a tense and tender record of one lonely woman's tragedy and triumph. It has a mounting mystery, culminating in a murder which became the talk of the civilized world. In its pages are the great of two countries.

This is Rachel Field's brilliantly skilful fictionizing of the life of her great aunt, Mrs. Henry M. Field, who, as Mlle. Henriette Deluzy-Desportes, was the most notorious woman of her day. As the book opens in 1841 she is a French governess in her late twenties, about to assume her duties in the family of the Duc and Duchesse de Praslin, four of whose nine children are to become her special charges.

Six years of recrimination, of unbridled jealousy, of pathological possessiveness, of growing love between the children and Mlle. Henriette, and of something very close to love between Henriette and the duc culminate in a murder which assumes nation-wide importance. It also makes of mademoiselle the most talked of woman in France.

One automatically uses the present tense in talking of the events of the book, for Miss Field has made them as contemporaneous as the headlines in tomorrow's news. The throne totters under the repercussion of the "affaire Praslin." Churches take sides on dogmatic lines. The already complaining masses see in the fact that the Duc de Praslin, as a peer, is answerable only to the king, the final intolerable straw. Henriette, anonymously caught in the mobs around the barricades, is a strangely significant as well as a tragic figure. No recent novel has rivaled the tenseness of human relationships in these pages.

Henriette, steering her straight but almost intolerably difficult course, is a character rare in fact as she is in fiction. Her later years in America as the wife of a minister who turned editor and writer—the brother of Cyrus K. Field, who laid the Atlantic cable — are dramatically presented. Their theme is happiness and respect, almost exactly balancing in their power the tragedy and obloquy of her earlier years.

'Armour and His Times' an Interesting Panorama.

"Armour and His Times," by Harper Leech and John Charles Carroll. [Appleton-Century, $3.] Published yesterday.

Into the life story of Philip D. Armour was laced much of the industrial life story of Chicago during the gaudy and exciting years between the 1860s and the end of the century. Harper Leech and John Charles Carroll, the latter a member of THE TRIBUNE editorial staf, have made an interesting panorama of those years. They have used the elder Armour as the central figure, but have highlighted other individuals who are a part of the picture, as well as the whole packing and banking and railroad interests.

In these pages are chronicled the rise of a financial dynasty which crashed with the spectacular loss of a million a day for 150 days by its founder's son; the spreading of a business into 400 branches, from the simple slaughtering of pigs to the scientific utilization of everything about a porker except the squeal; the industrial growth of Chicago; national political issues on which the packing industry had an influence, including the "embalmed beef" inquiry.

P. D. Armour, like all "characters," was a great one for homely maxims. His favorites are used as streamer heads for chapters. Some of them are: "Ambition and pride keep a man at work when money is merely a by-product," "You can't make money driving an empty wagon," "Most men talk too much; most of my success has been due to keeping my mouth shut."

Guide to Selecting College Offered in Second Edition

The second edition of Dr. John Evans' guide to students in the selection of a college or university will be off the press today. The book, entitled "Higher Education," published by the Tribune company, comprises an amplified reprint of Dr. Evans' series on the subject which appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in April and May. The statistical matter was brought down to the close of the school year 1937-'38. The first edition, which appeared in late August, was quickly exhausted. While the book does not cover all colleges of the country, it is intended to illustrate a method whereby a college or university may be intelligently appraised. It has been praised by many nationally known educators. The price at Public Service offices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is 10 cents. By mail the price is 15 cents to cover postage.

Coiner of Word Dymaxion Pens DymaxionBook

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

"Nine Chains to the Moon," by R. Buckminster Fuller. [Lippincott, $4.]

R. Buckminster Fuller is the man who coined the word Dymaxion, meaning dynamic plus maximum service, and invented a house and an automobile to fit the word.

Now he has written a dymaxion book. It would be a lot more dymaxion if Mr. Fuller did not have a literary style that almost drives a reader crazy. But he offers a lot of information about our present inefficient world and a lot of ideas about how to improve things.

Mr. Fuller, who is no namby-pamby prophet, predicts that in the next ten years we'll have radio transmission of power, a mechanical stock exchange, broadcast education, a money system based on the energy dollar, and socialization of what he calls the plenitudinous industries.

Vivid Reminiscences of Famous Architect.

"More Lives than One," by Claude Bragdon. [Knopf, $3.75.]

Claude Bragdon has written a much gentler book. A successful architect, stage designer, author, and evangelist for many causes, he had a special genius for friendship. He is able to write vivid reminiscences of such diverse celebrities as Louis Sullivan, Krishnamurti, Minnie Maddern Fiske, George Eastman, and Walter Hampden. Mr. Bragdon devotes a good deal of his book to his studies on occultism. Even those who will not be able to follow him there will be grateful for the rest of his life story.

An American Builder Gives His Life Story.

"Changing the Skyline," by Paul Starrett. [Whittlesey House, $3.]

Paul Starrett's autobiography is another one of these American epics. Born in Kansas, the son of a minister, he moved to Chicago and started his career as a $4 a week stock boy in a Lake street hardware establishment. He watched the building of the Rookery and decided to become a builder.

His brother Theodore, then a draftsman for Burnham & Root, got Paul a job with the firm. Daniel Burnham took an interest in Paul and made him superintendent on two buildings at the 1893 World's Fair. Soon afterward he joined the George A. Fuller company, leading Chicago builders. Thereafter Paul Starrett rose with the American building industry. He went to New York, built the Flatiron building, dozens of skyscrapers in other cities, and the Empire State building. His modest narrative avoids sermons in stones and attempts no rash prophecies.

What Strange Things Men Do to Become President.

"It Costs to Be President," by Henry L. Stoddard. [Harpers, $3.50.]

Men will do strange things to become President of the United States. The caprice of fate pitches some into the White House when they have little desire to be there, well knowing the terrific toll the job takes. Yet others, knowing this toll, strive against their own reason to get into this place of power. Once in they want out; when out they want back in again. Mr. Stoddard has been close to this strange parade for nearly 50 years. He was on close terms with nine Presidents. He presents skilful pictures of Coolidge and Hoover, Al Smith and Wilson. Coolidge knew when he had enough. Blaine knew what the White House would do to him, yet he was striving on his death bed to get into it. One of the highlights of the book is Mr. Stoddard's story of the convention that nominated Bryan. W. D. O.

Drama Editor Reviews Ten Years in Theater.

"Two on the Aisle," by John Mason Brown. [Norton, $2.75.]

The last ten years in the American theater have been exciting ones. And they lose nothing in retrospect when chronicled in witty and critical vein by John Mason Brown.

As a New York dramatic editor since 1929, he has sat in judgment on hundreds of plays. Generous in praise where waranted, he is merciless in deriding other productions. The most important of his critiques and observations are included in this volume.

Of Tallulah Bankhead, for instance, he says in one review that she is among the most gifted of actresses. But he mows her down in one sentence on another of her plays: "Tallulah Bankhead barged down the Nile last night as Cleopatra—and sank."

Among the plays to which he gives unstinted praise are "Mourning Becomes Electra," "Of Mice and Men," and "Our Town." S. M. K.

This Thriller Supplies Chills by the Carload.

"Lament for a Maker," by Michael Innes. [Dodd Mead, $2.]

Chills by the carload punctuate this ideally located Scottish thriller. The castle of Glen Erchany is conjured up from the very best of all shuddering descriptions, and hardened indeed is the mystery fan who can sit through this dour tale without an almost constantly tingling scalp. Michael Innes is a powerful macabre writer, but almost any solution for the death of Ranald Guthrie, laird of the castle, would do as long as it kept the characters within those fearsome walls. They are kept there, and the reader right along with them. Only the most stolid should undertake this story at midnight. P. W.

REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD E. BYRD'S

story of his greatest adventure in the shadow of the South Pole

TOLD FOR THE FIRST TIME —A UNIQUE PERSONAL NARRATIVE ONLY ONE MAN COULD WRITE

Why did Byrd go alone to Advance Base in the heart of the Antarctic? What did he do, hour after hour, day after day, for 140 days — all of them nights? What struck him down in the depths of the long winter darkness? Why did he refuse to call for help? It took four years of constant persuasion on the part of thousands of people throughout the country to induce Admiral Byrd to tell the story of this experience — an experience so intimate, so devastating, that he never wished to recall it.

None of the reassuring things of the past were of any help to Admiral Byrd at Latitude 80° 08′ South. Not when he lamed his arm. Nor when the sun rolled under the northern horizon and darkness washed in from the south for good. Nor when carbon monoxide from a small engine nearly killed him. Nor when the radio went dead. Nor, finally, when the ice crystals thickened on the shack walls, the flame wavered in the pressure lantern and the only living sound that side of the South Pole was the breathing of a man who was not yet sure that he would not die.

No one has ever before written such a book. For that matter, no one else could have written such a book. When you finish it, you will understand why. Illustrated by Richard E. Harrison.

ARMOUR AND HIS TIMES

A BIOGRAPHY

By Harper Leech and John Charles Carroll

The biography of one of the great magnates of industry whose life typified the rise of the "pork barons." There is thrill and excitement in this story, and a striking picture of unrivaled development in modes of living as the history of the West unfolds from 1850 to 1900. The story of the growth of the packing industry is anything but dull—the names of Swift, Morris, Cudahy, Leiter and other giants—stories about competition, as well as battles with railroads, development of refrigeration, scandals of embalmed beef, attacks of muckrakers, guarantee absorbing reading. Illustrated. $3.00.

Clubs to Hold Gay Halloween Parties Tonight

BY JUDITH CASS.

MOST of the Halloween celebrating will be done tonight instead of on Monday night, which properly is Halloween. There will be several parties at the Saddle and Cycle club's Halloween dinner-dance. Fielding Marshall is entertaining there for his debutante niece, Miss Jane Allen.

Others giving parties to make up the group of more than 200 celebrating at the club are the junior Ross J. Beattys, the Henry L. McIntyres, the Louis Sudlers, the Robert Harveys, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft III., the Louis S. Taylors, the Francis T. O'Briens, Miss Caroline Bush, the John V. Farwells, and Dr. and Mrs. Sydney Waud.

Costumes are not required for the Saddle and Cycle party, at which the decorations are to be the traditional Halloween ones: Pumpkins, lanterns, witches, and hobgoblins. A fortune teller will amuse those sitting out dances. The dance the young Potter Palmers, Miss Pauline and Gordon Palmer, are giving tonight at the Shoreacres club for Miss Barbara Stanley and Walter C. Coleman is not to be a costume affair either. Another party for Miss Stanley and her fiancé today is a cocktail party four bachelors, Philip S. Dalton, Howard F. Gillette Jr., A. Werk Cook, and Charles Newhall, are giving at the Onwentsia. Miss Ethel Johnston and Miss Martha Borland are giving a dinner for Mr. Coleman and Miss Stanley preceding the Palmers' dance.

Wayne Hunt Holds Trials Tomorrow.

The Dunham Woods club's Halloween party tonight is to be an outdoor one, weather permitting, with dinner served around bonfires, and Halloween sports rather than dancing on the program. The Wayne hunt is holding its second annual hunter trials tomorrow in the pastures adjoining the mare barn at the club.

The first event, exclusively for members of the Wayne hunt, will be held at 11 o'clock. The winner of this class will receive a trophy, presented by the hunt, which must be won three times for permanent possession. Starting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon will be classes for working hunters and hunt teams. Entered in these two classes from the Wayne hunt are Charles R. Lindsay III., Arthur Farwell, Raymond O. Mitchell, J. McWilliams Stone, John L. Dole, Henry T. Stanton Jr., and Edgerton A. Throckmorton.

Luncheon will be served at the club to those who do not bring picnic luncheons. Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. and C. Groverman Ellis will act as judges.

Du Page Hunt Will Have Guests Today.

Many of those who go to Wayne tomorrow from the north shore will be going west this afternoon, too, for riders from the Mill Creek and Longmeadow hunts and Fort Sheridan have been invited to join the Du Page hunt this afternoon in a ride to hounds. Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, the M. F. H. of the Du Page, is giving a high tea after the run at her home. Deering McCormick is joint master of the Du Page.

Young Mr. McCormick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, and the Louis Swifts are entertaining the guests at luncheon parties before the run.

The George Harveys are giving a Halloween party Monday night for Miss Honor Merrell and Gordon Loud, who are to be married next Saturday night. Today the J. Russell Scotts will be hosts at the cocktail hour, after which Edgar Hill II. will give a dinner party in the Pump room of the Ambassador East hotel for the couple.

Norman-Baker Nuptials Today.

For her wedding this afternoon to John Norman, Miss Emily Carr Baker will wear a veil of Brussels lace belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Walter S. Carr. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Baker, in Hinsdale. Only members of the two families will be present at the ceremony, which will be read by the Rev. Wilfred Rowell of the Hinsdale Union church. A reception will follow.

Mrs. James S. Knowlson IV. will be her sister's only attendant, and Richard Norman will be his brother's attendant. After a southern cruise Mr. Norman and his bride will be at home in Hinsdale. Mr. Norman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ewing Norman of Hinsdale.

Messages of congratulations from all of Edwin F. Gillette's Chicago friends and family will be sent to Pasadena today on the occasion of his wedding to Miss Harriette O'Neil. The ceremony is to be a small, informal one. Edwin Gillette is the only one of Mr. Gillette's four children who will be present. Mr. Gillette

True Ghost Story.

It was an autumn evening some years ago. Mrs. Roger Maris of 2811 Lunt avenue, Chicago, was driving her mother to the town of Glen Ellyn from Wheaton, on Roosevelt road, when she slammed her foot on the brakes and screamed in terror. She had run down a man, she told her mother hysterically. Her mother had seen no one and a search disclosed no one had been run over.

As the two motorists proceeded slowly on toward Glen Ellyn, Mrs. Maris explained to her mother that the lights of the car had picked out the figure of a man directly in the road ahead, slouching along, his hands in his pockets, a checkered cap on his bowed head. A moment later, as she screamed and jammed on the brakes she had seen him fall beneath the wheels of the car.

It took about ten minutes to reach the North Western station where they were planning to meet Mrs. Maris's sister. As they drove up the train from Wheaton pulled to a stop in front of the station, and, as they watched, the broken form of a man was lifted from the engine cab and placed on the baggage carrier. The two women heard the engineer explaining agitatedly, "He just seemed to loom up in front of me, slouching along the tracks with his head down and his hands in his pockets." Then the engineer got into his cab, picked up something from the floor and placed it beside the dead man.

It was a checkered cap.

The linden trees in couples are the doors.

Goodnight, Angel.

A story told by vivacious Mme. Melchior at the dinner Composer Marinus Paulsen gave the night before the famous tenor and his wife left town Tuesday concerned his singing at funerals in Denmark early in his career. For the funeral of an innkeeper, he chose a song, the translated title of which was An Angel Has Touched Your Brow. As Melchior sang it he became aware of a suppressed titter among the mourners, which increased to laughter and the song ended in a gale of merriment which effectively broke up the obsequies. Amazed, Melchior sought the reason and learned that the innkeeper had been killed by a blow

Opera Opening to Be Brilliant Scene Tonight

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the curtains in the Civic Opera house will be raised to present to Chicago's opera-going public the first performance of the 1938 season. It should be a brilliant opening, for this year's feminine fashions all tend to make an assemblage of women in their newest formal gowns, escorted by white-tied, tail-coated men, a colorful, stunning sight.

Fabrics, furs, and costume jewelry are more gorgeous than ever. Real jewels, of course, are the quintessence of brilliance and an opera première always means that every woman who is to attend it and who has any precious jewels visits her safety deposit box that day.

The Chicago City Opera company will do its part to provide the traditional sort of an opening night by staging the dramatic "Otello" with Jepson, Barova, Martinelli, and Tibbett in the leading rôles. Jason F. Whitney, president of the company, and Mrs. Whitney will have with them in their box that great friend and patron of music, Mrs. Louis Eckstein; Catherine Littlefield, director of the opera ballet this year; her husband, Philip Leidy of Philadelphia, and her sister, Miss Dorothy Littlefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk.

After the performance the Whitneys will entertain their box guests and the artists of the company at supper in the Opera club.

Robert Hall McCormick, executive vice president of the company, will give a dinner for his box party in his apartment in the McCormick building in South Michigan avenue. His guests will be the vice president, Miss Anna Fitziu, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, and Henry Field and his charming bride.

Harold F. McCormick's bride will make her first appearance as hostess in an opera box in Chicago tonight. With Mr. and Mrs. McCormick at the opera and at dinner before in their Rush street home will be Mr. McCormick's sister, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, and Dr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Capps.

Miss Elizabeth McCormick and the Leander McCormicks will be among Mrs. Ernest R. Graham's guests at the opera and at dinner in the Electric club earlier. Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick are sharing a box tonight; their guests will be Miss Gillian Hansard who is visiting Mrs. Chadwick, Gen. and Mrs. Hugh Drum, Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frank, and Ira Nelson Morris. Mayor and Mrs. Kelly have given their box to the Robert J. Dunhams.

Others who have boxes for tonight are the Edward Morrises, John C. Shaffers, the John D. Allens, the junior Richard Coopers, and the John L. Kelloggs.

DORIS KENYON SILLS, ALBERT D. LASKER WED; EUROPE-BOUND

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Doris Kenyon Sills, former motion picture actress, and Albert D. Lasker, wealthy Chicago advertising man, were honeymooning on the high seas today. They were married earlier in the day at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria at a ceremony attended only by close friends.

Just before they sailed at noon on the French liner Ile de France for a two months' trip to London and Paris, both of the newlyweds said they had retired from business.

Lasker, who was chairman of the United States shipping board for two years under the Harding administration and is head of the advertising firm of Lord & Thomas, said he had retired from active participation in the advertising and motion picture business. Mrs. Lasker said she had given up both the movies and the concert stage.

Noted Artists Assure Great Opera Season

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With a pre-season, nonsubscription performance of Verdi's "Otello" in the Civic Opera house, the Chicago City Opera company tonight begins its 1938 activities. The cast is headed by Giovanni Martinelli, Helen Jepson, and Lawrence Tibbett, singing Otello, Desdemona, and Iago, respectively. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

The subscription season will begin next Monday and run through Dec. 17. Performances are scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoons. The popular priced school board series fills Thursday evenings.

In addition to opera, the company is sponsoring a cycle of ballet evenings by performances by the Littlefield ballet. The first of these takes place tomorrow evening.

The brilliance of the opening cast is to be matched again and again throughout the season. Such familiar names as Flagstad, Masini, Pons, Hackett, Maison, Dosia, Burdino, Tokatyan, and Bampton share the limelight with newcomers like Hilda Reggiani, Bruna Castagna, Maria Reining, and Chicago's own Margery Mayer. Gigli and Kipnis are returning. It is years since the former has made any sort of appearance here. The latter has not sung in Chicago opera in recent seasons.

La Rabida Ball.

The junior auxiliary of La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium is giving a Halloween ball tonight at the Lake Shore Athletic club, with Mrs. Robert E. Langford as chairman. Corn shocks, leaves, and pumpkins will furnish the proper atmosphere.

December Bride

At a small luncheon at home yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Julianna Holmes, to Palmer Leonard Skoglund of Philadelphia, son of Mrs. Otto H. Skoglund and the late Mr. Skoglund of Evanston. The announcement did not come as a surprise to the dozen close friends at the luncheon for Mr. Skoglund has been Miss Holmes' most devoted beau for a long time.

What was a surprise, however, was that the clever place cards invited some of the guests to be attendants at the wedding, which is to take place on Dec. 28. The ceremony is to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Congregational church of Evanston, with a reception following at the Country club of Evanston.

Miss Holmes, whose father was the late Woodward Holmes, is a graduate of Northwestern university. She is president of the North Shore Alumnae association of Kappa Kappa Gamma, and has been active in the Arden Shore association, serving at the present time as chairman of the Chicago committee, which recently gave a successful benefit dance at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Vanzwoll has been actively interested in musical circles, having been president of the Musicians' Club of Women and of the Woman's Symphony Orchestral association. Mr. Skoglund moved to Philadelphia recently. He will not return to Evanston until Christmas time, when there will be a round of parties for him and his popular fiancée.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Once upon a time, as you know if you have read Myron Brinig's absorbing book, there were three girls—the Elliott sisters—whose destiny led them far from their humble beginnings in Silver Bowl, Mont.

Though the movie isn't always faithful to the novel, it is a splendid production, pulsing with intelligence and giving the observer plenty in the way of a certain sort of suspense.

The picture devotes most of its footage to the adventures of the eldest sister, Louise. The book impartially detailed the lives of all three girls. To do this in a film would, of course, be impossible, unless the makers turned out a "Strange Interlude" affair with time out for dinner.

And what about Louise?

Plenty, I assure you.

She elopes with a hard drinking San Francisco newspaper man instead of wedding the local banker's son all picked out for her by her family.

Love at first sight it is between this quiet, assured, lovely Elliott girl and the handsome, tempestuous, unstable Frank Medlin. . . . The life to which he introduces her is far different from the uneventful existence that has been hers in the crowded rooms above her father's pharmacy. . . . And—to make a long story short—she pilots her marriage safely through stormy and disheartening times that even include the San Francisco earthquake.

For her loyalty and love never flinch and never once does she take her steady eyes from the goal she has determined to reach. . . . [You just can't get that sort of women down, you know!]

In the meantime, prosaic Sister Grace wins the jilted banker's son. . . . Helen becomes the wife of a rich man much older than herself and, after his death, weds lightly and often. . . . But any trial that comes to any sister is faced by the three in unison.

Miss Davis again proves her versatility. She gives a thoughtful and appealing interpretation of Louise. But in such a rôle her genius is not so apparent as when she's portraying a hellion—a part where she can really let go. . . . And my, my, how unbecoming that upswept coiffure—especially behind the ears!

Errol Flyn plays Medlin intelligently and well—but here was no rôle for him. Give this lad the sun in his eyes, the wind in his teeth! Put him on a boat he can sail—a horse he can ride. Let him have men and elements to defy and conquer. But submerge him never! And that's what's been done to him in this picture.

You will like Anita Louise as carefree Helen and Jane Bryan as Grace—though the picture version has deleted much of the color with which the book invested them. . . . Henry Travers as the pharmacist and Beulah Bondi as his wife give outstanding "bit" portrayals. . . . Other players are excellent, and direction was most able.

The "atmosphere" of the Teddy Roosevelt era was effectively captured. . . . There are several thrilling earthquake sequences—as terrifying in their way as the storms in "Lost Horizon" and "Hurricane."

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Movies Are Big Business.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 28.—The fiscal year of the movie companies started on Sept. 1 and will end next Aug. 31. . . . Already every studio in town is engaged in production, and you may well pause to ask: What are the objectives? . . . How many pictures will be produced during the twelve month span that started on Sept. 1, and what will be the total costs? The figures I've assembled are approximations, but they'll come pretty close to the final mark. Let's tabulate 'em.

Company—	Feature length pictures.	Total cost.
M.-G.-M.	45	$30,000,000
Paramount	64	28,000,000
20th Century-Fox	60	28,000,000
Warner Brothers	52	22,000,000
RKO	48	20,000,000
Universal	40	12,000,000
United Artists	20	15,000,000
Columbia	18	12,000,000

That means that about 347 feature length pictures will be made in Hollywood by the time next Aug. 31 rolls around. . . . The total production costs at eight studios should run between $150,000,000 and $165,000,000. . . . If you doubt that the movies are big business, consider these figures. . . . Only steel, agriculture, and the automobile industry top them. . . . Hollywood's weekly pay roll runs to $1,500,000.

There are 16,300 theaters in the United States, and about 85,000 theaters in the world. . . . The physical work entailed in keeping them supplied with film forces Hollywood to gear its production schedules almost to factory routine.

The wonder, then, in view of this back-breaking production schedule, is that the movie colony turns out so much fine work. . . . Each week, to meet production demands and the demands of theaters, Hollywood must air mail between six and seven completed films out of the local airports. . . . It is asking too much for each of the six pictures each week to be an epic, isn't it?

The reason that Hollywood burns up when a Samuel Goldwyn steps off the boat in New York and delivers himself of indictments of his fellow producers is that Goldwyn does not compete with a Zanuck in any sense of the word. . . . Zanuck, for instance, will have to turn out twenty-eight pictures this year. . . . Goldwyn will be called on by United Artists to turn out three. . . . David Selznick will turn out four pictures. . . . Walter Wanger will turn out four. . . . Theoretically, that is the ideal way to make pictures, permitting a producer to concentrate on quality rather than quantity.

Unfortunately for Zanuck and M.-G.-M. and Paramount and Warner's and RKO they have to meet production dates every week, and they have to complete pictures, a lot of them. . . . They are in the position of publishers of a daily newspaper . . . Goldwyn, Selznick and Wanger are in the position of publishers of a monthly magazine.

The next time you go into a movie theater and watch a picture, consider that it is one of 347 pictures that have to be made for you in the course of twelve months. . . . It is an artistic and mathematical certainty that not all of the 347 pictures will be great pictures.

If you saw 347 plays on Broadway, how many would be memorable? . . . Yet during the course of a year of production you will see an amazing number of fine pictures and it is on these that Hollywood should be judged, because the rest comprise the slack that is inevitable.

One thing I can assure you—no producer in this town ever tries to make a bad picture . . . I've seen a lot of bad pictures on the screen, but each time I see one that falls below the mark I think back to the preliminary work that was done on the sets. . . . There was the same enthusiasm, the same energy, the same effort in the picture that turned out poorly as in the picture that turned out well.

Hollywood, by the time Aug. 31, 1939, rolls around, will have gambled more than $150,000,000 on the chance that it can entertain you successfully. . . . That is an awful lot of money to hazard on anything so subject to fluctuation as public taste, isn't it?

I have likened this gamble before to a giant game of roulette, and the simile is most apt. . . . Picture a croupier spinning a roulette wheel 347 times. . . . Each time he spins it Hollywood bets $430,000 on a single number. . . . That is the proper conception of the movie business, but the movie companies don't get roulette odds of 35 to 1 when one of the 347 pictures clicks. . . . The movie payoff is about 3 to 1. . . . A picture costing $1,500,000 that grosses $4,500,000 is the exception to the rule of successes.

Scarfs, 8 Feet Long, Dress Up Sports Outfits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Odds and ends department, mostly ends . . . the newest wind around plaid wool scarfs are ready. These are real winders, fully eight feet long and about eighteen inches wide. You turn them around the neck once and let the ends fall where they will, except of course in the breakfast porridge or luncheon soup.

Seriously they're good contenders for popular favor, with zip enough to oust anything less long and they may do away with the ascots for weeks or more.

See the peasant challis squares, in a breathless array of vivid colors and unusual patterns. These are used as a fake front for your suit jackets.

The white affairs with bright blue and rose red flowers splashed with green leaves are slick finds for dull black and all dark colored outfits. Unusual shades of red, rust, kelly green, and carbon blue are other alternates for contrast. Wear these for belts and with sweaters and skirts, too.

Some of the trickiest muffs of the season are those crocheted of yarn. High hats, dashingly aslant like a cossack's hat, started the idea. These hats are crocheted in thick loops that achieve a fine fuzzy fur effect. Nimble fingered crocheters can manage a muff to match in no time at all. Crocheted hat and muff duets are worn with tweeds, sweater outfits, and with wool spectator sports clothes.

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman, who receives them, they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy, which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being taken care of by his sister Evelyn. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine, which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived she explains Penelope helped her escape. Colin plans to have his friend, Dr. MacConochie, examine Betsy, after he learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Geoffrey appears and tries to get Betsy to go to his London flat, but she refuses. Betsy's aunt arrives and is met by Geoffrey. He takes her to his flat. David barely escapes death at the hands of a hit and run driver.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

DISCIPLINARY PLANS.

Ruined belongings spilled from David's suitcase. Everything was mashed to a pulp.

"As I ought to have been . . ."

Yes, not a doubt of it. Except for that chance glance over his shoulder he wouldn't have had an earthly. Cut in two, like this steel-lined bag—or if not, at least disabled for several months . . ."

The six-foot constable he discovered somnolently pacing the far end of Woburn place gave incredulous ear to his tale, but seemed, after dubious scrutiny, on the road to being convinced. Once in a bluemoon, David inferred, such behavior did occur. It meant, of course, that the driver was mad or intoxicated.

"I tell you, I saw him doing it! It looked to me like sheer premeditated calculation!"

"Saw him, sir?" asked the officer, having clicked his tongue in deprecation of this statement. "Failing the number, can you describe the driver?"

"God!" swore David. "I don't mean I saw his face. I didn't. The glass was too dimmed by this blasted damp—and the headlamps blinded me. What I did see was the clean way he headed straight for the sidewalk . . ."

"You don't mean pavement?"

"I stand corrected. Pavement it is. He accelerated some fifty yards behind. By luck—but come along, let me show you!"

In two minutes the constable was shaking a helmeted head over the debris surrounding the area gate. He looked from this to David's purpling decoration, then at the faint twin tracks of tires, trained in a shallow semi-circle.

"No reason to think any person had designs on your life?"

David, still dazed, summoned his thought. He could prove nothing. It was not Scarpath's car, and the driver's face had been only a blur. The last thing he wanted was to bring Elizabeth into a mess.

"Certainly not," he answered and began gathering up his personal effects.

Kindly the policeman helped him.

"Much hurt, sir? Better put raw beef on that head and get into a hot bath. Here, what about this taxi?"

. . . . . .

On waking it took Fanny some moments to decide whether she was in an express train, a heaving boat, or a plane loathsomely soaring and ducking. Then her bearings returned, and with them, irritatingly, the full toll of Elizabeth's indiscretions.

"Her mother's child!" she grumbled. "Bessie was wrong-headed, I remember. No doubt she'd have profited by firmer handling—and Elizabeth will, too!"

Her hands itched to undertake the disciplinary measures.

"Nerves—pah! A convenient name for whims any girl of her upbringing ought to be ashamed of! I've no patience with her. She gets the husband she wants—far in excess of her deserts, as it happens. Well, then, let her hold on to him, not go casting herself after some Tom, Dick, or Harry, who in all likelihood expects to get a fortune with her. Or no" —reflectively—"one can't be positive about that. If she doesn't know, then Beddoes can't, either."

Soft sounds issued from the bathroom. Thus far she had not speculated on her host's domestic arrangements, but now, as she was noting the neat disposal of her ivory toilet articles and the fresh undergarments laid tidily over a chair a maid appeared in the opposite door. A plain, wholesome woman she was, clad in a sedate morning uniform. Fanny jerked a tousled head at her and demanded the time.

"Nine, madam. I've run your bath. I hope Mr. Scarpath was right about your not wanting early tea?"

Fanny hoisted herself, grimacing as a twinge caught her. Only rheumatic, thank God! The draught in that train . . .

"Tea? No, not now. For breakfast."

"O!" The maid seemed taken aback. "Yes, certainly, madam, the master thought it was coffee."

The woman in bed wavered. After all, just once . . .

Why, this was American coffee, which Nathan's negro chef couldn't have bettered! Yet another tactful tribute.

Now, dipping into a luscious grapefruit and peeping under a silver cover at kidneys and mushrooms done to a turn, she let conscience slide. Moreover, she had been brought the Daily Mail, a pictorial tabloid, and the last number of the Geographical Review. Most thoughtful!

She felt pleasantly rested now and aglow from her bath and her long-denied coffee. Amenities she herself had paid to procure, open-handedly. Graceful acceptance was a rare gift. Far more difficult to receive than to lavish, as she herself well knew. Geoffrey, to be sure, had demurred. That she had expected, yet once she had had her way there had never been the least consciousness of strain.

"I'm not often out in character reading," mused Fanny complacently, and congratulated herself on maneuvering things with such skill. It gave her, so to speak, the whiphand over Elizabeth—which was what she now wanted. . . .

Some time later, in a suit, nicely pressed and the same cavalier hat aslant over her eyes, she stalked into the room which seemed part of a hazy dream. Geoffrey was there, moving about with an impatience which vanished at sight of her.

"Had a good night?" he asked, kissing her lightly and retaining her lean fingers in his. "How was the bed?"

"Fine," she grunted. "I'm quite restored."

Despite this assurance his eyes dwelt searchingly on her. Fanny understood the reason, yet knowing she could put an instant end to his anxiety she hugged her secret to her bosom. Let him wait was her grimly coy thought, men in her belief being all the better for a little dangling—yes, even the Geoffreys of this world. It might be cruel to torment him, but his relief, when it did come, would be all the keener.

"Now!" she opened briskly. "What about this doctor?"

"He's coming presently. It must entail cutting an appointment, but I persuaded him it was urgent."

"Quite right," approved Fanny, who disliked delays even more than she did uncertainty, and her estimate of Dr. Broderick went up several notches. It was satisfactory to learn the man's time was valuable. On the other hand he must not imagine Fanny Rush's claims could be lightly set aside.

"My plan is laid," she announced. "I expect to have your wife with you by tomorrow at latest—or else in a sanatorium, where, if you'll forgive my saying it, you should have placed her at the outset. I don't wonder your sister broke down."

Menuhin Refuses to Join Guild; Barred as Orchestra Soloist

Los Gatos, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Because he refuses to join a musicians' guild at a cost of $70, Yehudi Menuhin, American violin virtuoso, appeared likely today to lose a $3,000 engagement with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra.

Declaring his "freedom as an artist" was at stake, Menuhin, who is 21, declined to join the American Guild of Musical Artists, a requisite before performing with the Philharmonic Nov. 3 and 4.

Menuhin insisted it was not a question of paying the membership fee or his attitude toward organized labor that prompted the rebellion, but that as a free lance artist he could not see why he should be required to sign a paper saying he "authorizes A. G. M. A. to be my exclusive agent."

Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish, executive vice president of the Philharmonic, seemed equally adamant in Los Angeles.

She said A. G. M. A. sought "decent, honest management" of musical artists, and for that reason she would not ask the guild to waive a contract with the orchestra to allow Menuhin to perform.

Lawrence Tibbett is head of the guild.

HINTS TO FRUIT CAKE MAKERS: It's possible nowadays to buy the fruit already prepared, and not expensively either. Some food markets carry chopped mixed fruits in bulk—lemon and orange peel, citron, candied cherries, and pineapple. . . . Department stores have a good supply of pans made especially for baking fruit cakes. . . . If your oven has no regulator buy a little oven thermometer so that you'll know the temperature isn't too high for your cakes. Nothing is more dismaying than scorching an ovenful of fruit cakes, and they scorch easily.

Ever hear of rockahominy, pinole, or "no-cake"? It's a parched and powdered Indian corn, a concentrated food much used by early American Indians, woodsmen, and explorers, still used by adventuresome travelers and mountain climbers. Cooked to a porridge with water it makes a good meal. A man could live on it alone for months if necessary. The subject of concentrated foods is an interesting one. There are many of them and it's said that a few really make good eating. You wouldn't want to try them on the folks for Sunday dinner, however.

KINGS AND FOODS: Henry VIII. used to chew fresh peppermint leaves to sweeten his breath before he went a-courting. . . . Louis XIV. of France is supposed to be responsible for consommé. He was something of a Narcissist, I suppose, for he wanted his cook to prepare a soup so clear that he could see his reflection in it. . . . Germany's Charles V. had a fondness for horse meat.

The United States department of agriculture says there are twenty-one kinds of beans. Here they are: Pea beans, red kidney beans, dark red kidney beans, western red kidney beans, white kidney beans, medium white beans [Great Lakes region], marrow white, yelloweye beans, brown Swedish, great northern, Mexican pinto, small white beans and large white beans [Pacific coast], California pink beans, small red beans, bayo, cranberry, blackeye beans [cow peas], white lima beans, baby limas, and butternut beans. So when you go to the store for "beans" better be specific.

A few fruit and vegetable markets now carry chayotes, the "vegetable pear," but few cookbooks tell you how to prepare them. Chayotes are light green and pear shaped and belong to the squash family. They come from Mexico or South America and aren't often seen in our markets. The vegetable has a single, large seed, which may be eaten. Peel and slice the chayote crosswise through the seed. Cook it covered in a small amount of boiling salted water about 20 minutes, or until it is just tender. Drain and serve with butter. One chayote weighing about a pound will serve four persons. Try it just to provide a new flavor in the dinner menu.

Simple Knitted Snow Suit Will Keep Infant Warm

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Winter is just around the corner and the infant from six months to one year must be kept warm and snug when out for his afternoon airing. An infant's snow suit is the ideal solution, and one of the simplest of knitting jobs. Hand knitted garments allow any choice of colors and an excellent quality of yarn at a minimum price. Soft Germantown, combined with fluffy white angora, is the suggested material, but any other yarn working up to the same tension may be substituted.

For instructions for knitting the snow suit for the baby from six months to one year, No. X-115, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

WEDDING

Mrs. William A. Schrei of Kenilworth announces the marriage on Oct. 15 of her daughter, Dorothy Marveline, to Paul Godfrey de la Porte, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. de la Porte of Chicago. Mr. De la Porte and his bride are at home at 1221 Greenleaf avenue.

School Child Needs Lots of Outdoor Play

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Here we are with one more day devoted to the subject of physical reasons why your child may not be doing well in school. Yesterday and the day before we touched upon a number of points in this connection: Hearing, vision, any other physical difficulty discovered by a doctor's examination, food and rest. One important subject not mentioned was fresh air and exercise.

Just as soon as your child is old enough to attend both the morning and afternoon sessions at school, he is substituting inactivity for activity and indoors for outdoors. He is, we may as well admit, spending the best and sunniest part of the day sitting still within four walls. And we who are his parents must compensate for this just as much as we can in the hours remaining after school and in his week-ends.

So, the point we didn't make before this week is that your school child should have vigorous outdoor play after school if he is to be well, and fresh, and have an appetite, and sleep long and soundly, and so have the foundation of good health, which is a necessary factor in achievement and coöperative behavior at school.

For the country and suburban mother this is easy to accomplish. For the city mother it requires managing. But it can be done. There are neighborhoods where traffic and companions make active play outdoors safe and desirable. Other play spots in our cities may be found in parks, squares, playgrounds, school playgrounds, athletic fields away from the school, and some church and settlement house provision for outdoor activities under supervision.

The child who has plenty of fun, play, and sport in the fresh air is better in every way, and so is better equipped for school work.

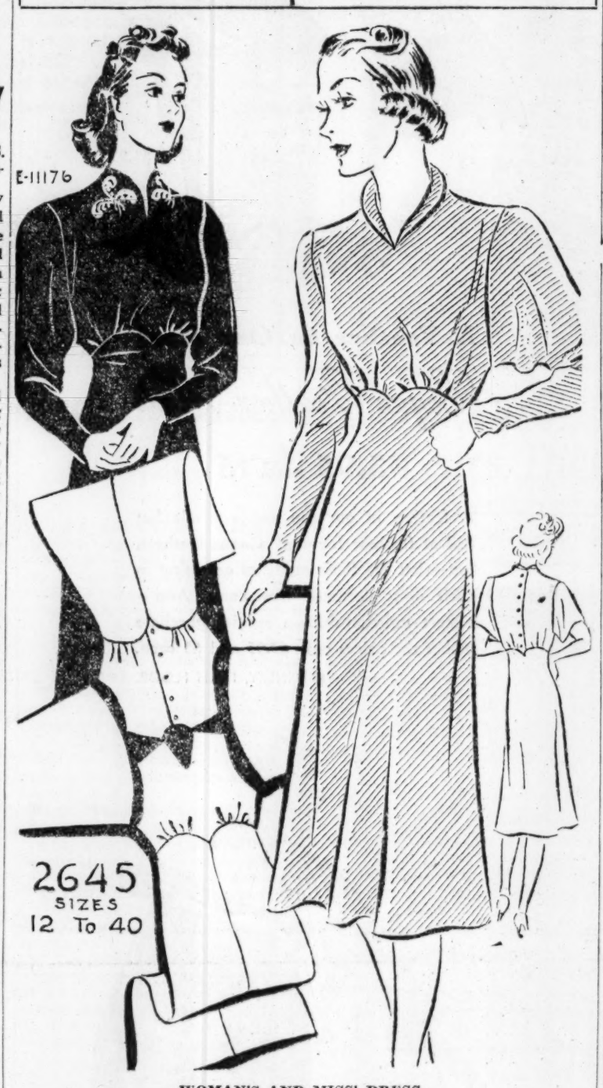
Homework may be the one factor in connection with outdoors and exercise that you cannot control. If home assignments at any age are too heavy to permit this healthful, actually necessary relaxation, then the school is wrong. See your child's teacher; see the principal. Do something about it.

"What Shall We Do About Homework?" is a leaflet of interest to parents and teachers. It will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In Ely Culbertson's column yesterday the answer to question 7 in the national self-rating bridge examination was incomplete. It should have stated further that there are 20 points demerit for playing the spade queen.

Moire an Important Fabric



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

If you have noticed the latest fashion trends, you know how important moire is for afternoon and informal evening wear. It creates some of the most distinctive designs from abroad as well as from the domestic salons. It may be used only for the tops of frocks, or it may fashion the entire dress, as in the case of this model.

The pattern features a flared skirt, doll waist, dolman sleeves, and interesting neckline, which may assume either of two guises. At the left is sketched a version with built-up, collarless neckline enhanced by plume embroidery, the pattern for which is No. E-11176, and is available for 10 cents extra. The regal theme is a major one in fashion just now, and what could be more aristocratic than plumes?

The sketch at the right gives the frock an unusual V neckline, rather high, with the collarline softly rolled.

We should caution you that the embroidery requires a soft surface. If you use the moire, employ only jewelry for trimming.

Style No. 2645 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the long sleeved dress, either neckline.

Evening Gown Is Merciless in Back Exposure

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

If you're going in for one of those charming and picturesque evening frocks that expose shoulders and chest you should be sure you have the shoulders and chest for it. Otherwise you'll be more intriguing in a frock better adapted to your own particular style of beauty. We should have suggested that along with the right shoulders and chest for the 18th century type gown, you have the back for it. Backs, in any evening frock, are no shrinking violets, as you know. But in the type of thing that is due for great popularity this winter season the upper shoulder part of the back is right out in view.

We don't know why we confine good shoulder, chest, and upper back talk to the particular type of evening gown. Any gown, every gown, coat, suit or silver fox looks better for the upper torso perfections. In fact, in our judgment and observation, we can't name a feature about a woman that so stresses here youthfulness or her advanced age as does this particular part of the anatomy, according to its presentation. Talk about your inflated diaphragms, crepey throats or any other age challenge! They're no tale tellers at all compared to the upper back. If it is rounded, bulging, thick, lumpy you may just as well register in at the old ladies' home so far as competing with youth is concerned.

You can't diet this part of you very successfully. Some, yes, if you are very thick of chest and back and shoulders and upper arms. But you really have to tussle with it like a prizefighter getting in trim. You have to exercise and exercise. But you can know that if you will only give the time, the energy and the determination you can drop ten years, at least, in the remodeling of this upper frame structure. Your trouble may be that you are too thin and scrawny for the strapless gown to be effective. Food will help you, true, but you can do a lot of straightening that will lead to better breathing and better expansion where it is needed.

We do get back on the straightening-up subject, but we do it only because we are convinced that more than one-half of woman's silhouette ills suffer for lack of it. Now, here, you have a long winter ahead. Make this straightened-up carriage your winter hobby, if you can't bear to think of it as exercise. Do it anyway, no matter how it looks to you.

Gifts Put Community Fund One-Third of Way Toward Goal

A gift of $42,500 to the Community Fund by Swift & Co. was received yesterday. The contribution put the annual charity campaign past the one-third mark in its quest for $3,500,000. Ralph A. Bard, campaign chairman, said pledges of $9,000 had been received from Libby, McNeill & Libby and from Pullman, Inc., Contributions of $4,000 each were recorded from the American Can company and the Stewart Warner corporation.

Donors of $3,000 each were the Continental Casualty company, the Florsheim Shoe company, the Sinclair Refining company and its employés, Liggett & Myers Tobacco company, and Poor & Co.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Along about the middle of next month we'll be seeing in Chicago some preparations with old world charm AND fragrance that are a sensation in New York, where they arrived via London. These are the fond offerings of the herbalists and are as exciting as they're unique.

They consist of herbal creams, marigold creams, and rose mallow creams; there are other things with such enchanting names as milk of peaches, rose petal lotion, and elder flower astringent. Some are made from fruit and flowers, some from herbs. Women who love fine preparations have gone quite mad over them.

There are herbal bath essences, too; these are a great speciality of the herbal farm. Wild thyme, green moss, lemon verbena, orange flower, and one made from the juice of fresh peaches are a few of them. We're especially impatient for you to see the bath essence made from fresh orange blossoms. It sounds delectable, doesn't it?

In the soaps you'll have a wide choice of fragrances. Fragrances you may never have known before. Lettuce is one, purple heather and wild thyme are others. And if you care for it, which we most certainly could, there is a white phlox dusting powder!

These herb farm offerings don't end with creams and bath fripperies. There are potpourri bowls of dried flowers and herbs, pomander balls, and even culinary herbs. Here you can find the pinch of marjoram, black thyme for flavoring, a very special herb mint, and tarragon. Basil vinegar, too.

Then there are jellies: Thyme, violet petal, pistachio, sage, grapefruit marmalade! And herb teas.

Perhaps you think creams and culinary herbs are strange countercompanions. You won't when you see these. You'll find them impossible to resist, especially if you appreciate the fine shadings of taste and fragrance.

Some of the prettiest tie-backs for curtains we've come across in months cost only a few cents, for you make them yourself from crêpe paper. They are in the form of garlands of flowers: Lavender morning glories, or pink wild roses, or white flowers of your own choosing. You're given explicit directions, if you wish, so that you won't have any trouble in fashioning them to suit your own color scheme.

Remember these tie-backs do not come ready-made. You get the materials and make them yourself. They're especially attractive on curtains of white dotted Swiss, sheer white silk ninon, silk gauze, or organdy.

New Game of Errors.

A Chicago coal company has a large picture of an Indian in full war regalia painted on the fence of its coal yard. The caption under the picture is Pocahontas. What's wrong with this picture? Pocahontas was a woman. The name should be Powhatan if the picture is intended to represent her tribe.

Let's start a new game hunting for similar errors. Miss Buddy Shackette discovered this one. What's your entry?

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Now that the Self-Rating Examination has been running for two weeks and that the answers to the first seven questions already have appeared in this column, examinees will be able to form a rough idea of what is in store for them. Obviously, so far I have just scratched the surface. Before the eighth, and concluding, week I will have touched on every phase of bridge, bidding and play. I must remind readers that there is no cause for discouragement if they have incurred a great many demerits, because very shortly there will be opportunities to win back some of these points by answering difficult questions. Also, as time goes on, I will attempt to give fuller explanations of my answers so that there can be no doubt as to why such a bid or such a play was recommended.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Usually, an opening four heart or four spade bid is a pure preëmptive [shut-out] bid and should not be made on a hand as strong as South's because such a bid interferes greatly with slam bidding. But, in this case, South's partner already had passed, hence South felt that a slam was very remote and that it might be wise to shut out an opposing spade bid.

West opened the spade king, and when East's ten and declarer's nine fell, continued with the spade ace. Declarer ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps, then led a diamond toward dummy's A J 10. The fate of the contract now rested squarely on West's follow-suit card. I greatly fear that 99 in 100 Wests would play the diamond deuce without giving the matter a second thought; that, indeed, they would consider the play that was actually made an evidence of insanity. This particular West put in the diamond queen! But, far from being crazy, the play was brilliant. West already had counted declarer for seven trump tricks. It was very unlikely that South would have bid four hearts vulnerable without another sure trick in his hand. Probably that trick was the club ace. If declarer had three diamonds, there was no hope for the defenders—he would have to make two tricks from dummy's diamond holding. If declarer had only two diamonds, however, it was vital to force him to play dummy's ace immediately. If West ducked, dummy would do likewise. East's king would be forced out, and later declarer would finesse against West's queen. By putting up the queen immediately, West broke the line of communication. Now, if declarer accepted dummy's ace, he would not make another diamond trick. If he ducked, East still would have the king back of the ace-jack.

There are so many hands in which declarer takes successive finesses in a certain suit that it should be an easy matter for the defenders to appraise the situation and, whenever possible, to upset the applecart.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—Undefeated Notre Dame, alma mater of every man who never went to college, and Army, victorious in four of its five starts, will play their 25th anniversary football game in Yankee stadium tomorrow before an overflow crowd of 81,000. All seats for the silver jubilee battle were sold two months ago.

The fans who patronize this game year after year do not turn out to see the fighting Irish and the Cadets settle a national championship. It usually happens that one or both have been beaten before their annual meeting. They come because this series, the oldest intersectional rivalry in football, has amassed such a wealth of tradition and color and hard fighting heritage that it is certain to be something to remember, regardless of the outcome.

Teams on Battle Scene.

Less than a mile from Yankee stadium Ohio State, undefeated in Big Ten competition, will play New York university, and Columbia, the only team that has won from Army, will encounter Cornell, but Army and Notre Dame, neither of whom can claim New York as its home base, will draw more than the other games combined.

Both teams were quartered near the battle grounds tonight. The Army was massed at Knollwood up the Hudson and Notre Dame was encamped at the Westchester Biltmore Country club in Rye.

Pullman porters yanked at the beds ot the South Bend players at 6:45 this morning and they left their special train at Harmon forty-five minutes later. Both teams worked out at their camps this afternoon.

Stresses Holding Ball.

Coach Elmer Layden stressed the importance of holding on to the ball in his last instructions to the Notre Dame boys, who have been sorely afflicted with fumbleitis this season. They lost the ball seven times against Illinois and the same number against Carnegie Tech by carlessness, according to Layden.

"Carnegie crossed the 50 yard line only once under their own power," the Notre Dame leader pointed out, "but they had us in trouble frequently by recovering our fumbles."

Layden expects to start the same combination that has turned in four straight victories, with the possible exception of full back, where Mario Tonelli may give way to Milton Piepul, a sophomore. Tonelli is nursing bruised ribs.

Easterners to Play.

Four of the Notre Dame starters are easterners. They include Capt. Jim McGoldrick of Philadelphia; Harry Stevenson of Bloomfield, N. J.; John Kelly from Rutherford, N. Y., and Ed Longhi of Torrington, Conn.

Capt. Bill Wood, Army's new coach, plans to open with three reserves. Max Maxwell will be at center in place of Bill Gillis, and Bill Kelleher and Bill Mullin move into the back field as replacements for Woody Wilson and Jim Schwenk. The three regulars were injured in the Cadets' triumph over Harvard.

The entire Cadet corps of 1800, plus their band and officers, will come down the west shore line tomorrow morning to Weehawken, thence by ferry to 156th street, from where the lads in gray will march into the stadium.

Old Timers Attend.

Several members of both the Army and Notre Dame teams which engaged in the first of the series, back in 1913, were guests of the Notre Dame club at a rally on the Hotel Pennsylvania roof tonight for the benefit of the Rockne memorial fund. Among the guests was Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Layden was surprised to find his team a 2 to 1 favorite along Broadway.

Notre Dame, which received a guarantee of $1,000 for its first game with the Army, will pull down in excess of $125,000 as its share of the receipts tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 28.—The twenty-fourth football game between Michigan and Illinois tomorrow afternoon definitly will decide the final status of these rivals in the current championship race. Each has won one game and lost one. The winner may yet have a chance to share in the title and regardless of that possibility, virtually will be assured of a first division berth.

The Illini arrived this afternoon for a brief drill before continuing to Dearborn, Mich., where headquarters have been established in the Dearborn inn. Handicapped by injuries to their most valuable back, Mel Brewer, who was shifted from guard at the beginning of the year, and to the veterans Tony Mazeika and Bob Wehrli, the Illini never have managed a consistent attack. Yet because it is Illinois that plays tomorrow, Michigan accords the respect due its foe since Illinois repeatedly has upset the Wolverines' best laid plans.

Strong May Face Old Mates.

Dave Strong, a member of the Michigan varsity, may play against the Illini. This also may provide the headline writers with drama tomorrow, for Strong competed for Illinois in 1936 and his placekick won the Michigan game that year, 9 to 6. If tomorrow he should throw the winning pass—he probably is Michigan's best passer—or kick the winning points, he will have established a record unique in the annals of the Big Ten.

Dave's father is a Michigan alumnus. So it was rather natural that the son eventually transferred from Illinois to Michigan. He hasn't won a first team position but, because Norm Purucker, Michigan's best kicker and regular left half, is handicapped by injury, Strong has moved up in line with Paul Kromer. Strong played in the Minnesota game and had there been sufficient time his fourth period passes might have rallied the Wolverines.

Harmon Is Outstanding.

Michigan's attack, however, isn't centered on the left half back. While this position is important, of course, Tom Harmon, the right half back, has been the outstanding offensive player. With the season half completed Harmon already has proved his merit and the reliability of reports of his high school feats in Gary, Ind.

Michigan's back field strength rests on Harmon and the blocking of Ed Phillips, Forest Evashevski and the substitute for this latter position, Jack Meyer. But even Harmon's speed could not prevail were it not for the aggressive and accurate play of the men in the line.

Credit also must be given to Fritz Crisler and his assistants, Earl Martineau, Clarence Munn, Campbell Dickson, Benny Oosterbaan, and Wally Weber, who have inspired these Wolverines with a spirit to play superior football. Michigan may lose tomorrow. That possibility always is present in a game with Illinois, but Michigan positively is on the road to regain the supremacy of the conference.

French Lane, Tribune Turf Writer for Many Years, Dies

BY EDWARD BURNS.

French Lane, Chicago Tribune sports writer since 1921, died late yesterday afternoon in Evanston hospital. While he had been suffering some time from a complication of ailments, his death was a shock and surprise to relatives and friends who had been in constant touch with him during his illness.

French celebrated his forty-eighth birthday last Wednesday, mostly by telling friends who phoned him that he would be out of the hospital in a few days, possibly, he said, in time to go to the Northwestern-Minnesota football game.

French was born in Lane, Ill.; named after his forebears, Oct. 26, 1890. His parents were Richard and Effie Lane. He attended the grade schools in that small downstate community and went to high school in nearby Clinton. After graduating from Clinton High in 1910 French joined the staf of the Clinton Journal. He served as city editor in 1911 and 1912. In the fall of 1912 he matriculated at Illinois Wesleyan university in Bloomington, where he studied to enter a career as a lawyer. He became a member of Sigma Chi fraternity while at Illinois Wesleyan.

Goes to Bloomington.

In 1913 he forsook law studies and went to work on the Bloomington Bulletin and continued with that paper from 1913 to 1917. From 1917, except for a brief enlistment in the navy during the world war, till he came to THE TRIBUNE in July, 1921, he was employed on the Peoria Journal and Transcript, as sports and news editor.

While thus employed on the Peoria publication he met and became engaged to the society editor, Miss Marie Strehlow. Shortly after French came to Chicago they were married and took up their residence in Evanston. Mrs. Lane, and a daughter, Julia, 12 years old, survive.

Writes of Many Sports.

And now, from these obituary lines, may we go on to some less formal talk about the man from the viewpoint of his associates on THE TRIBUNE, a consensus, as French might have called it:

French was a fine reporter and when he gathered news he gathered friends. He wrote of many sports, but the turf gave him his greatest professional thrill. Shortly after he came to THE TRIBUNE in July, 1921, he became a reporter of racing. His knowledge of his job went far beyond mere race results. He was a student of thoroughbred lines and all the lore of the horse world. All the figures of the turf, from millionaire owners of vast stables to exercise boys, were his friends.

Professional followers of the track are for the most part moaners when things don't go right, which is often. But this crying environment never got French down. He always had a smile and an unruffled temper. He never growled and he never cussed out anybody unless he knew his target was a wrong guy. Even then he'd rather let some one else apply the heat.

Some of the folks with whom French rubbed elbows at the track-side and in loop sports centers were a pretty hardbitten lot. But they never blurred the innate gentleness which he carried to his family.

Looked Forward to Derby.

There was one season to which French pointed each year. Several weeks before the Kentucky Derby he went down into Kentucky to visit the big farms in the vicinity of Lexington. He knew more horsemen than almost anybody and that was the spring reunion. From this he went to the Kentucky Derby, where for many years he shared the Tribune assignment with the late Harvey Woodruff, who died June 2, 1937.

In the office he had a constant stream of callers, ranging from rich men like "Little Tom" Taggart to broken down horse players. The well-to-do wanted him to be their guest, more than likely; the broken down horsemen wanted to give him a "$2 bite." He treated the two types with equal cordiality.

The Lane residence is at 714 Foster street, Evanston. Plans for the funeral have not been announced.

Lewis' Rally in Last 5 Rounds Whips Gainer

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 28.—(AP)—John Henry Lewis went ahead in the final five rounds to whip New Haven's Al Gainer and retain his light heavyweight title tonight. Lewis weighed 174 pounds, Gainer four pounds less.

Weak from making the weight and hard hit by Gainer's consistent attack in the first ten rounds, the colored champion went to work in the final five to earn the unanimous decision of the two judges and referee, and a belt emblematic of the title.

Gainer, favorite with the crowd of 2,278 that paid a net of $7,085, started well. He belted Lewis with three left hooks in the second round to take command. He stayed there by winning the fourth and fifth and headed into the tenth well ahead.

Gainer said after the fight he thought he had broken his right hand in the fifth round. The hand was swollen and badly bruised.

The champion, who pared off nearly twenty pounds to make the weight, took eight rounds on the Associated Press score card to Gainer's five, with two even.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 28.—The old grads of Wisconsin will be coming back home tomorrow to make their annual survey of the Badger football situation. All they know now is that their alma mater has been trimmed in two important games thus far, and after the gloom that has spread like a fog blanket from the Badger campus this week, the old boys are rightfully fearing that their hopes may undergo another shattering at the hands of Indiana's Hoosiers tomorrow.

It's only a few weeks ago that the entire state was ringing with the cheering words originating on the Badgers' practice field. It was conceded that Coach Harry Stuhldreher had a squad which would tear through the season like a pack of wolves dressed in silk pants and cardinal jersies; not one which would crumple as some other promising Wisconsin teams. The worst happened. The Badgers were defeated by Pitt's Panthers. That beating was taken with good grace. But the loss last week to Purdue left a sting that still hurts.

Coach Is Gloomy.

Nobody for miles around is lower in spirit than Stuhldreher. If his team could gain yards with the same ease with which he can bring tears to the eyes of his listeners, it would be too bad for Indiana and future opponents. Stuhldreher's gang is badly crippled and because of the Purdue defeat the ailments seem doubly severe. He hasn't been able to scrimmage the boys all week because of too many minor bruises among the fellows not entirely out of playing condition.

"If Indiana beats us by only one touchdown, I'll consider it a victory," declared Stuhldreher between sobs today.

Two Half Backs Out.

Stuhldreher really is entitled to do a little moaning in addition to the customary portion to which coaches have access on Friday evenings. His two best left half backs are out of service. Bill Schmitz, No. 1 ball carrier and passer, hasn't recovered from the shoulder injury incurred in the battle with Pitt. Tony Gradisnik, who rates next to Schmitz, can't shake off a bad ankle picked up in the Iowa game. He was able to stay in only for one play against Purdue. There's not much chance that any attempt will be made to play either tomorrow. There also is some doubt about Center Jack Murray, injured on the kickoff in the Pitt game.

With the above men unable to respond, Stuhldreher has juggled the remaining talent by installing Roy Bellin at left half and Claude York at right half. Bellin, of course, is a fellow the Hoosiers will have to keep on a leash. He is a fairl ytalented passer and a good pass receiver.

The death of French Lane was a shock not only to us and to all of his fellow workers but to the thousands of his friends who knew him personally and through his writings in the sports pages of The Tribune. His unfailing geniality which made a friend of everyone with whom he came in contact was a characteristic which he somehow managed to impart to every story he wrote. No assignment was too trivial for him to put his best effort into it and as a result everything he wrote was written in an entertaining style. He was a willing, tireless worker, as dependable as the clock on the wall. We're all going to miss French Lane.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 28.—A crowd of 10,000 is expected to witness the football game between Iowa and Purdue tomorrow afternoon in Iowa stadium. For those in the stands, the official occasion for the contest will be Dad's day, but for the members of the sorely tried Hawkeye eleven, it will be showdown day.

It wasn't enough that the Iowa team has been bothered with its usual quota of injuries. Earlier this week, youthful journalism reared its bold head in the old brick building which houses the editorial sanctum of the Daily Iowan. That bright gazette published a couple of scorching blasts in which the Hawkeye team was likened to a broken down lawnmower. The next appearance of the authors at the practice field resulted in both young men being hurled out on their bloomers by a number of irate players.

Hawkeyes Perk Up.

Since then, peace between the editors and the players has been arranged. But the attack on the team, ill timed as many older heads are convinced it was, has had its effect. The so-called lawnmower has undergone a spiritual overhauling and it has been whirring so smartly in the last three workouts that there are no incredulous stares along Dubuque street if you make bold to suggest that the Hawkeyes may lick the Boilermakers.

Added to the stepping up of the team's pace in practice is the hoped for presence of Full Back Frank Balazs, the one time Lane Tech star from Chicago, and Quarter Back Nile Kinnick. The traducers of Iowa's 1938 ability have all too frequently overlooked the fact that neither of these lads has been himself this year.

Balazs, who was expected to be the spark plug of the team this season, suffered a knee injury in practice following the U. C. L. A. game in which he averaged better than four yards a try, and has been hobbling around on crutches since. If he plays tomorrow, it will be with a right knee encased in a special brace. Kinnick, probably the best sophomore back in the conference last year, has been handicapped by an ankle hurt sustained against U. C. L. A.

Put Backs in Line.

Head Coach Irl Tubbs and his assistants, Ernie Nevers and Pat Boland, plan considerable switching about in arranging tomorrow's lineup. Mike Enich, normally a quarter back, will probably appear at right tackle, and Jerry Niles, the full back hero of the victory over Chicago, will move up to center. These shifts, it is hoped, will speed up the Hawkeyes against the team reputed to be the fastest in the league.

Coach Mal Elward and the Purdue squad of 36 players arrived in Davenport this morning and worked out this afternoon on the local high school field. The team will arrive here shortly before game time.

Elward said that eight of the Boilermakers upon whom he is banking were suffering from minor injuries, but all are due for a full afternoon's work.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Northwestern's Wildcats, undefeated, unscored on, but partners in a scoreless tie with Ohio State. Minnesota's Gophers, undefeated, untied, but scored on by Nebraska and Michigan. Both powerful, redhot contenders for the 1938 Big Ten title. There you have the principals in the big football natural to be played before 48,000 or more in Dyche stadium, beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It is homecoming at Northwestern, and an especially gala homecoming, too.

Minnesota's great athletes will come down from their overnight billets in Milwaukee this morning possessed of a grand football record for recent years. They can point with pride in many directions. But they have to go back to 1929 to dig up the story of a conquest in Dyche stadium. That year Bronko Nagurski, of football and wrestling fame, led the Gophers to a 26 to 14 victory.

Show Harsh Hospitality.

Since then the Wildcats have shown a harsh hospitality to the Gophers in the Minnesotans' three Evanston invasions. In 1931 the Wildcats won, 32 to 14, and in 1933 the teams played to a scoreless tie. The Wildcats won, 6 to 0, the last time the Gophers journeyed to this vicinity, two years ago.

There are no bear stories out of the Wildcat first aid bay. The entire squad is in the pink. Though the Gophers have had two weeks to get in shape for the Evanston encounter, they are qualifying their good health news with hints that Left Half Back Harold Van Every, one of the offense aces, still is a mite ailing and Right Half Back Wilbur Moore has occasional shooting pains. It has been announced that both stars will start, however.

Considered a Tossup.

Minnesota yesterday held a slight edge in the professional betting, at least at the book we gave a jingle late in the afternoon. Business was being done on the basis of 5 to 7 on Minnesota and 6 to 5 on Northwestern. Football observers who pick 'em for the sheer love of experting, however, looked upon the combat as a tossup, with many waving Purple pennants.

Man for man comparisons brought out many parallels of physique and football skill. Little choice could be found between the two arrays as the opening kickoff approached. The past performance sheets probably influenced those who forecast a Minnesota victory in one item, the Wildcats' inability to score on Ohio State. Northwestern partisans throw this one out, however, or at least balance it with the skimp 7 to 6 Minnesota victory over Michigan, a game in which the Wolverines outrushed and outpassed the Gophers.

Find Their Offense.

Each team has played two games in its own league. Before that 7 to 6 Michigan affair, the Gophers beat Purdue, 7 to 0, in a game in which neither team completed a forward pass. Besides their scoreless tie with Ohio State, the Wildcats boast last

AUSTIN DEFEATS MARSHALL, 7-0; PEIFER SCORES

West Side Eleven Stays on Title Trail.

Austin, defending Chicago Public High School league football champion, continued its march toward a third consecutive west section title last night by defeating Marshall, 7 to 0, in Mills stadium. The undefeated west siders scored the winning touchdown in the opening quarter.

Capt. Casey Peifer, the only 1937 regular on this season's squad, made the score after Austin had recovered a Marshall fumble on the latter's 15 yard line. Austin moved the ball to the 10 and then Peifer dashed over the goal line to give Austin its fourth victory.

Bowen, DuSable Win.

Bowen and DuSable triumphed in two games yesterday afternoon. Bowen defeated Hirsch, 12 to 0, on Shewbridge field for its third victory in the south section and DuSable routed Englewood, 20 to 0, in Normal park for its second central division triumph.

Left End Martin scored two of DuSable's touchdowns in the second period, the first on a ten yard pass from Johnson and the second by running twenty-five yards after catching another pass from Johnson. The other touchdown was scored by Quarter Back Crump on a short plunge.

Police Halt Damage.

The game was interrupted when approximately 200 colored fans demolished part of the fence around the south side stadium. Arrival of three police squads from the Englewood station prevented further damage.

Thornton Fractional of Calumet City defeated Bloom of Chicago Heights, 14 to 7, last night in a south suburban game.

Legion Wins a Race and Earns His Fare South

Six thoroughbreds went to the post at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon in the Evanston purse, best offering on the card. Four of the six had already scored during the meeting. Three were victors the last time out.

Only Legion and Airlap had failed to win enough money at the meeting to pay their ways south for the winter. Legion got his yesterday. With only two days remaining before the Chicago racing year comes to an end, Legion made certain he will not have to be left behind by scoring a smart three length triumph. Back of him came Dandy's Pal and Our David, with Airlap fourth. Lost to finish of the half dozen starters was Polly Hastings, the 5 to 2 favorite.

Legion's victory was his first hereabouts this year. It was only his third in twenty starts, for 1938 has not been Legion's year. Yesterday he had little trouble with his rivals.

Legion Takes Early Lead.

Jocky José Marrero had Legion off alertly. He was passed by the pace setter, Our David, as they went by the stands the first time. Our David pulled away a bit and then Legion went after him. He caught him a quarter of a mile from home then drew out steadily to his handy victory. Dandy's Pal, always well up, also outfinished Our David. The seven furlongs were run in 1:29 4-5.

Legion's triumph was no surprise. His last start was so creditable that he received a good share of the support in the mutuels. His win price was $9.20. Jocky Marrero was spending his last day in the saddle here, for a suspension of ten days goes into effect today.

Bride's Delight, which had raced with good success at Canadian tracks, made her Chicago debut a winner when she started off the daily double. Bride's Delight was well backed and paid $8.40 after easily turning back Jockana and Belton.

Double Pays $182.80.

It was Bird's Eye in the second race which boosted the double price to $182.80. Because Bird's Eye in three starts at the half miler had not been closer than thirteen lengths, he was a 21 to 1 shot in the wagering. This time he forced the pace set by Sweepogan, and when the leader stopped in the stretch Bird's Eye came on to whip Hydromella and Paplay for the upset victory. His price was $44.60 and he completed a personal double for Jocky Earl Dew, who piloted both winners.

Jocky Dew appeared on his way to a third victory astride Sonia M. in the fourth race, but Katherine G., the early leader, came again to take a length and a half decision over Sonia M., with Ultidue, the favorite, third.

HOLD SPRINGER SPANIEL TRIALS OVER WEEK-END

MAROONS MEET DE PAUW; SCENT 1ST 1938 VICTORY

Broadcast—WHIP.

Smarting from three successive drubbings by Big Ten foes, Chicago's Maroons will try to draw off some of the sting at the expense of DePauw university's fast little football team in Stagg field this afternoon. Starting the second half of their season, the Maroons seek their first victory since last November, when they downed Beloit.

Despite wholesale shifts in the lineup this week—perhaps because of it—the Maroons rule as favorites. Tommy Flinn, former Maroon quarter back who scouted DePauw in its last two games, rates the Greencastle, Ind., eleven as the equal of Bradley Tech, which battled the Maroons to a scoreless tie in the season opener at the Midway. But, Flinn believes, the Maroons have improved enough to beat DePauw.

Four Take New Positions.

Injuries and switches in assignments have cost the Maroons some of their hard won experience of the last four Saturdays. Four starters, Valorz at left end, Bex at left guard, Stearns at right tackle, and Nohl at full back, will be starting in these positions for the first time. But having scored on each of their Western conference opponents, the Maroons should be able to register against the Indiana collegians, it is felt.

De Pauw won seven of its eight games last year, and has won three out of five this season. The Tigers will be able to start eight lettermen, as against Chicago's four. The Greencastle squad is lighter than Bradley, but faster, Flinn reports. Little John Scott, from Hindsdale, where several Maroon players reside, is the chief individual threat.

See Nohl, Wasem for First Time.

Accompanied by its band, the De Pauw squad arrived in Chicago yesterday and worked out on Stagg field. The visitors are stopping at the Windermere hotel. Today's game will be their first against a Big Ten team since 1929.

Maroon fans will get their first real look at Karl Nohl, sophomore full back who is in for the injured Morton Goodstein, and their first glimpse this season of Bob Wasem, standout end last year who was ineligible until last week.

PORTER WHO WON $75,000 HAS CHAT WITH U.S. TAX MAN

Royal E. Spurlark, colored Pullman porter, who won $75,000 in the Irish hospital sweepstakes on Wednesday, returned to Chicago yesterday on his run on the North Western railroad from San Francisco. His son, Royal Jr., a student at Loyola law school, and Attorney William Temple met him in his home at 3641 Prairie avenue.

Spurlark said that Wednesday, the day of his windfall, also was the twenty-seventh anniversary of his employment as a porter. He plans to continue as a porter for three more years to become eligible for a pension. He will then travel through Illinois for several years, speaking for the colored Masons, for whom he is grand lecturer. At the end of that period he will retire to his birthplace in Belvidere and build a home.

Spurlark conferred with Nigel Campbell, chief deputy collector of internal revenue in Chicago, and he was told the government will take about $20,000 of the prize money as a tax.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 28.—One of the major intersectional games of the 1938 football season will be played on the banks of the Red Cedar here tomorrow before a sellout crowd of 27,000 in Michigan State's compact little Macklin stadium.

Michigan State's opponent will be Santa Clara, the dream team which Buck Shaw, once of Notre Dame, has led through twenty-two games with only one defeat. Santa Clara is publicized widely as the finest team on the coast, a sector that perennially supplies some of football's outstanding elevens.

The westerners' reputation makes tomorrow's game one of national importance. Opinion apparently is unanimous everywhere, except in East Lansing, that Santa Clara will win. But Michigan State is expected to determine, once and for all, as far as the skeptical east is concerned, whether Shaw has assembled just a good team or a great one, as advertised.

Surprise in Mind, Perhaps.

Pregame predictions of an easy Santa Clara triumph apparently are based on the fact that Michigan State was able to do no better than lose, 14 to 0, to Michigan, after beating Wayne university of Detroit. Its other victories have been over Illinois Wesleyan, West Virginia, and Syracuse, while Stanford and Arkansas are among Santa Clara's victims.

But along the Red Cedar today every one is quietly awaiting the arrival of Santa Clara from Battle Creek, Mich., where Shaw gave his squad its last workout and bedded it down for the night. Outsiders mingling with State partisans get the idea that perhaps Coach Charley Bachman and his club have some special surprises for the Californians, similar to those they sprang on a favored Syracuse eleven last week.

Bachman himself appeared very much at ease for a coach sending his team against an undefeated eleven for the second consecutive Saturday. He admits the loss of Gene Ciolek, a senior left half back from Michigan City, Ind., has been a hard blow. Ciolek is strapped to a hospital cot with a back injury suffered in the West Virginia game two weeks ago. A star in his own right, Ciolek had been counted upon to relieve John Pingel, the Mount Clemens sensation, who they say is every bit as good, if not better, than any back Santa Clara can send into the game.

Depend on Fighting Line.

State's hope lies in the fighting qualities of its line, a troupe of midgets compared to their adversaries of the morrow, who will attempt to spring Pingel loose for one or two of his long touchdown sprints.

The Spartans will center their attention on Richard Clark, a triple threat back, who is filling in for the injured Bruno Pelegrini at left half; William Anahu, an end from Honolulu; Ray McCarthy, a blocking quarter back; Al Wolff, a giant tackle, and Johnny Schiechl, the center. These are Santa Clara's stars.

Rodeo Performer Suffers Rib Injuries Under Steer

Jack Wade of Halkirk, Canada, thrown under a steer while attempting to wrestle the animal to the ground in the Chicago Stadium rodeo last night, was rushed unconscious to an emergency hospital, where examination showed several crushed ribs. A crowd of 10,000 saw the accident. Last night's results follow:

Bareback bronc riding—Won by George House, Silver City, N. M.
Calf roping—Won by Dave Campbell, Las Vegas, Nev.; Buck Standefer, Olton, Tex., second; Slim Whaley, Petrolia, Tex., third. Time, :27.4.

Oddo Defeats Williams; McDowell Whips Wiley

Al Oddo, Cicero welterweight, last night won a five round decision over Bernell Williams of Coulon's gymnasium in the Midwest Athletic club. Ed McDowell won from Bob Wiley in another five round match. Other results:

Charley Manna beat Walter Christy [3].
Joe Rossano stopped Larry Jackson [3].
Sam McCurry beat Art Travlis [3].
Don Manini stopped Joe Laba [3].
Ed Fala beat Dick Barton [3].

Wheaton Celebrates; Team Plays Carroll Eleven Today

Four hours of celebration in Wheaton last night, including a torchlight parade in which 3,000 students and alumni took part, prepared the way for today's homecoming football game between Wheaton college and Carroll college.

Wheaton has defeated Elmhurst and North Central and lost to De Kalb.

Northwestern College to Oppose Concordia Today

The Concordia college football team will play Northwestern college of Watertown, Wis., today in River Forest. Last year Concordia, which will celebrate homecoming today, defeated the Watertown eleven, 7 to 0. Each team has lost only one game this season, Concordia to Eureka and Northwestern to Lawrence.

Georgetown Beats Temple, 13-0, for Fifth Straight

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Georgetown's undefeated and untied team made it five straight tonight by beating Temple, 13 to 0, before 8,000 in Temple stadium. Joe Mellendeck plunged over from the 3 yard line in the third period and Lou Ghecas ran around end for thirteen yards for the second touchdown in the last quarter.

Yale Will Take On Dartmouth Before 70,000

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A capacity crowd of more than 70,000 was expected to provide the background for the latest football thriller between unbeaten, heavily favored Dartmouth and plucky Yale in the bowl tomorrow.

The contest probably will develop into a battle between Dartmouth's powerful running attack and Yale's aerial offense. The Big Green team from the Hanover hills has been undefeated in its last twenty games, but it has been tied three times during this period.

In New Haven Dartmouth was established a 12-5 favorite. A threat of rain worried both teams. Their attacks are geared for dry soil.

HARVARD, PRINCETON CLASH.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Harvard's football team, beaten four times this season, appeared to have a slight edge over Princeton as it prepared to launch the defense of its Big Three title tomorrow. It has been twenty-two years, however, since Harvard has defeated Princeton twice in a row.

The game will be the thirty-fourth renewal of a series that dates back to 1877. The attendance was not expected to go much above 30,000. Harvard, getting better with every defeat, was reported as greatly improved since last week's Dartmouth game. Princeton will be making its first appearance here under Coach Tad Wieman.

NAVY MEETS PENN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP)—An all day drizzle today put a damper on tomorrow's game between Pennsylvania and Navy in Franklin field, the twenty-third meeting in a gridiron rivalry started in 1888. Penn officials were hopeful, however, that the rain would not prevent a sellout crowd of 70,598. Nearly 68,000 tickets already have been sold.

Penn had a light signal drill in the rain this afternoon. The Navy team does not arrive until tomorrow.

CORNELL PLAYS COLUMBIA.

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—A crowd of 33,000 is expected to pack Baker field tomorrow afternoon to witness a continuance of the Columbia-Cornell football rivalry which goes back to 1899. Cornell, winner last year by 14 to 0, has scored thirteen victories to Columbia's nine, three games being ties.

With Capt. Jack Wright out with injuries and Bernie Sweeney, a guard, taking Wright's place at right tackle, the Columbia line is not at full strength. Cornell has had to fill a hole at right tackle where Sophomore Nick Drahos will replace the injured West.

BELOIT ELEVEN IS HOMECOMING FOE AT LAKE FOREST

The undefeated Lake Forest college football team will meet Beloit today in Lake Forest in its annual homecoming game.

Both teams are crippled by injuries. Lake Forest's full backs, Joe Hein and Bill Martinov, have leg injuries and are not expected to see action. Half Back McCallister and Guard Biolo are other casualties. Beloit has Plinske and Day, backs, and Campbell, an end, on the injured list.

Beloit has lost only one game this season, that to Ripon, 7 to 6, in the final minutes.

Ambers Stops Halaiko in 3d in Drive to Regain Title

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Lou Ambers, starting his campaign to regain the lightweight title, scored a technical knockout over Steve Halaiko of Auburn in the third round of a scheduled ten round fight tonight. Ambers weighed 137, Halaiko 142. A crowd of 2,000 watched Halaiko fight a game battle for two rounds before finally going down. It was the third meeting between the two—their first fight having ended in a draw and the second in a decision for Halaiko.

Minnesota and N. U. to Match Clean Records

Saturday's 13 to 0 triumph over Illinois and nonconference victories over Drake and Kansas State. The Wildcast feel that they found themselves on offense in the match with the Illini.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the Chicago weather bureau, yesterday proved, for the nonce, at least, that he is no killjoy. He promised an ideal football day. He said there would be some clouds over the arena, but no rain on it. The temperature will be around 55 degrees, he said.

This weather outlook caused the boys in the Purple counting room to stamp off several thousand extra tickets. These are for the seats beyond the end zones and, it is said, there will be enough to take care of the late and not too choosy customers. Among the 47,000 who have had their tickets for several days or weeks is former President Herbert Hoover, who will attend the game as guest of Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern.

Bonfire Pep Session.

The homecoming activities got under way last night with a bonfire pep session on Roycemore field, just north of Patten gymnasium. Coach Lynn Waldorf, Athletic Director Kenneth Wilson, and the players helped whoop things up.

This morning at 10:30 o'clock the annual homecoming parade will be staged through the streets of Evanston, featuring floats devised by the many campus organizations. In addition to the float competition for prizes, trophies will be awarded for lawn displays at the fraternity and sorority houses.

Duquesne Spots Detroit Six Points, Then Wins

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Duquesne spotted the University of Detroit six points tonight and then rammed across two second period touchdowns to accomplish a 14 to 6 victory as 8,943 fans looked on in Forbes field.

Loyola, Wheaton Meet Today in Cross-Country

The Loyola cross country team will meet the Wheaton harriers in a dual meet today in Wheaton.

Covelli Defeats Joyce; Avenges an Earlier Loss

Frank [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, obtained revenge for a recent defeat at the hands of Willie Joyce by winning the decision in ten rounds over his Gary foe in a return fight in White City last night.

It was Joyce's first defeat in fifteen professional appearances. The decision was not unanimous. Referee Tommy Gilmore and Judge William O'Connell voted for Covelli, but the other judge, Henry Frula, favored Joyce. Joyce weighed 130 pounds and Covelli 128½.

Joyce lost four of the first six rounds. In the fifth a right closed his left eye. Joyce rallied in the eighth and ninth. They slugged it out the full three minutes in the last round.

Gene Spencer, South Chicago junior lightweight, knocked out Jack Otey in the first round of a semi-final bout set for five rounds. Orlando Trotter, 1938 Illinois Athletic club light heavyweight champion, made his professional debut by boxing four rounds to a draw with Clarence Brown, former Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion. Trotter, at 173, was outweighed by sixteen pounds.

Other winners were Sammy Sullivan, Norman Roth, and Tony Motisi. Motisi beat Johnny Rock. Roth, who carried 147 pounds, whipped George Neison, and Sullivan, 126 pounds, conquered Babe Savino of Dallas, Tex. Each match went four rounds. The crowd totaled 1,447. Gross receipts were $1,204.

BARRED HORSE TRAINER WINS NEW HEARING

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Thomas Malone, Philadelphia horse trainer who was barred last spring by the Maryland racing commission in a ringer case, will get another chance for reinstatement. Judge Eugene O'Dunne today reversed action of the commission, and Malone will appear before the commissioners for a new hearing.

The commissioners also were told by Judge O'Dunne that it was their duty to establish who was committing perjury in the case and after the new hearing transmit their findings to the state's attorney for prosecution.

The case was brought before Judge O'Dunne by Malone, who said the commission barred him without a proper hearing. Malone was charged with racing Uallno as Bye Bye Will in a race at Pimlico on May 7.

OHIO STATE AND N. Y. U. TO CLASH IN POLO GROUNDS

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Thirty-four Ohio State football players arrived today to keep a date in the Polo grounds tomorrow with New York university. Ohio state rules a heavy favorite. Coach Francis Schmidt hardly waited to hang up his hat before denying that he was a hard hearted gentleman who deserved the nickname "Shut the Gates of Mercy."

"A lot of you fellows have got me all wrong!" he barked. "I don't like to run up big scores on opposing teams, and I never have. Why don't you say something about Bernie Bierman and his Minnesota steamrollers. I notice they don't pull any punches."

Schmidt was reminded of the last time his Buckeyes met N. Y. U.; that was in 1936 and Ohio State won by 60 to 0.

N. Y. U. Faces Trouble.

"N. Y. U. was a victim of its own mistakes," said Schmidt. "Mal Stevens' boys threw a lot of passes near their own goal and we intercepted them. I used every man on the squad before it was over.

"Anyway, nobody has to worry about my team running wild this season. We're too green. The two tackles are the only regulars of 1937 I can start. I'll be tickled to death if we beat N. Y. U. by one touchdown."

The New Yorkers need only point to the records to see that they're headed for squalls. Ohio State lost the opener to Southern California, 14 to 7, but then beat Indiana, 6 to 0; fought powerful Northwestern to a 0 to 0 deadlock, and mopped up with Chicago.

N. Y. U. Loses Twice.

N. Y. U., after winning its first two games against Maine and Rutgers, bogged down badly, losing to North Carolina and Lafayette on successive Saturdays.

CARNEGIE HERO MEDAL GOES TO ILLINOIS YOUTH

Award Made for Attempt to Save Two in Fire.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Carnegie hero fund commission today awarded a bronze medal to Julian W. Rice, 17 years old, of Chandlersville, Ill., for his bravery in trying to save a woman and child from kerosene flames at Chandlersville last March 10.

The kerosene exploded when Mrs. Catherine Rice, 22 years old, poured it onto a fire in a kitchen stove. Flames enveloped her and her son, Harrison, 3 years old. Young Rice, brother-in-law of Mrs. Rice, carried both outdoors, but both died of burns. Rice, who is a farm laborer, suffered serious burns himself, contracted pneumonia, and was bedfast for 12 weeks.

The award was one of twenty-seven announced by the commission in recognition of acts of heroism in various parts of the United States and Canada. Ten of those honored lost their lives. To two went silver medals, to twenty-five bronze.

PARENTS VANISH AFTER BOY DIES WITHOUT DOCTOR

Town Hall police and the coroner's office last night began investigation of the death of Joseph Ostfeld, 8 years old. He was found dead yesterday afternoon in his parents' room at 4327 Hazel avenue.

Mrs. Emily Bauman, the landlady, told police the boy had been sick for three days without medical attention. Summoned yesterday by the mother, Mrs. Helen Ostfeld, Mrs. Bauman said she found the boy dead.

Dr. Paul Schmit, the coroner's physician, after an examination, said the boy died of diphtheria and that medical care might have saved his life. Police could not find the mother or the father, Bernard, a taxicab company employé, for questioning. The four policemen on the case were ordered to report today to the health department for treatment.

SCHOOLS IN DAYTON CLOSE WHEN STATE FUNDS ARE LACKING

Dayton, O., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The Dayton city schools closed today because of a lack of money to maintain them. Some 34,000 pupils and 1,300 teachers and employés left the buildings for an indefinite period that may extend past Jan. 1.

A delegation of officials and business men urged Gov. Martin L. Davey in Columbus to summon the legislature to provide finances. Declining state revenues have caused a deficit of $17,000,000 in the state school system fund. The governor said he would not comment on the matter until after the Nov. 8 election.

Supt. Emerson Landis of the Dayton schools said that a two mill special levy on which Dayton voters are to pass next month would solve the school system's financial problems for next year but that state aid was needed to provide for operation of schools in November and December.

$67,000 STATE TAX ON BUCKINGHAM $4,278,000 ESTATE

Miss Kate Buckingham left so much of her $4,278,994 estate in charitable bequests that the state inheritance tax will be only $67,568. This was disclosed yesterday when the tax return was filed with Judge Edmund K. Jarecki in the County court.

The Art institute's share of the estate will be somewhat larger than originally estimated, $2,271,305. Miss Buckingham's principal holdings were listed: 1,500 shares American Telephone and Telegraph, $219,375; 5,920 shares Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, $488,400; 10,890 shares Texas corporation, $428,793; United States treasury notes, $313,989. Miss Buckingham, donor of Buckingham fountain, died last Dec. 14.

HIDE BOOK, TOO, IF YOU HIDE CASH IN PHONE BOOK

Boston, Mass., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Last Saturday night Joseph V. Harkins carried home fifteen $100 bills from a jewelry store where he worked. It was too late to bank the money and he thought it would be safer in his home than in an office vault. He looked around for a good hiding place, then decided that no one would think of the phone directory. So he slipped the neat little pile of bills between the leaves of the book. Monday he went to get the money and found that the telephone company had collected the old book and left a new one in its place. Since then Harkins and a corps of assistants have been hunting the money in thousands of phone books piled in a telephone company warehouse.

WINDOW ARTISTS FIND THAT SOAP COMES OFF HARD

Eight youngsters celebrating Halloween prematurely learned last night that soaping up store windows in Oak Park isn't so much fun with Sergt. Frank Lawrence around.

Sergt. Lawrence caught the eight—six boys and two girls—decorating a dozen shop windows in Oak Park avenue between South boulevard and Pleasant street. He told them to enjoy themselves, only they'd have to clean up afterwards.

And they did. With borrowed buckets and rags, and under Sergt. Lawrence's eye, the pranksters cleaned up every window they had decorated.

CALL SHANAHAN'S MIND UNSOUND ON WEDDING DAY

Two mental experts testified yesterday that David E. Shanahan was of unsound mind when he married Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan on his deathbed two years ago. They were Dr. Italo Frederick Volini, professor of medicine at Loyola university, and Dr. George W. Hall.

Eugene Kealy, attorney for the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, rested his case after the physicians testified. The Misses Flynn, cousins of Shanahan, are seeking to invalidate his marriage. Shanahan, veteran Illinois legislator, left his $850,000 estate to his widow. Judge George W. Bristow of Paris is hearing the case in Circuit court.

HIS MASTER IN JAIL, DOG PREFERS LIFE IN POUND TO COPS' CARE

Pal, half police dog and half collie, will be friendly with none but his master. The master, William Abbetmeier, 68 years old, was sentenced yesterday by Police Magistrate George Bosco of Melrose Park to serve forty-one days in the county jail for disorderly conduct. The Melrose Park police were willing to keep Pal until Abbetmeier was released. But Pal snapped and growled. Finally the police had to lock him up in the dog pound. There Pal will serve a sentence concurrent with that of his master.

WITHHOLD FUNDS OF 5 DOWNSTATE RELIEF DISTRICTS

November state relief funds were ordered withheld from five downstate relief administering units yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Chicago was granted $2,646,506 in state funds to meet an estimated need for the month of $3,549,560.

Alexander and Pulaski counties were denied November funds for technical violations of the corrupt practices act. Wabash township in Clark county was denied funds on the ground that it refused to furnish information requested by the commission. Funds for South Flannigan township [Hamilton county], which was only recently created, were held up pending an opinion from the attorney general on the legality of the township's creation.

Paul E. Gay, supervisor of Oakland township, Schuyler county, appeared before the commission, but was unable to account for $1,900 in relief funds. Funds for his township were ordered withheld until he accounts for the money or relinquishes his post as supervisor.

UTILITIES PLEDGE 2 BILLION EXPANSION WITH U. S AID

Move to Strengthen National Defense, Help Industry.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Amid a display of friendliness which left the capital guessing, the Roosevelt administration and fourteen large utilities announced today a far-reaching program to strengthen national defense and stimulate industry by expanding private power facilities.

Utility executives pledged themselves to place immediate orders for equipment to add some 1,330,000 horse power to existing generating capacity. They estimated that the "first stage," alone, of the expansion program would mean an outlay of $2,000,000,000 in the next two years. This, they said, would double the recent annual rate of capital expenditures by the industry.

Federal Loans Expected.

The government's share in the undertaking—the first concrete development from President Roosevelt's restudy of national defense needs—will be to extend aid where needed in refinancing securities through the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Whether this display of coöperation might lead to a truce in the struggle which the administration and some utilities have waged in the courts, in congress and elsewhere was not stated. Questions whether the development indicated better feeling were waved aside by Floyd L. Carlisle, spokesman for the utilities leaders who participated in today's announcement. He is president of the Consolidated Edison company of New York.

Some Leaders Cynical.

Some utilities men, cautioning against the use of their names for publication, passed the word that they were cynical and doubted that the program would prove to be as far-reaching as pictured.

An administration power survey group, at work since September, stressed that the primary objective was to increase power facilities of manufacturing centers which in war times would be called on for a heavy output of munitions.

At the close of the world war, the study disclosed, munitions manufacturing at some of these was near a breakdown because of a threatened power shortage.

Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of war and chairman of the administration survey group, emphasized that the new construction represented merely the first stage of a vast expansion program and expressed confidence other utilities would cooperate..

Will Place Large Orders.

"Definite commitments" were made by the utility men present today to place immediate orders for turbo-generators, boilers, and auxiliary equipment to provide 1,000,000 kilowatts of generating capacity.

Carlisle estimated this would involve an immediate expenditure of $117,000,000, followed later by some $240,000,000 for substations, transmission lines and other facilities. Other experts figured that 1,000,000 kilowatts was approximately one and one-third million horsepower.

The following were listed as the principal areas affected: Chicago, Baltimore-Washington, Birmingham, Boston, Bridgeport, Buffalo-Niagara Falls, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Rochester, St. Louis, and Schenectady.

War Functions Explained.

"It is understood that for war, or other emergency purposes, the government shall have first call upon the facilities of the industry, both public and private, and that in peacetime they will be coördinated for the purpose of making them quickly available in the event of war, or other emergencies," said the formal announcement.

"New private plants, when constructed, will be operated as a part of the companies' systems, replacing older and less efficient plants, which will be held for reserves and emergencies."

In its study, the committee said consideration was given to capacity available from municipal plants and from the TVA and other federal projects. None of these was included, however, in the initial expansion plans.

Companies Joining in Pledge.

Without disclosing details, the announcement said these companies had joined in the commitments: Consolidated Edison of New York, Boston Edison, North American, Commonwealth Edison, Columbia Gas and Electric, Electric Bond and Share, Engineers Public Service, Public Service Electric and Gas, Duquesne Light, American Water Works and Electric, Consolidated Gas and Electric, Niagara Hudson Power, Commonwealth and Southern, and United Gas Improvement.

Carlisle and others emphasized that the expansion program would be financed primarily by private industry. Some companies will do their own financing.

"The type of securities sold to the RFC presumably will be sold to the public as normal market channels are available," Carlisle asserted.

PLAN CHICAGO EXPANSION

Chicago's part in the utility companies' expansion and modernization plan will be a 25 million dollar construction program by the Commonwealth Edison group of companies during the next two years. This was reported last night by James Simp-

PRE-ELECTION UTILITY PLAN WAS EXPECTED

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Yesterday's announcement from Washington that the heads of electric utility companies and the representatives of the administration had gathered around a table and smoked the pipe of peace stirred much interest in financial circles.

Wendell Willkie, forced to sell to U. S., now can borrow to build.

It did not, however, surprise many people either in the utility business or in finance. The news had got around that yesterday's meeting in Washington was to be the "tipoff" of something akin to President Roosevelt's widely publicized "breathing spell for business" a few years back.

These rumors, together with a number of news dispatches in recent weeks about the attempt of the utility companies and the administration representatives to compose their differences, have had an effect on the stock market for weeks.

Comes Just Before Election.

The word among brokers was that "something is going to be done" before the election to make things look a little better for business and conceal—at least temporarily—the distrust with which the utilities and the administration have regarded each other for several years.

Stocks — particularly the utility shares—have reflected this sentiment. Prices have been rising. An example of traders' optimism over the near term outlook for speculative utility stocks is afforded by the recent strength in the price of Commonwealth and Southern common stock. Within a short time that stock has advanced from $1 per share to $2.25 per share—a rise of 125 per cent.

That yesterday's announcement of the love feast between the utility leaders and the administration was no surprise was borne out by the action of the market. Early yesterday utility stocks were again strong. After the announcement they not only did not shoot upward—they went down. It was the old story of the "good news" being out.

See Government Relenting.

As for the utility men, it is learned on good authority that their reactions to the lovemaking were quite mixed. The managements of holding companies have been battered so consistently by the administration during the last three years that they have come to a point where even a "breathing spell" would be a pleasant change.

Although they do not want to spoil the present aura of sweetness and brotherly love by saying so publicly, they admit privately that they are gratified by the fact that the administration has had to take a step in the opposite direction from its previous policy of building TVA's to ruin privately owned utilities.

The strange spectacle is now afforded of a government which has been wrecking the finances of private utilities actually turning around and offering to subsidize them.

Federal Subsidies Offered.

Wendell Willkie, head of Commonwealth and Southern, has been forced to sell out operating subsidiaries in the Tennessee valley to the government owned TVA because, unless he sold out at a sacrifice, the TVA would take over his consumers without paying for the business. Now, according to the new plan, operators like Willkie are urged to expand with the offer of government subsidies.

Willkie, being short of plant producing capacity because his companies' credit had been undermined by the tax subsidized competition from the TVA, it was learned yesterday, is willing to take government aid for the construction of 250,000 additional producing capacity.

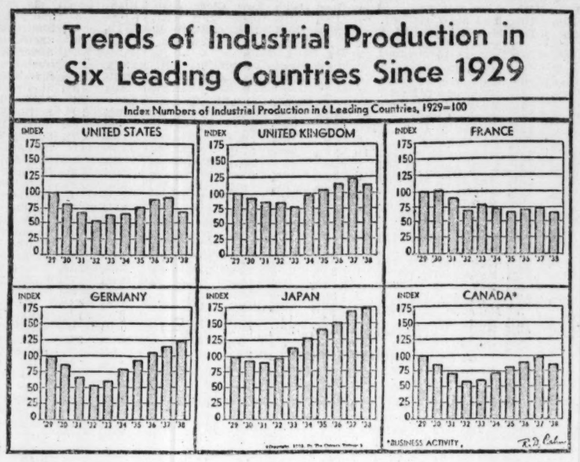
In fact, the much talked of "military" and "national defense" angles of the new program are regarded as a screen behind which the administration may subsidize financially weakened companies and still save face. The companies with good credit, it is understood, will build only the facilities they would have to build anyway to meet expanding consumer demand.

Will Prop Weak Concerns.

The companies that are unable to sell stocks and bonds to private investors are to be given a financial prop by the government in return for the construction of plants which, according to the administration, may be of emergency value in time of war. The plan is to pay them a "standby return" on such plants, covering interest, depreciation, and taxes, until such time as the companies require the output of the additional capacity to meet ordinary consumer demand.

Before qualifying for government handouts, however, the companies will have to submit to the terms of the "death" clause of the holding company act of 1935 as interpreted by the Securities and Exchange commission. Dec. 1 is the deadline for the submission by the holding companies of plans for the "integration" of their properties. Recent developments have indicated that practically all of the important ones will submit such plans.

Trends of Industrial Production in Six Leading Countries Since 1929



Illinois Barge Trafic Is Cut by Low Water

Barge operators said yesterday that low water is interfering seriously with navigation on the Illinois waterway.

The water now is at the lowest stage this year, measuring only 8 feet on the gauge at Peoria. At flood stage the water level at Peoria is 18 feet. Still lower water is expected and barge men are preparing to cut down their loads.

The series of locks and dams which the federal government is constructing in order to maintain a constant 9 feet minimum depth in the waterway will not be in full operation until early in 1939. Meanwhile, the barge operators say, they face difficulties in their operations during the remainder of the present season.

Several Barges Grounded.

Lynn Childs of the Joliet office of the Ohio River company said that several of the company's barges have grounded in low water. No serious damage has been incurred, he said. It has been possible to pull the barges off the shoals without shifting the cargos. Other operators on the waterway have had similar experiences. In some cases it has been necessary to lighten the barges before they were freed.

The Ohio River company hauls coal for the Commonwealth Edison company from Havana, Ill., to Chicago. The coal originates in southern Illinois and is brought to Havana by rail. The company has brought 100,000 tons to Chicago this month.

Will Reduce Coal Cargoes.

Childs said the barges have been carrying 1,300 tons each trip, drawing about 8½ feet of water. The company plans, he said, to cut the loads by about 50 tons, reducing the draft to 7½ feet.

The worst spot in the waterway for the barges is in upper Peoria lake, Childs said.

"There is not enough water coming down the river to keep the water level," he said. "There has been a lack of rain recently."

Construction work on the lock and dam at Peoria is virtually complete and preparations are being made to remove the temporary coffer dam. The machinery for operating the project, however, has not been installed. Engineers at the United States engineering office here said the contracts call for completion of the work by the end of this year.

Designed for Nine Foot Water.

The Peoria development is designed to maintain the 9 foot water level in the upper waterway. The federal engineers said the dam and lock will prevent a recurrence of abnormally low water next year.

The Sanitary district of Chicago has been restricted in diversion of water from Lake Michigan since 1930. Curtailment of the flow has been an important factor in the lower water level on the waterway. Prior to 1930 the district was taking 10,000 cubic feet of water per second. This was cut to 6,500 feet between July 1, 1930, and Dec. 31, 1935.

Since the end of 1935 the diversion has been limited to 5,000 feet per second. Under the United States Supreme court's final order in the diversion case, made in 1935, the flow must be further curtailed to a maximum of 1,500 feet by Dec. 1, 1938.

Control Works Made Necessary.

The court's order made necessary the construction of the series of dams and locks along the waterway, and the control works and navigation locks at the mouth of the Chicago river.

Hunters report that the lack of water in the marshy land along the Illinois river is making it difficult to obtain ducks this year. The ducks are reported to be plentiful but it is not possible to use boats in districts that have been good hunting areas in previous years.

The United States engineers here say that they have received many complaints from duck hunters, but there is nothing that they can do immediately to remedy the condition.

TWO APARTMENT PROJECTS GIVEN FHA'S APPROVAL

South Side Buildings to Cost $775,000.

BY AL CHASE.

The Federal Housing administration in Washington yesterday placed its final approval on two more Chicago apartment projects. Both will be on the south side and will represent a total reported investment of about $775,000. Together they will have 150 apartments. Work is scheduled to start within a few days on both with the hope of having them ready for May 1 occupancy next year.

The larger of the two projects comprises six separate buildings, containing twenty flats each of three, four, and five rooms. It will cost $600,000.

Location of Units.

The units are to be located at 8555, 8600, and 8601 Ingleside avenue, 8555 Maryland avenue, 8601 Drexel avenue, and 935 East 85th street. Jacob Lewis is architect.

The 8600 Ingleside Avenue Building corporation and Carl F. Fortner are sponsors of the project. Glatt & Price also are interested in the project. The FHA has approved a $375,000 insured mortgage covering the six buildings. Each of the units will be three stories in height.

Another Project Approved.

The other project given final FHA approval will be at 7524-38 Yates avenue. This project was first announced in October, 1937, and again in April, 1938. It will contain thirty apartments of four and five rooms. Emil J. Minx is architect.

The mortgage originally sought was for $145,000. This was reduced by the FHA to $130,000. The project, originally scheduled to cost $290,000, now will cost $175,669, it was said.

According to E. M. Feinstein, engineer in charge of construction, work will be started next Monday, with completion set for May 1, 1939.

WHITNEY REPORT IS HORRIFYING, SAYS ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—President Roosevelt today described the Securities and Exchange commission report on Richard Whitney's collapse an interesting document—but rather horrifying.

He said that it shows certain practices which every one, including the stock exchange, is trying to prevent in the future. This was the first of three reports on the case, he indicated. Later it was learned from SEC officials that the second part, containing reform recommendations, will be issued early next week. A third part will contain the SEC's conclusions on the case.

The President announced the elevation of John W. Hanes, former New York broker and foe of Richard Whitney from assistant secretary to undersecretary of the treasury. This had been expected for some time. Hanes succeeds Roswell Magill, who resigned to return to teaching at Columbia university law school.

Andrews Says He Erred in Store Wage Act Ruling

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage hour administrator, reversed himself today and said that if more than 50 per cent of a department store's business crossed state lines the store was subject to the wage hour act. He said that he had erred in stating previously that if 20 per cent of a store's business were in interstate commerce it would come under the law.

Everyday Economics

Overdrafts.

The "overdraft" is a method used by companies to obtain capital for financing current operations for a short period of time. It is useful in businesses of a highly seasonal nature. The method is common in Europe, but is not used in this country.

Under the practice banks allow customers to write checks against their accounts beyond the exhaustion point—that is, the bank honors checks when there are no funds in the account. This really amounts to a loan by the bank, and the customer pays interest on this kind of borrowing as if it were a loan.

State and federal banking laws in the United States prohibit the overdraft.

In European practice banks will permit overdrafts up to a certain limit, and the customer will pay a nominal rate on this limit, say one-half of one per cent, whether the overdrafts are used or not.

Sometimes the "secured overdraft" is used. In this the customer protects the bank against possible loss through the deposit of collateral to cover the overdraft loan.

SELF-RULE UNIT OF INVESTMENT MEN APPROVED

Bankers Make Plans for Organization.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Approval of a self-regulatory organization of over the counter securities dealers to function under the Maloney act was announced today by the Invetment Bankers Association of America. Plans for the development of the new organization were discussed by Francis A. Bonner, Chicago investment banker, and George C. Mathews, member of the Securities and Exchange commission.

The approved organization is the Investment Bankers Conference, Inc., an outgrowth of the old NRA "fair practice" code. Plans drafted by joint policy committees of the I. B. C. and I. B. A. call for some changes in the I. B. C. to permit its registration with the Securities and Exchange commission.

Under SEC Supervision.

The Maloney bill provided for setting up a self-regulatory organization of the nations 6,000 over the counter dealers to operate under the supervision of the SEC. The I. B. A. is now expected to stay in the background as a working factor in the development of the controling body, and the I. B. C. is expected to take the initiative in getting reorganized.

The organizing work is in the hands of a special drafting group of ten members, whose appointment was announced by the I. B. C. in Washington today.

Bonner, partner of the investment banking firm of Blair, Bonner & Co., Chicago, now on leave of absence as special adviser to the SEC, presented to the association today a broad outline of the task involved in reorganizing the I. B. C.

Bonner Explains Task.

"We are trying to set up an organization which has taken the stock exchanges 146 years to achieve. The task is to set up for the over the counter market an orderly 'exchange,' with a 'floor' 3,000 miles long, with a membership, in part, unfutored in even the rudiments of age old common law or the primer of sound conduct of their own daily business. In large part our initial task is educational."

Earlier today the railroad securities committee of the I. B. A. issued a report urging three steps to meet the railroad problem. One suggestion was for a new system of rate making, known as the agreed charge plan, whereby roads may make special rates with shippers who agree to give the roads a certain amount of business.

Another proposal was that roads be permitted to set up a nation-wide trucking service, jointly owned, to give the roads more flexibility in service. The third suggestion was that railway securities holders form an effective organization.

CHICAGO JOBS, PAY ROLLS RISE IN SEPTEMBER

September employment increased 2.6 per cent over August among 4,040 companies in Chicago, Martin P. Durkin, director of the Illinois department of labor, said yesterday. Wages paid last month by these companies increased 2.8 per cent over the preceding month.

This improvement was shared to a large extent by 4,379 establishments in the Chicago metropolitan area, Durkin said. They reported gains in September of 2.6 per cent in jobs and 2.8 per cent in wages over August.

New Hudson Model

New Hudson Six coupe for 1939. Mounted on a 118 inch wheelbase, the car has a 96 horsepower engine.

HUDSON OFFERS THREE NEW LINES OF 1939 MODELS

Three new lines of Hudson cars for 1939, featuring new styling and numerous engineering refinements, were announced yesterday by William R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales of the Hudson Motor Car company. These are the 85 horsepower Hudson 112 in the lowest price field, the 96 horsepower Hudson Six, and a new "Country Club" series in the moderate price field with both six and eight cylinder motors giving respectively 101 and 122 horsepower.

Tracy pointed out that in the case of the Hudson 112 there are included as standard equipment twenty-seven items that were not on last year's lowest price models.

Items included as standard equipment are remote control gear shift, hand operated and mounted on the steering wheel post; larger tires, bumper guards both front and rear, dash locking hood, headlight beam indicator, and others.

CHICAGO STORE SALES CLOSER TO 1937 LEVEL

Sales of Chicago department stores in the week ended Oct. 22 were only 12.6 per cent below those of the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said yesterday. In the preceding week they were 21 per cent under those of the like 1937 period.

The volume of sales in the week ended Oct 22 was influenced favorably by the cooler, more seasonable weather.

Auto Output Increases to New Peak for Year

Production of automobiles and trucks in the United States and Canada this week was estimated yesterday by Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., at 73,335 units, a new peak for 1938. The total was 68,360 in the preceding week and 20,155 in the like 1937 week.

U. S. GETS FIRST GOLD CUSTOMER IN MORE THAN YEAR—IT'S SIAM

The first buyer of American gold in more than a year appeared in the market yesterday. It was Siam. At the same time additional gold engagements for American accounts were made in England.

The Siamese legation in Washington, D. C., said large quantities of Siamese silver coin were being shipped to San Francisco for sale to the United States. Proceeds will be used to buy gold from the treasury.

Siam, it was understood, has withdrawn much coin from circulation, and is using more paper money for which it wants a gold reserve. The silver sent here will be bought by the treasury at 43 cents an ounce, the price which has prevailed for foreign silver since last March.

Although the Siamese legation had no estimate of the total amount of silver involved, the commerce department reported that $9,791,285 of silver arrived last week in San Francisco.

The New York federal reserve bank announced that $1,505,000 of gold had been engaged in England for shipment to New York.

Changes in foreign currencies in terms of the dollar yesterday were almost negligible.

WHEAT RECEDES ON PROSPECT OF RAINS IN WEST

Bearish sentiment predominated in the grain markets yesterday. Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade declined about 1 cent at the extreme. Selling was attributed to prospects that part of the dry winter wheat belt might receive rain overnight. Closing trades were at losses of ⅛ to ¾ cent a bushel.

Commission houses and professional speculators sold corn futures. Closing trades were at losses of ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel.

Cash corn showed independent weakness despite small country offerings for deferred shipment.

PROFITS MOUNT FOR HERSHEY, WRIGHT AERO.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—Heavy selling in the last hour broke the stock market today. Leaders lost fractions to 3 points. Industrial and utility stocks were prominent in the decline, but rails were strong. The selling was attributed to the desire of traders to adjust positions for the week-end.

Announcement of national defense plans, with emphasis on power production, had little effect on power and light shares. Many of them had risen to new peaks before the news was made public. They closed lower. Observers said the plan was known in Wall street for some time. time.

Steels, aviations, coppers, and motors were soft spots in the industrials. Early fractional declines were expanded as the session progressed.

Losses reaching to two points were recorded against United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Chrysler, General Motors, American Smelting, Anaconda, International Nickel, Boeing, United Aircraft, and Douglas Aircraft.

Electric equipment issues, which are expected to share in the big defense utility program, also wilted. General Electric eased ½ point, Allis Chalmers lost 1 point, and Westinghouse slumped 3 points.

Railroad issues ruled firm throughout. The group reputedly was buoyed by hopes that President Roosevelt's rail wage committee, in its report to be issued tomorrow, would recommend wage reductions.

Losses in the oils ranged up to 1 point, with Standard Oil and Texas corporation weakest spots.

New York Bonds.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Railroad bonds made new gains today. These carried the Associated Press averages of 20 leading issues to the highest level in more than three months.

Utility loans were not notably stimulated by the Washington announcement of a big program for expansion of electric power facilities for national defense, but the corporate list was generally firm.

United States government loans remained in a narrow range, closing 3-32ds lower to 2-32ds higher. The foreign list was animated by a 29¼ point jump in Czechoslovakia 8s of '52 over the previous sale recorded two weeks ago. The loan closed at 79½.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks continued irregular yesterday in a narrow trading range. Turnover of 30,000 shares compared with 38,000 on Thursday.

Although there were 46 declines and only 25 advances, most volume leaders closed higher or unchanged. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed off 0.05 at 11.86.

Electric Household, the trading favorite, gained ⅝ to 5¼. Commonwealth Edison advanced ⅛ to 27½. Central and South West moved up to 2¼, a gain of ⅛. During the day seven issues touched new highs for the year.

Bank Stocks.

Three leading Chicago bank stocks lost ground yesterday. First National bank shares slipped $3 to close at $225 bid, $229 asked. Northern Trust company stocks eased $2 at $518 bid, $525 asked. Continental Illinois National bank closed $1 lower at $76 bid, $78 asked. Other leaders were unchanged.

1 IN 4 GROWERS TO STORE CORN, GET U. S. LOANS

Look for 400,000,000 Bu. to Go Under Seal.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

About twenty-five per cent of the corn grown in the middle west commercial area this year will be put under government seal and used as collateral on federal loans. This estimate is based on views of farmers that half the growers in the area are eligible for loans and that half of these will borrow money from the federal treasury.

Estimates indicate there will be in the neighborhood of 400 million bushels of 1938 corn sealed under the government's loan program. The borrowing will be much heavier on the crop this year than last.

Chance for Good Profit.

Comparatively few farmers borrowed government money on their 1937 corn. There were 49,016 who got loans on 47 million bushels. Many more are expected to follow the plan this year because they are given a chance to take part in a new and attractive business of "selling" to Uncle Sam through loans the crop they grew and then buying neighbors' corn with government capital to feed at a substantial profit. They are not allowed to buy corn and store it for use in obtaining a federal loan.

Washington officials join in predicting that a much larger proportion of growers will apply for loans this year.

The 1937 corn crop totaled more than 2 billion, 644 million bushels, and the reserve supply on farms was slightly more than 60 million bushels last year. Farmers needed the corn to feed and there was little difference between the loan rate and the farm price.

But this year the situation is strikingly different. The crop and farm reserve aggregate more than 2 billion, 811 million bushels, the largest supply since 1932-'33.

They Seal Instead of Sell.

Farmers say they are encouraged to seal corn this fall and winter because they have reason to expect the loan rate on 1938 corn to be substantially higher than the farm market price. Then, too, they have a greater surplus of corn this fall than last and some will need all of it for feed. Many, too, have been reluctant to buy feeder cattle, prices of which they consider high.

The "selling" and buying plan already is being tried out by a few farmers who recently received money on 1937 corn. They are now able to "sell" their 1937 corn to the government through loans at about 20 cents a bushel above the farm market price.

Lee Gentry, head of the Illinois AAA, estimates that of the 7 million bushels of 1937 corn sealed in Illinois, approximately 3 million bushels already have been taken over by the government. Corn was the sole collateral back of the loans.

R. C. A. DECLARES DIVIDEND OF 20 CENTS A SHARE

Second Common Payment in Firm's History.

A common stock dividend of 20 cents a share, the second in the nineteen year history of the corporation, was authorized yesterday by directors of the Radio Corporation of America. They also declared regular quarterly payments on the corporation's senior issues. All are payable Dec. 14 to stockholders of record Nov. 7.

The only other dividend on the common stock was paid on Dec. 31, 1937. This initial dividend also amounted to 20 cents a share. At that time directors of the company ordered that all arrears on the preferred stocks be paid up.

Preferred disbursements authorized yesterday were the usual 87½ cents on the $3.50 preferred stock and the regular $1.25 on the $5 "B" preferred.

Curtis Publishing Omits.

Directors of the Curtis Publishing company voted to omit the dividend on the $7 preferred stock usually paid Jan. 2. Omission of the dividend brings the arrears on the stock to $14 a share. In the two preceding quarters 25 cents a share was paid, and in 1937 a total of $5.25. The last payment on Curtis common was 50 cents a share on June 6, 1932.

Hancock Oil Company of California placed both its class A and class B stocks on a $2 annual basis. Directors ordered payment of quarterly dividends of 50 cents a share on each stock and also extra payments of 25 cents a share on each. All are to be paid Dec. 1 to holders of record Nov. 15. Heretofore the two issues were on a $1 annual basis.

Philip Morris.

Investors' Guide: Kindly send me a report on Philip Morris common stock. I have noticed that the company's business has been expanding. —R. B. M.

Answer: This year Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., Inc., has moved up to fourth place among the nation's cigaret producers. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, sales jumped 45 per cent to $55,613,000 and net income reached a new peak. For the first six months of the current fiscal year net income was slightly ahead of last year's record level, amounting to $3,158,000, compared with $3,136,000 in the corresponding 1937 months.

The Philip Morris, English blend, sales of which have been booming since 1934, has accounted largely for the expanded business. Higher priced cigarets include Marlboro, English Ovals and Oxford Blues. The company's leading 10 cent brand is Paul Jones. Smoking tobaccos account for a negligible portion of sales and profits.

The rapid growth of sales and rising profits is apparent in the following table:

1938	$55,613,000	$5,663,000	$10.91
1937	38,407,000	3,574,000	6.88
1936	26,876,000	2,408,000	5.80
1935	15 633,000	1,557,000	3.75
1934	5,526,000	504,000	1.21

The company's highest earnings before the depression were made in 1929, when net income amounted to $478,000.

Capital to finance the rapidly growing business has been obtained from the sale of stock. In 1936 holders of the 415,465 common shares then outstanding were given the right to buy one new share at $50 for each old share held. In June of this year the company sold 77,873 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock at $100 a share. All but 748 shares were taken by common stockholders.

Resulting capitalization consists of the above preferred shares and 519,151 shares of $10 par common stock. The preferred is convertible into common on a share for share basis. A stock dividend of one-half share of common for each share held, payable Nov. 15, will increase the common stock to 778,776 shares.

Cash dividends on the common stock so far this year have amounted to $6.75 a share. In 1937, $4.50 was paid, and in 1936, $1.50. A rate of $1 annually was maintained from 1929 through 1935.
